Big Alky Ring Sells in Hinterlands.

...government yesterday ...war on the Capone gang ...provinces, ...ing 61 mem... ...of a syndi... ...whose million... ...of alcohol in ...part of wets ...dry and anti... ...from Chicago. Four ...comprised ...indictment for ...conspiracy went ...Illinois, ...Indiana, south ...Minnesota.

"This indictment," said Assistant United States Attorney Daniel Anderson, "shows what the rural gin belts of surrounding states have contributed to the wealth and power of the Capone gang. The indictment of Al Capone and his 68 henchmen in a $60,000,000 a year beer business rests squarely upon Chicago, but the present indictment places equal responsibility for the iniquitous gang on the outsiders who scoff at Chicago."

Big Tribute on Every Gallon.

Included among the defendants are four of the chief Capone alky cookers in the western suburbs and three alleged Capone proconsuls, one for Illinois and two for Iowa. At the wholesale price of $1.25 which the syndicate received for its alcohol, the gross sales during the four year period of the conspiracy would be $13,000,000. Federal investigators declared the Capone gang collected tribute of one dollar on every gallon.

The 4,000,000 gallons of alcohol, which is here declared to have been the finest obtainable, would be equivalent to 8,000,000 cases or 64,000,000 pints of gin, enough to render the entire population of the United States unconscious. Most of the alky was consumed in Illinois and Iowa. Prosecutor Anderson said the wholesalers had many customers in South Dakota and Minnesota, who trucked the booze into their states by the thousands of gallons.

Called "Greased Highway."

Mr. Anderson, who presented the indictments to the grand jury, asserted that leaders of the conspiracy had called the Lincoln highway was the "greased highway" from Chicago to the Missouri river with the exception of Iowa. This meant, he said, that state officials could be reasoned with to permit safe conduct for the trucks transporting the booze.

Judge Wilkerson, who received the indictment, returned before Federal Judge John P. Barnes, who increased the total number of alleged conspiracies indicted on booze charges in the last two weeks to 129. Barnes himself was indicted with a total of 68 and he has pleaded guilty to this conspiracy, as well as to income tax dodging, and is to be sentenced by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson on Tuesday.

Target Aurora Supply.

While the city of Aurora, prosecutors declared was the main center and chief operating source of the so-called middle west alky conspiracy. This group, headed by Pro-Consul Mike Meyers, produced the finest wildcat distilleries ever seen by the special prohibition agents under W. E. Bennett, who handled the investigation.

Gangs Split Middle West Trade.

The Aurora gang allegedly sold its alky to purchasers throughout the entire west, their clients having extended as high as twenty-four, one of whom was good for an order of from 5,000 to 10,000 gallons per month, according to economic conditions. This group, the true bill alleges, manufactured at least 50,000 gallons of alcohol a month when times were slack and at least 100,000 gallons a month during good times. Besides Meyers, the Aurora gang included his brothers Joe and David, Max Dell, Joseph Rothstein, and Ted Arnold.

The second provincial group indicted had its headquarters in Waterloo, Ia., and Richard Price was the chief. They are alleged to have produced alky—from 3,000 to 5,000 gallons a month—from the Aurora plant and distributed it in various parts of Iowa, including Des Moines, Fort Dodge, Charles City, Cedar Rapids, and other towns. They maintained a fleet of high powered automobile

Six Drownings Mark Day in Chicago.

110 Tops the List!

Following are cities which recorded temperatures above 100 degrees yesterday:

Red Wing, Minn.	106	Carbondale, Ill.	102
Neodosha, Kas.	106	Miles C'y, Mont.	102
Waterloo, Ia.	106	Davenport, Ia.	102
Huron, S. D.	104	Dubuque, Ia.	102
Galesburg, Ill.	104	Red Bluff, Cal.	102
Pana, Ill.	104	St. Paul, Minn.	101
Sterling, Ill.	104	Eau Claire, Wis.	101

A dozen cities reported an even 100 degrees as the maximum temperature.

The June heat wave, which has prevailed now for four days in the central west, last night had overspread almost the entire United States. Little hope for any relief today or tomorrow in Chicago or the central states is held out by the official forecasts.

In fact, Meteorologist C. A. Donnel was of the opinion that, if the wind held from the southwest today, the maximum of 95, established at 5 p. m. in Chicago yesterday, may be surpassed. He added that there seemed less likelihood of winds off the lake than there was yesterday.

Lake Breeze a Boon.

The lake breeze proved a boon for the city for about three hours around noon time. From a minimum of 79 at dawn the mercury climbed to 92 at 11 a. m. Then the breeze, veering to the east, swept in and there was a fall to 78 degrees at noon. At 1 p. m. it was 80 and at 2 p. m. 85. The upward march then continued until 5 o'clock. The descent was so slow that at 10 p. m. the reading was 91.

Through the corn belt temperatures were so high that farmers were reported adopting the old custom of the Spanish siesta i. the hot hours and working in the moonlight. Wheat was being harvested in Fulton county under this system.

Even in California extremely high temperatures were recorded, Fresno having 100 degrees, Los Angeles 90, San Bernardino and Pasadena 97.

Victims of the Heat.

Several Chicagoans died, apparently from the heat, and there were six drownings of persons living in the city and the suburbs. The Chicago victims of heat and from heart disease, presumably brought to a fatal end by the heat, were:

TURNES, FREDERICK J., 48 years old, 534 Brompton avenue, died in Harris Trust and Savings bank, where he was a senior clerk.

Drowning Victims.

Those who lost their lives by drowning were:

BOBO, NICHOLAS, 11 years old, 1448 South Rockwell street, at 12th street beach.

TURFURST, BERNARD, 7 years old, of Lemont, in Cradle lake, 123d street and Will-Cook road, Lemont township.

The Wilmette fire department was called to revive Joseph Richter, 10 years old, 1616 Crain street, Evanston, after he had been dragged ashore unconscious after sinking in a clay pit near Isabella street and Ridge road, Evanston.

Hundreds of heat prostrations were reported from the inland sections when the mercury climbed to heights of 100 or more. In Iowa alone there were twelve deaths attributed to the heat.

Live stock also suffered severely in Illinois and the states to the west.

A SLIGHT REARRANGEMENT WILL BE NECESSARY

HOW DO FOLKS KEEP COOL? WELL, THE LAKE IS THE BIGGEST HELP

Lake Michigan proved to be the most popular antidote for Chicagoans against the heat spell, a random survey showed last night. Motoring came second, and "staying in" third. Cold drinks, including the prohibited amber brew also found great favor as a cooling remedy. Picking telephone numbers at random, a reporter called a number of families. Here is what the folks reported they were doing to keep cool.

John Landis 5533 Hyde Parke boulevard investment banker.—Mrs. Landis and the children Hope and Gene, stayed at the 51st street beach. At night the children were sprayed with the garden hose by the chauffeur. I sat in the garden and sipped iced tea.

Mrs. Andrew J. Mulcahy, 1514 North Shore avenue.—I went swimming. The relief was all right at the time. This evening I drank a cooling drink. Both the swimming and the drink were effective.

Frank J. Marshall, 954 North Leamington avenue.—My family and I went motoring. The drive helped cool us somewhat.

Mrs. Sally Steger, 2048 Cleveland avenue.—I remained at home all day, and sat at a window. In the evening our neighbors sprinkled their lawn, and the breeze carried the spray through our window. This was quite cooling.

Mrs. Paul Corkell, 1627 East 84th street.—My children, Alice and Fred, and myself, stayed at the Edgewater Beach hotel beach. We found the lake very refreshing. We also motored.

Miss Mary Sayre, 7429 Colfax street. —I washed my hair and then went automobile riding. Thus I kept cool and had my hair dried at the same time.

J. P. ARRESTED AS HE SPEEDS TO TRY SPEEDERS

Justice of the Peace Charles Glass of Highwood may have been on an important mission yesterday but to Motorcycle Policeman Alfred Lindenmeyer of Lake Forest he was just another fellow in a hurry.

"Pull over," commanded the policeman.

"You see, it's like this——" started Glass, but he was cut off.

"Tell it to the judge," replied Lindenmeyer.

Police Magistrate Edwin Burgess was in a more receptive mood.

"You see," explained Justice Glass, "I was in Waukegan when I remembered that I had only twenty minutes to get back to Highwood and hear some speeding cases."

"And he was going 55 miles an hour," said Lindenmeyer.

World Flyers Reach Irkutsk, Dash on Again

BULLETIN.

IRKUTSK, Siberia, June 27.—[Saturday.]—(AP)—Resuming their dash around the world, Wiley Post and Harold Gatty hopped off here at 2:10 p. m. today [2:10 a. m. Chicago daylight time] for Blagovéschensk, Siberia, 850 miles eastward.

IRKUTSK, Siberia, June 27 (Saturday.)—(AP)—Wiley Post and Harold Gatty landed here at 11:55 a. m. today [11:55 p. m. Chicago time Friday], completing a flight of 1,050 miles from Novosibirsk and another leg of their round the world flight.

The flyers announced they would depart as soon as their monoplane, the Winnie Mae, had been refueled.

Post and Gatty, when they landed here, had completed 8,000 miles of their flight in about three days 19 hours.

Fly Over Bleak Siberia.

In their flight from Novosibirsk Post and Gatty crossed a portion of bleak Siberia.

Leaving Moscow at 5 a. m. [10 p. m. Chicago time], the American flyers apparently followed the Trans-Siberian railroad over the Ural mountains into Asia and thence eastward.

The next word from them followed their landing at Novosibirsk. The hop to Novosibirsk, estimated at 1,450 air miles, had been made at an average speed of about 140 miles an hour.

Denmark Hails Ocean Flyers.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

COPENHAGEN, June 26.—Holger Hoiriis and Otto Hillig were the heroes of Denmark tonight. The two completed their trans-Atlantic flight, which nearly ended in disaster, at 1:10 p. m. today [7:10 a. m. Chicago time], when they landed their monoplane Liberty at Copenhagen after a 240 mile hop from Bremen, Germany.

They were escorted into Copenhagen by a fleet of Danish army and navy planes. A roar of welcome from 60,000 throats greeted the flyers as they stepped from their ship.

Among the first to welcome the ocean airmen was the mother of Hoiriis, pilot on the flight. She had not seen her son since he emigrated to the United States six years ago. A throng of 100,000 persons was packed in front of the city hall this afternoon when Hillig and Hoiriis, after a journey in a flower bedecked automobile through the streets of the city, were officially welcomed by Mayor Hedebel, a former Chicagoan.

While the flyers were acknowledging the plaudits of crowds beneath their hotel window tonight King Christian sent a special messenger to Hoiriis, knighting him.

WOMAN AMNESIA VICTIM FOUND IN HUBBARD WOODS

A woman about 32 years old, apparently a victim of amnesia, was found walking in Sheridan road in Hubbard Woods about 3:45 o'clock this morning by a motorist, Harry Bowl, 717 Glencoe avenue, Highland Park, who took her to the Highland Park police station. The woman was unable to remember her name or where she lived. She is about 5 feet 5 inches tall and weighs about 125 pounds, the police said. Her hair is dark brown, tinged with gray. She wore a white dress and white hat and a tan coat. In her purse was $1.22.

Woman Sees Her 2 Robbers on Beach; They Are Seized

Samuel Losurdo, 21 years old, 2075 De Kalb street; John D'Arci, 19 years old, 833 Loomis street, and Mark Chiodo, 21 years old, 2453 Arthington street, were arrested on the Oak street beach in their bathing suits last night after Losurdo and D'Arci had been recognized by Mrs. Verna Racikowski, owner of a cigar store at 1549 Blackhawk street, as the two youths who had robbed her in her store of $30 two weeks ago.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WINNIPEG, Man., June 26.—Fourteen Winnipeg policemen were injured tonight in a battle with communists, who attacked them with stones. The mob had gathered to see Canada's minister of labor depart for the east after he had surveyed the unemployment situation in the west.

One Is Missing, Three Saved in Lake Boat Fire

One man is believed to have been burned to death or drowned, and three other persons were forced to put out on a raft when the Aloha, large motor cruiser, caught fire late last night in the lake a half mile off the Edgewater Beach hotel. An explosion, which scuttled the boat, followed the fire.

The supposed victim of the fire is Capt. John Mattson, 44 years old, of 4934 North Kedzie avenue, married and father of two sons. He was still missing at 7 o'clock this morning and relatives feared he had been lost.

Mason Reported Aboard.

The identities of the passengers on the cruiser were not learned. One report, however, included the name of Lowell B. Mason of Oak Park, former state senator. Neither he nor his family could be reached early this morning, but it was said that they had left for the dunes on Tuesday.

Shortly before 10 o'clock last night, Capt. Mattson took aboard three prospective purchasers of the Aloha. Two of them were women.

When the cruiser was opposite the Edgewater Beach hotel fire broke out amidships. The burst of flame was sighted on shore by thousands of beach swimmers, motorists, and apartment dwellers. Within a short time five speedboats of the Rapid Water Transit company, plying between the hotel wharf and various shore line points, started to the rescue.

Three Put Off in Raft.

As the first speedboats neared the blazing vessel their pilots saw a raft thrown overboard. The women and a man jumped upon it and commenced paddling their way southwestward to shore. One of the pilots inquired if any one was still aboard.

"The skipper is still aboard," shouted back the man on the raft. "He's at the wheel."

No one on the raft was able to tell where the fuel supply of the Aloha was situated, and the speedboats and other motorcraft held off for fear of being caught in a second explosion. Meanwhile the three persons on the raft made their way to the shore of the Saddle and Cycle club, a block south of the hotel, and disappeared.

Coast Guard Boats Arrive.

Crews from the United States coast guard stations at the mouth of the Chicago river and at Wilmette speeded to the scene. They were commanded respectively by Capt. John O. Anderson and Mate Paul Hellman. They were powerless to save the Aloha, however, and for more than an hour kept fleets of small boats containing curiosity seekers at a safe range.

osity seekers at a safe range. At 12:30 o'clock the Aloha sank.

Lake shipping records showed the Aloha was owned in 1930 by Frank J. O'Brien, vice president of the McKey & Poague Real Estate company, 38 South Dearborn street. He sold it last year to Mrs. Pauline Schechtel, 1323 Lunt avenue, wife of Harry Schechtel, vice president of the Krone-Sebek Die Casting company, for $15,000. The cruiser was of 100 horsepower and about 40 feet long.

Fears Capt. Mattson Dead.

Schechtel said this morning that the Aloha was for sale and that Capt. Mattson last night had asked permission to take it out for a demonstration to prospective buyers. Capt. Mattson mentioned the name of former Senator Mason as among the group, Schechtel said.

He expressed fear that Capt. Mattson had gone down with the boat. Mattson's failure to report the loss, Schechtel explained, convinced him that Mattson had died. At the Mattson home, Mrs. Lucille Mattson and her sons, Walter, 24 years old, and Lyle, 22, had heard no word from the captain.

At 6:30 this morning Richard Burke, captain of life guards at Clarendon beach, started dragging the lake in a search for Mattson's body.

REV. YARROW IN JAIL IN FAILURE TO PAY DAMAGES

The Rev. Philip Yarrow, superintendent of the Illinois Vigilance association, was in the Cook county jail last night as a result of his failure to pay a judgment of $5,000 to Walter Shaver, a book seller.

When Shaver's suit was tried before a jury in the court of Judge Frank M. Hayes on March 27, testimony showed that Shaver was arrested by the Rev. Mr. Yarrow after one of the reformer's agents had entrapped the book dealer into obtaining a copy of "A Night in a Moorish Harem," described as indecent literature.

Shaver brought his suit after being acquitted of selling an obscene work. The minister was found guilty of malicious prosecution. A malice count was added, empowering the court to put the minister in prison in the event the money was not paid. Shaver and his attorney took advantage of this provision. The Rev. Mr. Yarrow was taken to the jail and put behind bars with seventeen other debtors. While he remains in custody, Shaver must pay the minister's board of $1.50 a day.

CABINET BEATS ATTACK IN ALL NIGHT BATTLE

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 27 [Saturday 7 a. m.]. —By a majority of 336 to 139 the French chamber of deputies at 6:30 o'clock this morning approved the government's policy in accepting President Hoover's debt moratorium proposal with reservations.

A wild uproar greeted the vote. The deputies, hysterical with fatigue after fifteen and one-half hours' debate, which was marked with much bitterness, wept with emotion. Several collapsed and had to be helped from the chamber. At least three times during the historic session the government and the moratorium plan were within danger of defeat.

Made Matter of Confidence.

The vote was taken on a motion submitted by Deputy Fougeres which the government accepted as a question of confidence. The motion said:

"The chamber, approving the French government's answer to the proposal of the President of the United States, counts upon it to assure at the same time the intangibility of the unconditional annuity accepted at The Hague by the power signatories to the Young plan and the necessity of a policy of peace and economic cooperation, and, rejecting all additions, passes to the next business on the agenda."

The historic debate was begun at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon following a preliminary conference between Secretary of Treasury Mellon, American Ambassador Edge, and the heads of the French government, including Premier Laval, Foreign Minister Briand, and Finance Minister Flandin. They discussed the whole situation over rare old wines and the choicest French cooking at luncheon at the ministry of interior.

Becomes Diplomatic Battle.

Following the luncheon the French ministers went to the chamber of deputies, while Mellon and Edge retired to the former's hotel to receive the visit of the German counselor. The real serious negotiations between the Americans and the French will not begin until 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. The question now becomes a diplomatic battle between Mr. Mellon, Premier Laval, and Foreign Minister Briand, with the French trying to hold out for the best terms.

That is the background of the colorful drama which ran on through the night. Immediately after the gong sounded Premier Laval read to the chamber the text of the French reply to Washington and a telegram from Secretary of State Stimson, which acknowledged receipt of the French note and indicated that the way had been opened for negotiations.

Marin Launches Offensive.

A majority of the deputies listened sympathetically, and there was particular approval of the clause in the French note suggesting that the unconditional portion of Germany's reparations should be deposited in the world bank and should be used not only for the relief of Germany, as was intended by President Hoover's proposal, but for other central European powers, including France's Balkan allies.

The lesser interpellators came and went, and then fiery Louis Marin, extreme nationalistic leader, mounted the tribune and launched the big offensive. He demanded that the government wait until the American congress has formally approved President Hoover's initiative. Every time Marin took a crack at "Uncle Shylock," which was about every two minutes, a roar of applause swept across the benches from left to right, and he sat down amid a general bedlam.

Finance Minister Flandin then mounted the stand, but it was ten minutes before he could speak. Wave after wave of invective swept over him from the left, while President Buisson's beard gesticulated frantically for order and the gong tolled like a fire alarm.

Laval Quiets House.

Premier Laval jumped into the breach and asked the deputies to let the finance minister speak for they must finish the debate by morning in order to permit the opening of negotiations with Mr. Mellon today.

At this the chamber subsided into muffled growls, while Flandin produced figures showing that Germany could not wait for relief, and that the Hoover plan would cost France less than a straight moratorium under the terms of the Young plan.

He got little attention and was constantly heckled. When the session adjourned at 8:15 o'clock things looked bad for the government—and the moratorium.

Second Act Opens.

The curtain went up on the second act at 10 o'clock, and since then things have been happening so fast all sense of time has been lost. It is a big night—the most solemn moment since the war, one deputy said. The gong is still clanging away, Buisson is still shouting for order, wisecracks, interruptions, cheers and hoots are still making the show sound like a dog fight.

A "coup de théâtre" just occurred. It appears that Rudolph Breitscheid, famous German Socialist leader, and an unidentified English Laborite are sitting in one of the galleries and that just before the night session started they had a conference with the French Socialist group in the lobbies.

That conference may have decided the fate of the moratorium, for the German pleaded with his French comrades to give up their intention of overthrowing the government and they gave in, promising either to vote for Premier Laval or abstain from voting altogether.

Party is Split.

Now the Radical Socialist party is split and it looks like Laval has won the day. Bull necked Herriot is still bellowing from his seat for an adjournment of the debate until Tuesday—which would force the government to resign if adopted—but the young Radical Socialist deputy, Pierre Cot, has got up and pleaded with all the left pacifists to stick with the Socialists in order to save Germany.

Herriot Withdraws Motion.

Herriot has just withdrawn his motion. All the left is cheering and the way is now clear for the government.

The Socialist Berger has just finished a short address and the session is suspended for a few minutes while everybody troops to the bar for a drink.

Down in the lobby I ran into former President Tardieu, who said Herriot was planning to lift the roof with a red hot Nationalistic speech about 3 o'clock. He added that Herriot is playing a dangerous game.

The government is a little worried for fear the majority will get peeved at Laval for allowing the Socialists to support him. That is French politics.

Foe Attacks Briand.

At 2 o'clock Briand confers with Laval and decides to go home to get some sleep. At 2:20 Franklin-Bouillon, Briand's most bitter enemy, mounts the forum and launches a ferocious attack on Briand, Ambassador Claudel, President Hoover, and Germany.

At 2 o'clock Briand, responding to a frantic SOS, returns, rubbing his eyes. The fire eater on the forum spots him and shouts: "Well M. Briand, what you going to do about this situation, keep on sleeping?"

At 2:30 Franklin-Bouillon began pulling the switch all the way down. Bedlam broke loose again as he cries: "Hoover is just playing the market speculator's trick."

Laval jumps up furious. His nerves are beginning to snap.

"Watch your language more carefully. Don't insult the United States," he shouts. "Watch your language. It is very imprudent. You won't talk that way when we come to a vote," Franklin-Bouillon replies.

A few minutes later Laval electrifies the chamber with a statement that on June 11 the German ambassador had informed France that the reich would soon have to request a suspension of reparation payments.

Once more the session is suspended while the Radical Socialists and Marin's right wing group go into a huddle in the lobby to try to reach a compromise. None even dares guess the final outcome. The chamber has become a madhouse. The Radical Socialists, the oldest group in France, is completely disintegrated.

The debate waxes hotter as the session is resumed. At 6:30 the voting begins.

New Playground and Pool Dedicated in Oak Park

Before an audience of 1,000 persons the new Lewis Carroll playground and swimming pool, Kenilworth avenue and Harvard street, Oak Park, was dedicated last night. The speakers were Willis McFeely, president of the Oak Park village board, and Dr. H. J. Stewart, chairman of Oak Park playgrounds. A water pageau was given under the direction of Miss Josephine Blackstock, director of playgrounds.

Alcock Orders Auto Theft Details in Every District

An additional move to halt automobile thefts was made last night by Acting Police Commissioner Alcock in an order to district commanders instructing them to assign two detectives exclusively on automobile cases. The employment of district details augments the newly formed automobile division headed by Capt. Mat Zimmer.

HOOVER YIELDS TO FRENCH VIEW ON MORATORIUM

Starts for Europe

New York, June 26.—[Special.]—Henry L. Stimson, secretary of state, landed at Mitchell field, L. I., late this afternoon, after a quick flight from Washington. He came prepatory to sailing tomorrow on the Conte Grande for Italy. While abroad he will visit several countries and represent President Hoover in war debt negotiations.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 26.—[Special.]—In an effort to procure French acceptance of his debt moratorium proposal President Hoover, it was learned tonight, has agreed that Germany shall not be entirely relieved of the payment of reparations during the year of grace.

In return for the concession he is willing to make, the President is asking France, through Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon, now in Paris, to recede from the position she has taken in her reply to the Hoover proposal.

The French reply was made public here today. It proposes that Germany be required to pay the 165 million dollars in unconditional reparations to the Bank for International Settlements at Basle. The creditor nations would loan this amount, less German payments in kind, to Germany and other needy countries.

France's Sacrifice.

Of the 165 millions the share of France would be approximately 105 millions, of which about 85 millions would represent payments in kind. The amount, therefore, which France proposes to loan back is shrunk to 20 millions. And inasmuch as the French proposal is that the loans shall be made not only to Germany but to other European countries, presumably Poland and other allies of France, the amount Germany would get back would be negligible.

The upshot of two days of conferences at the White House on the French reply is an overture by Mr. Hoover to make concessions to France with respect to the payments in kind. The President is willing to agree that Germany shall be required to continue payment of such reparations as are due for the financing of works in course of construction.

Here's an Example.

There is, for example, the bridge over the Danube in Czecho-Slovakia, which France is building out of unconditional reparations payments. Mr. Hoover concedes the right of France to continue receiving payments for this and other works under contract and in process of fulfillment. Just how much of the 85 millions of payments in kind is represented by such contracts has not been ascertained.

With the President yielding to this extent, France is being asked by Mr. Mellon to recede from her demand that Germany be required to pay the unconditional reparations into the international bank during the moratorium, except to the amount needed to finance these contracts.

The professed fear of France that otherwise the Young plan will be scrapped and the payment of reparations never resumed is being met with a proposal of an exchange of notes among the powers, guaranteeing resumption after the moratorium.

Another Concession Asked.

France is being asked also to recede from her proposal that during the year following the moratorium Germany be required to pay the suspended annuities in addition to the regular annuities for that year. This would mean a doubling of the payments for a year, a burden too great for Germany to bear, in the opinion of the administration. Mr. Hoover is suggesting therefore that Germany be allowed to meet the suspended annuities in installments during the succeeding decade.

Despite the illusory character of the concession she is willing to make, France, in her reply, declared her counter proposal essentially the same in effect as Mr. Hoover's plan for the complete postponement of all reparations and war debts payments.

Mr. Stimson Agrees.

Thereupon Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, in making the note public shortly before he took off in an airplane for New York to sail to Europe tomorrow, pronounced the reply acceptable on the whole, the only divergence from Mr. Hoover's proposal being the method of accomplishing the suspension of reparations payments. The French plan, he said, would not achieve the "full measure of relief" and France, therefore, is being asked to modify it.

"The French note," said Secretary Stimson, "shows a gratifying cordiality to the President's proposal. As we understand it, the French government is mainly concerned that there should be no breach in the integrity of the Young plan agreement.

"The President's plan does not propose a reconsideration or impairment of any international agreements, including our own debt agreements. His suggestion extended only to the simple postponement for one year of the payments under such agreements.

Negotiations Proceedings.

"In view of the action already taken by some governments in acceptance of the President's plan and the corresponding suspension of payments on intergovernmental debts due July 1, Ambassador Edge and Secretary Mellon are engaged in these discussions with the French government, with a view to early conclusions."

The President called off, as he did last Tuesday, the press conference he was to have held today, the reason unofficially given being "the delicacy of the situation." Awaiting further advices from Paris, where the chamber of deputies was reported still in session, he also postponed till tomorrow departure for his Rapidan camp for the week-end.

TEXT OF FRENCH NOTE

The text of the French note follows:

"The French government has examined with keen interest the proposal of the President of the United States and declares itself in cordial agreement with the lofty sentiments which inspired the said proposal.

"The French government, more than any other, is desirous of seeing affirmed, in action for the economic reconstruction of the world, a solidarity with which it has always been inspired, both in accepting the successive reductions in the German debt and in executing in advance the evacuation of the third Rhineland zone in exchange for a complete and definitive settlement of the program of reparations decided upon at Geneva on Sept. 16, 1928.

"It desires to emphasize before world opinion the extent of the new sacrifice which is asked of France after all those to which she has already consented.

"In response to President Hoover's proposal, the French government is prepared to ask the French parliament, whose intervention is indispensable and whose decision is sovereign, that France provisionally, and for a period of one year, forego the retention of any payment made by the reich.

"But, in view of the character of the freely accepted and recently signed engagements of the Young plan, the solemnity of which was was recognized the definitive and non-postponable character of the unconditional annuities which express the permanent necessity of the principle of reparations, there would be great risk of shaking confidence in the value of signatures and contracts, and thus of proceeding contrary to the aim in view, if in the proposed suspension, payments of nonpostponable annuity should be treated like the conditional annuity.

"The French government emphasizes, in particular, that a formal assimilation has been established between the private debts of the reich [Young and Kreuger loan] and the unconditional annuity not yet mobilized.

Takes Different View.

"To suspend the payment by Germany of the unconditional annuity while permitting that the Young loan, disposed of to the public, should continue to be serviced, would go directly against a fundamental principle and express stipulations.

"The French government, therefore, considers that there is a moral interest of the first order in not postponing in any way the payment of the unconditional annuity, even during the period contemplated by President Hoover.

"The French government, being desirous of collaborating fully in every effort made to attenuate the consequences of the present crisis, believes that it should point out, in the very interest of the success of this effort, that the mere general suspension of payments would furnish an inadequate remedy.

"The dangers now threatening German economy and, more generally, European economy, have another origin and are especially due to important restrictions of credit and withdrawels of foreign funds. The solution of the German crisis, therefore, does not appeal to lie only in the diminuition of the charges on the budget of the reich, but in an extension of credit.

"That is why the French government declares its readiness, subject to the approval of parliament, to place at the disposal of the Bank of International Settlements a sum equal to its share for one year of the non-postponable annuity, with the sole exception of the amounts necessary to the execution of the balances of the current contracts for payments in kind, a proceeding which, moreover, is advantageous to German economy.

"In making this proposal, the French government expects that the other beneficiaries under the Young plan will adopt the same decisions, and it even hopes that other measures may be taken to favor the beneficial restoration of credit and confidence in the world.

Payments Can Be Loaned Back.

"The sums thus turned over to the Bank of International Settlements could be utilized at once for improving credit in Germany as well as in countries of central Europe, and especially those in which the suspension of the execution of the Young plan during one year might create financial or economic disturbances. It goes without saying that the amounts so employed would again become available at the expiration of the period of one year contemplated as the limit of the provisional suspension of the Young plan.

"The French government also believes that all necessary precautions should be taken in order that these sums, as well as those to be derived from the easing of the budget of the reich as a result of the suspension of the Young plan payments for one year, may only be used for economic purposes, all danger of financing of dumping being eliminated.

"Lastly, it will be advisable to contemplate before the expiration of the period of one year an examination of measures to be taken by Germany for the resumption of her payments.

"The proposals of the French government and the adjustment which will be suggested by the application of the American offer and which will necessarily be the subject of a subsequent exchange of views, thus appear to be perfectly compatible with the dominant idea of President Hoover's proposal.

Must Watch Own Position.

"In placing at the disposal of the Bank of International Settlements, on the conditions contemplated above, her part in the unconditional annunity, France is deprived, during the suspension period, of what had been allotted to her on account of the charges which she has to meet for the reconstruction of her devastated regions.

"Without wishing to insist on the difference between the sums which she has received and the sums which she should have received, France recalls that the amount of her public debt is about four times that of the debt of the reich and that her effort at financial restoration, carried on and accomplished by her own means barely four years ago, should not be endangered.

"The French government can, therefore, affirm the solidarity of the French republic and of the republic of the United States at the moment when, faithful to their traditions, the two countries are coöperating in precautionary measures in a crisis which is considered grave. They have a right to hope that a response will be made to their international good will by a respect for treaties and by the restoration of confidence between peoples, on which the future of peace depends."

RAILS LEAD STOCKS TO NEW HEIGHTS ON NEW YORK EXCHANGE

New York, June 26.—[Special.]—Under a rush of buying orders, concentrated heavily in railroad, steel and utility stocks, the stock market went booming into new high ground today. Railroad shares profited to the extent of from $2 to $8, and elsewhere the gains were nearly as large.

Sante Fe led the group in its rise. It added $8.37 to its value in a rapid run-up late in the day. Other notable gains were Erie, $4.62; New York Central, $5.62; Baltimore and Ohio, $6; Northern Pacific, $3.50 and Southern Pacific, $3.50; Pennsylvania, New Haven and other western and eastern roads were up from $1 to $3.

United States Steel, Bethlehem and Youngstown Sheet and Tube were the big three in the metal group, while Consolidated Gas, Standard Gas, American Foreign Power and American Telephone were outstanding utilities. Auburn, Case and People's Gas added $6 or more to the profits realized by buyers during the last week.

HOOVER LOOKS UPON SOUTH AMERICA FOR NEXT RELIEF EFFORT

Washington, D. C., June 26.—[Special.]—President Hoover is contemplating South America as the next field in which the financial and economic leadership of the United States is necessary. He plans to issue a formal statement within the next week or two, it was learned today, calling attention to the gravity of South America's plight and making proposals for alleviating conditions.

The administration believes that this country must step in because of the opposition among South American nations to the suggestion by Antonio Planet, Chilean foreign minister, for an inter-American economic conference.

What form President Hoover's statement will take has not yet been disclosed, but he is expected to make it public as soon as the disputed points in the European debt proposal have been disposed of.

Though the debts involved in South America are not inter-governmental as in Europe, but are debts of governments to private individuals, the problem is seen here as being broadly the same and as calling for concerted action.

As a preliminary move the federal reserve system is considering sending one of its experts, W. R. Burgess, assistant federal reserve agent at New York, to survey conditions in Chile, where the depression is particularly acute

JOKE IS ON TWO COPS, BUT CITY IS RID OF THIEF

BY EARL MULLIN.

Hal Lauderdale and Michael Whalen are sergeants at the detective bureau. Every night at 4 o'clock, when they go on their tour of duty, they park their cars side by side in a vacant lot near the bureau at 11th and State streets.

Early yesterday morning they made their last report and crossed to the lot for their cars. Whalen discovered a ragged colored man in the seat of his automobile, leaning silently over the wheel, his hat pulled down over his eyes, and his hand resting on the ignition switch.

"Get going and don't sleep in parked cars," Whalen growled.

"See you in the morning," he called to Lauderdale, as the colored casual walked briskly away. Whalen's motor purred and he let in the clutch.

"Wait a minute! Wait a minute!" Lauderdale shouted. "My car is stripped."

All of the accessories, the spark plugs, the marble top on the gear shift, a prize silvered spotlight, even a read leather cusion had been taken from Lauderdale's car and piled in the rear of Whalen's.

"Sleeping!" exclaimed Whalen. "Let's get the thief."

Both detectives seized their guns and started on a run after the Negro, who was walking hurriedly south in State street. Hearing their shouts, he started to run. At Roosevelt road he swerved to the right toward the mase of tracks. The detectives emptied their guns in the air.

A railroad watchman, hearing the shots, leaped for the thief. Lowering a hard and wooly head, the Negro struck the watchman in the midriff, bowling him off the embankment and over on the tracks in front of an outgoing freight train. The watchman crawled clear just as the big engine passed.

Warned by the pounding of [illegible] solid police department heels on the sidewalk, the Negro ran to the north side of the viaduct. Hanging by his finger tips, he dropped to the roof of a freight car on a moving train just as the panting policemen reached the viaduct.

The grinning thief stood on the car and made an insulting gesture at the two policemen.

"Banished, and with no appeal to the state," Lauderdale murmured philosophically, and the two started back to the long job of recovering the stripped automobile.

COUNTY ORDERS ALL VACATIONS WITHOUT PAY

Also Demands 10% Cut in Supplies.

Vacations without pay were put in force as an economy measure yesterday by the county board.

Acting as members of the finance committee, the commissioners voted that all of the 3,000-odd county employes, from the president of the board down, shall take their regular two weeks' vacation without compensation. The committee also ordered a 10 per cent reduction in the use of supplies by all county departments. The two steps will result in a saving of $500,000, the commissioners hope.

President Emmett Whealan also declared that it may be necessary to pay employes in scrip, based on tax anticipation warrants which the board has been unable to market to banks. County employes have already had one payless pay day, that for the first half of June.

"No Funds in Sight."

"There are no funds in sight with which to meet pay rolls," President Whalan said. "We hope to scrape up enough of the loose financial odds and ends, or find money in some way, to meet at least once more the mothers' and blind pensions and the payments under the children's home building fund.

"Something drastic had to be done to prevent wholesale dismissals of county employes, many of whom have been in office for many years."

The board at first discussed a thirty-day layoff without pay for employes, but compromised on the period of two weeks. Clayton F. Smith, county auditor, announced, however, that he had arranged for three payless weeks in his office.

Opposition to the payless vacations, it was said, may be voiced by civil service organizations and the county bureaus when the commissioners meet on Monday, at the regular board meeting, to ratify the action which they took yesterday as members of the finance committee. Judges of the county and Probate courts, who are paid by the county, will be hit by the cut, and the judges of the Circuit and Superior courts, who get half their pay from county funds, will suffer in that proportion.

Seek to Speed Taxes.

The county board will meet with the boards of review and assessors, the county treasurer, clerk and state's attorney, to consider means of expediting the 1930 and 1931 assessments, and the collection of taxes under them.

The board of assessors is scheduled to start the 1931 quadrennial reassessment next week, but yesterday the assessors had done little to reorganize their staff, disrupted by the dismissal of Harry S. Cutmore, appraisal chief, and the subsequent resignation of all of his technical assistants.

Send Books to Reviewers.

E. S. Rosenthal, formerly in charge of personal land valuations, was put in charge of the entire land department, and George Vrooman, formerly an assistant in the building department, was put in charge there.

The assessors sent the last of the 1931 assessment books for the thirty country towns to the board of review, and also forwarded the books for the rest of city township to be completed, Hyde Park.

County town assessments totaled $33,510,577, compared to a 1929 board of review figure of $696,468,264. Rogers Park figures were $58,921,475 for 1931, as compared to $87,210,240 in 1930.

TELLS OF PRIVATION

As hard pressed as the Chicago school teachers are for funds there are additional employes of the board in a situation whose plight is even worse, Miss Thecla Doniat, principal of the Spalding School for Crippled Children, declared yesterday. Nearly many teachers are enduring privations for want of their salaries, she said, but there are also about fifty others, bus attendants who transport the children to and from school, kitchen employes and lunchroom workers, all of whom are actually in the destitute class.

"Nobody in Chicago has any idea of the loyalty and devotion the teachers have demonstrated for their pupils in carrying on the way they have," Miss Doniat added. "Here we have been for ten weeks without a cent of salary, while sickness, death and hospital bills have kept right on invading the various homes.

"As for this scrip, why should we accept something that is not money and go on trusting the board of education as we have trusted it for the last ten weeks, without knowing whether we can ever realize on it.

"Meanwhile all the teachers are being deluged with literature from loan companies, offering all sorts of personal loans. If it comes to that, one can only see what is going to happen to the teachers."

TEACHERS UNITE IN REFUSING TO TAKE SCRIP PAY

Bogan Joins in Protesting Plan.

While printing presses rolled off the scrip which the board of education hopes to hand its employes in the place of pay checks for about $9,000,000, teachers met throughout the city yesterday—the last day of school—and in every case united in refusing the scrip.

They were joined in their refusal by Superintendent of Schools Bogan. "I will not take scrip myself," he said. "I am not advising any one else what to do about it."

Meanwhile Gov. Emmerson, State Treasurer Barrett, and State Auditor Nelson were handed copies at Springfield of a petition bearing the signatures of 11,250 Chicago school teachers. It urged them to authorize the sale of tax anticipation warrants against the 1931 state distributive fund.

Enough for $150 Apiece.

There is $3,200,000 available in that fund which, if it were made available for Chicago school teachers, would give them approximately $150 apiece, it was estimated. Miss Margaret Haley, business agent of the Chicago Teachers' federation, and Mrs. Bertha S. Armbruster, Chicago representative of the Illinois State Teachers' association, circulated the petition.

Protest meetings against the payments in scrip were held at a number of schools throughout the city. From Tuley High school, Miss Laura K. Cleve, secretary of the teachers' council there, sent a telegram to the board, which stated, "Tuley High school faculty unanimously refuses to accept scrip."

Similar action was taken at Hyde Park High school and Tilden Technical High school. There was but one vote in favor of scrip among teachers at Morgan Park High school. They sent a protest to the school board, and letters to their state legislators.

Advised to Refuse Scrip.

Irvin A. Wilson, president of the Principals' club, has sent a bulletin to all members of the club advising them to refuse scrip.

Another objection to the scrip was brought forward by several of the teachers' organizations. It was pointed out that the "participation certificates," based on a $5,200,000 tax anticipation warrant held in trust by Charles E. Gilbert, secretary of the school board, contain no specific promise of redemption by the school board.

They are redeemable, they state on their face, "when and if" the tax warrant is marketed. Teachers pointed out that when it does find a market for tax warrants, the school board will be pressed for payment of bills by contractors and other creditors, and the scrip trust may be pushed into the background.

Any teachers who will accept it can get scrip for wages at the office of Harry Brackett, school board auditor, on Monday.

Will Pay off Bonds.

Although the school board has no money for salaries, it has managed to save its credit from the collapse which would have followed its failure to redeem its bonds at maturity. City Comptroller Szymczak announced yesterday that he had received $485,375 from the board of education for retirement of bonds and payments of interest due July 1.

Freed Until Sept. 8

Nearly 500,000 Chicago school children joined in singing that old refrain —"no more pencils, no more books, no more teachers' angry looks"—at noon yesterday as the city's 360 public schools were dismissed for the annual summer vacation. Graduation exercises were held in numerous schools in the afternoon and last night, more than 30,000 students receiving diplomas from either grammar, junior high, or high schools. The vacation period continues until Sept. 8.

CUTMORE STARTS OWN APPRAISAL BUSINESS TODAY

Harry S. Cutmore, who was ousted as director of appraisals by the board of assessors last week, will open an office of his own today in room 838, First National Bank building. The concern will be known as Harry S. Cutmore and Associates, Inc., and will specialize in industrial and valuation engineering.

Associates of Mr. Cutmore in the new enterprise, all former department heads in the appraisal office of the board of assessors, are: H. Gordon Boll man, Walter R. Kuehnle, Victor E. Carlson, Walter A. Daly, and George W. Cutmore, the last named a brother of Mr. Cutmore. All but Mr. Bollman were fired by the board of assessors on Thursday night after they, with a dozen others, tendered their resignations.

HUMIDITY STOPS COOLING EFFECT OF EVAPORATION

Forecaster Explains Effect with Heat.

What is humidity? Hundreds of thousands of Chicagoans yesterday pondered this question as they noted the repeated assertions of the weather forecaster that the high humidity was mainly responsible for the discomfort of persons suffering in the present heat wave.

Weather Forecaster C. A. Donnel defined relative humidity as the atmosphere's percentage of saturation with water. Warm air will hold a greater quantity of water in vapor form than will cold air, without reaching the saturation point; that is, the point at which the water vapor is precipitated in liquid form. Consequently heat and high relative humidity mean a high degree of sticky oppressiveness.

The reason for this, Mr. Donnel declared, is that perspiration fails to evaporate from the body when relative humidity is high. In far western states, he said, temperatures of 100 degrees are not uncomfortable, because there is very little moisture in the air. Thus, perspiration evaporates immediately upon leaving the body and evaporation has a cooling effect.

Mr. Donnel said that, with the temperature in the upper 80s or 90s, the relative humidity readings should be only 15 or 20 to make evaporation rapid enough for cooling comfort. Such a low humidity is common in the west, where temperatures in the 90s often feel cool. But such a condition is rare in Chicago.

In the current heat wave the relative humidity has run up around 70 per cent. That's why it feels even hotter than it is.

6 KILLED WHEN STORM SWEEPS NORTHERN OHIO

Detroit Area Also Lashed by Elements.

Cleveland, O., June 26.—(AP)—Storm-lashed northern Ohio tonight dug itself out of the debris to find six dead, scores injured, and damage mounting into the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Ripping in from the northwest, a 55 mile an hour gale raked the lake shore from Toledo to Cleveland as far south as Columbus. It reached the peak of its fury in Cleveland.

At one time almost 20,000 telephone circuits were out in the Cleveland area. Street cars were blown over and stalled, streets inundated to a depth of 10 feet in one place and trash strewn about.

Victims of Storm's Fury.

The dead are:

George Corden, 35, struck by lightning in Cleveland.

An unidentified woman struck by lightning at North Olmstead.

Billy Leonhardt, 5, drowned in Maumee bay, Toledo, when the storm struck a boat in which he and four others were riding. The others were saved.

Windows Crashed by Wind.

In the Cleveland business section thousands of shoppers and automobile drivers dashed for safety into stores as show windows crashed and signs hurtled through the streets. Several persons were injured when bowled over by the wind.

Daring rescues were made by coast guardsmen along the breakwater, while in the heart of the city police rescued a family from a rooftop. Lake steamers rode out the storm safely, but two ore steamers in the harbor broke their moorings and came together with $17,000 damage.

All Cleveland police were ordered on patrol duty to guard against electrocutions from fallen power lines and to aid in pumping out flooded basements.

Coast guards during the worst of the gale rescued 12 men and a 7 year old boy from the Cleveland breakwater, where they were fishing. Tonight a constant patrol was made of the lake front.

Storm Terrorizes Detroit.

Detroit, Mich., June 26.—[Special.]—A black storm—wind, lightning and rain—wrapped the Detroit area in terror and darkness for thirty minutes this forenoon, caused the death of two persons, and did great damage to trees, buildings, and automobiles. A score or more persons received major and minor injuries.

The storm, according to Norman B. Conger, United States meteorologist, was a local reaction to the intense heat of the last 36 hours. The mercury dropped 20 degrees within an hour to 80.

Rescue Many from Lakes.

At least 15 fishermen and 20 swimmers in Lakes St. Clair and Erie were rescued from drowning by heroic efforts of border patrol inspectors and crews of privately manned rescue boats. More than a score of fishermen were taken from Lake St. Clair, off Huron point.

Many men and women in Detroit were injured by tree limbs knocked down by the terrific wind. Airplane transports for Cleveland, Toledo, and Chicago left the municipal airport as usual and reached their destinations on schedule time. A Detroit bound plane, however, was held in Toledo until the storm subsided. Forty-two fire alarms were answered in Detroit during 30 minutes of the storm, but none was serious.

Because of the peculiar rising and falling of the barometer long before the storm broke Selfridge field flyers were called out of the air. Private Charles Longara of East Chicago, Ind., was fatally injured and Private Harry J. Lewis was seriously hurt at Selfridge field while closing a mammoth hangar door, when the wind caught it and blew it over on them.

Two Dead in Pittsburgh Area.

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 26.—(AP)—Two deaths and several thousand dollars' worth of property damage were the toll of a severe electric and windstorm which struck western Pennsylvania today. It was the second such storm in a week and the rainfall, 1.23 inches in 15 minutes, broke a Pittsburgh precipitation mark set in 1903. Streets were littered with silt and debris washed from the hills.

Mrs. Bessie Sullivan, 44, died of a heart attack superinduced by fright when wind broke down a tree in her front yard.

SPECULATE WHETHER NOTED STAGE COUPLE ARE ALREADY WED

New York, June 26.—(AP)—Is Mrs. Florence Bernard, widow of Samuel Bernard, actor, already Mrs. Samuel Williams or just prospective Mrs. Samuel Williams?

That was what Broadway and Wall street were wondering tonight.

Williams, who left the vaudeville stage five years ago to become a broker, announced today he and Mrs. Bernard, who inherited $750,000 upon her husband's death, would be married July 2, with Mayor James J. Walker performing the ceremony.

At the marriage license bureau it was disclosed that Nov. 7 a deputy city clerk married a Samuel Williams, 46, and a Florence Bernard, 47.

But on top of that Mr. Williams says he is willing to wager $1,000 the wedding should be spoken of in the future tense and not the past. So maybe it's only a coincidence after all.

Drought Peril Over; This Town Can Bathe Again!

Jacksonville, Ill., June 26.—(AP)—For the first time in five months Jacksonville residents today were allowed unrestricted use of water. A ban on bathing had been enforced because of the water shortage from the long winter's drought. Recent rains have replenished the town's water supply.

CITY'S MONTHLY SAVING IS AT RATE OF $4,479,336 YEAR

The city economy program of Mayor Cermak, which includes the elimination of unnecessary positions, has resulted in savings to the corporate fund, out of which the police and firemen and a large number of other city employes are paid, and in the vehicle tax fund which is spent on street repairs.

A comparison of the corporate payroll for May of this year with the one for May of 1930 shows that the Cermak economies have resulted in a saving which would total $4,479,336 for a year. Last month's pay roll was $5,363,976, the figures showed, while the pay roll for May, 1930, was $3,737,254, a difference of $373,278. Last month's pay roll also shows a decrease of $1,370,651 from the March roll of $6,734,627. The March roll was the last to be paid out under the former administration.

The vehicle tax fund, which is built up from the vehicle tag fees, also showed a decreased pay roll for last month as compared with March. It has been trimmed from the $227,034 paid out in March, the figures showed, to $159,504 for May. Similarly the traction fund pay roll has been cut from $120,924 in March to $63,645 for May.

U. S. INDICTMENT HITS CAPONE RULE IN FOUR STATES

Big Syndicate Sells in Hinterlands.

trucks with especially designed tanks. The machines carried radios for the reception of regular "weather" reports—whether the road ahead was clear or "heat" was likely to be encountered.

Besides Richard Price, those indicted in this group include his brothers Frank and Russell, and Oscar Hopka, Kathryn Perkins, Edgar Trout, Harry Chapman, and his brother, whose Christian name was not ascertained.

"Al Capone" of Iowa.

The third group operated in Clinton, Ia., and its proconsul, Mike Blumberg, has been known for years, according to Prosecutor Anderson, as the "Al Capone" of those parts. Blumberg is the defendant said to have boasted to his purchasers—some of whom turned out to be undercover sleuths—that he had the Lincoln highway "greased" from Chicago to the Mississippi. The gang was unable, Blumberg said, to "fix" Sheriff Ward Miller of Lee county, of which Dixon is the county seat.

The principal distributor for Minnesota, according to the special agents, was Tom Banks, so-called king of the bootleggers of Minneapolis, whose purchases from the Aurora gang and from Blumberg allegedly ran into several thousand gallons a month.

Hank Kemple of Sioux Falls and Bert McDonald of Huron were said to have been the leading jobbers for South Dakota, each taking about 3,000 gallons a month from Blumberg and the Aurora outfit.

Start Farm Distillery.

Blumberg for years bought his alky from the Cinquina brothers, Gabriel, Paul and Tony, all loyal Capone producers of Chicago, and from the Aurora gang, according to Prosecutor Anderson. However, in the summer of last year, the Cinquinas and the Carsello brothers, Tony and John, also of Chicago, are alleged to have combined with Blumberg and others to operate a distillery on the farm of Robert Besse, former state's attorney of Whiteside county.

This distillery is described as "very large and efficient," with a column forty feet high. It was raided on Besse's farm, near Fulton, on July 22, 1930, having been in operation six weeks.

Fined by Capone, Claim.

When the Capone gang learned that the Cinquinas and the Carsellos had double crossed them by going in with Blumberg on the Whiteside county still, they levied a fine of $50,000, every cent that the operators could raise, and threatened death until they received the money, the federal agents say. The investigators obtained a statement from Blumberg to the effect that Arthur Cooper of Chicago, a former resident of Whiteside county, was taken in with the outfit for the purpose of "fixing" local officials.

The Cinquinas and Carsellos were on good terms with Blumberg because they had been selling him alky for years while they operated in Melrose Park and other suburbs. Besse, Cooper, Blumberg, and Henry Kane of Sterling were indicted with them in connection with the Whiteside county distillery. Another defendant indicted in that connection is Morris N. Fink, Rogers Park, alleged "corn sugar king" of Chicago, who supplied the sugar for the Whiteside county still, according to a statement made by Cooper.

Indicted on Another Raid.

Immediately after the raiding of the Whiteside county still, it is charged, Cooper set up a 1,000 gallon recooking still in the motor sales establishment of Tom Harrigan, Inc., 4631-33 West Madison street. This plant was raided on March 3, 1931 and in connection therewith Cooper Thomas J. Harrigan Jr., the Tom Harrigan corporation, Fred E. Shaw, John B. O'Connor, H. D. Carmichael, Arthur W. Schroeder, and Kenneth S. Kiettenburg are named in the indictment.

The Thomas J. Harrigan auto sales rooms at 438 Madison street, Oak Park, owned by the same defendant, were the object of a bombing on June 12, in which eight lives were endangered and damage of $7,000 was done. Frank E. O'Dowd, 241 Wesley avenue, Oak Park, foreman of the county grand jury, ordered an investigation into this and other bombings, declaring he had information that the alcohol racket was responsible for the violence. This theory was generally scouted at the time.

Special Prohibition Agents C. Edson Smith and Paul Shoop traced the ramifications of the alky combine after the raiding of the Whiteside county still. An undercover agent, Clyde W. Hitsman, gained the confidence of the Cinquinas, posing as a bootlegger from Des Moines, and they set him in with the Aurora gang. Mike Meyers told Hitsman that ordinarily he would not sell alky in smaller loads than 200 gallons, but inasmuch as times were getting tough he would make an exception and sell sixty gallons.

THE REV. EMIL SWENSON.
[Acme Photo.]

Minneapolis, Minn., June 26.—[Special.]—A far reaching decision which makes inviolate confidential information given to spiritual advisers of all denominations, was handed down by the state Supreme court today when it reversed a Hennepin county District court ruling which held a Minneapolis minister in contempt of court.

The minister, the Rev. Emil Swenson of Bethlehem Evangelical Lutheran church, is freed of the charge and his sentence of $100 fine or 30 days in jail nullified. Mr. Swehson refused to reveal confidential information given him by a man who was sued for divorce. He declared the information was in the nature of a confession and therefore sacred.

The case attracted nation-wide attention and inspired legislation enacted last winter aimed to make similar convictions impossible.

The Supreme court, however, held the new law is not applicable to this case, because it was not passed until after the minister had been convicted. Because of the Supreme court ruling the law now is unnecessary, but was passed in anticipation of an opposite finding.

Mr. Swenson was called to testify in a divorce suit filed by Mrs. Gladys Sundseth against Arnold V. Sundseth. In the trial, before Judge Paul W. Guilford, Mrs. Sundseth sought to have the minister reveal an alleged confession made to him by her husband.

In refusing, Mr. Swenson told the court confessions made to a Lutheran minister are privileged, the same as confessions in any other denomination. Judge Guilford held, however, that the Lutheran denomination does not countenance the confessional.

Other denominations came to the aid of Mr. Swenson following the conviction, and Paul J. Thompson was retained as counsel to represent the minister and the Minneapolis Church federation.

WITNESS BALKS AT JURY QUIZ IN MOVIE MURDER

The state's attorney's office suffered a double setback yesterday in the investigation of reported racketeering in the Motion Picture Operators' union.

One impedient arose when Crawford Johnson, Negro movie operator, in whose garage Jacob Kaufman was murdered last Saturday night, won release from custody on a writ of habeas corpus.

It is the theory of Assistant State's Attorneys Charles Lounsbury and Charles Bellows that Kaufman, an insurgent member of the union, was slain for opposing Thomas Maloy, business agent of the union. Crawford, they suspected, either knowingly or unwittingly, placed Kaufman "on the spot."

Lawyer Obtains Release.

Nevertheless, when Crawford's lawyer went before Superior Judge David on a motion for a writ, the prosecutors were unable to show cause for his further detention and the prisoner was freed. Mr. Bellows announced that two other Negroes, Dave Greer and John Drake, who witnessed the killing, would be detained further.

The second setback, which the state's attorney's office construed as a logical consequence of Kaufman's murder, was the refusal of a union member, John Clarkson, to appear before the grand jury.

Clarkson, who was subpoenaed to testify concerning the affairs of Maloy, the business agent with a salary of $25,000 a year, rejected the summons which Investigator Albert Clarizio served on him Thursday night at his home, 1515 Sunnyside avenue.

Spurns Jury Summons.

"Do you think I want to get what Kaufman got?" Clarkson is alleged to have asked. "Tell the grand jurors to light their cigars on that summons."

Clarizio, reporting the movie operator's attitude to Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Mueller, was instructed by Mueller to arrest Clarkson.

Clarkson spent the night in the Shakespeare avenue police station. When arraigned yesterday morning on disorderly conduct charges he evinced willingness to accept the subpoena but, in view of his previous attitude, Mr. Mueller was said to be doubtful whether his testimony would prove pertinent.

HONDURAS DEALS A CRUSHING BLOW TO REBELS, CLAIM

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, June 26.—(AP)—The government today announced the revolutionary movement headed by Gen. Gregario Ferrera had been dealt a crushing blow in a battle at Yojoa lake, followed by an airplane bombardment of the routed rebels.

The announcement said that Ferrera, deprived of his best generals, was making a hurried march toward Salvadorean territory. Government troops were trying to capture him before he crossed the border.

Rebel Gen. Carlos Sanabria was reported to have fled to Guatemala with a few followers. Gen. Roman Diaz was said to have abandoned the revolution. Gen. Justo Umana, previously reported killed in a battle at Jaral, was found badly wounded near Jaral and taken as a prisoner to San Pedro Sula, where he submitted to a military trial.

DOODY GETS LIFE TERM FOR KILLING CHIEF AT BERWYN

A sentence of life imprisonment was imposed upon Willie Doody, the "baby-faced" bandit and killer, by Judge John Prystalski in in Criminal court yesterday after he had found the gunman guilty of murdering Police Chief Charles Levy of Berwyn two years ago.

WILLIE DOODY.

The conviction of Doody ended his second trial for the slaying of the police chief, the state Supreme court having granted him a new trial on his appeal from his first conviction a year ago when a jury found him guilty and sentenced him to death.

Doody waived a jury when his retrial was called before Judge Prystalski last Friday. At a brief one day session last week the judge heard the evidence. Doody, while admitting he had slain the police chief when the officer sought to arrest him, contended he had thought Levy was another gunman and had shot in self-defense. The state did not ask the death penalty.

Motions for a new trial and arrest of judgment were overruled. A stay of sentence of 90 days to allow time for another appeal, was entered, but Attorney Scott Stewart, counsel for Doody, said he probably would not appeal. Doody was taken back to the county jail, and officials said he probably would be taken to the state prison at Joliet with the next group of prisoners.

BANDITS MENACE 12; ROB FINANCE COMPANY OFFICE

Three robbers held up the offices of the Household Finance company at 736 East 63d street late yesterday afternoon and after threatening four employés and ten customers with death, they looted the cash drawer of $1,000 and escaped in an automobile.

Entering the offices, on the second floor of the building, the robbers drew pistols and rounded up eight women and six men, lining them up against a wall. Charles C. Martens, 7442 Vernon avenue, the manager, was forced to disclose the hiding place of the money after the robbers found the safe was empty.

Other employés menaced by the robbers were Miss Ruth Kellogg, 6201 South Mozart street, the cashier; Miss Dorothy Stone, 10657 Avenue H, a clerk; and Miss Dorothy Browne, 7243 Constance avenue, another clerk. Names of the customers were not obtained by the Woodlawn police, who investigated the robbery.

Largest Submarine of British Navy in Danger

LONDON, June 26.—(AP)—As the submarine X-1, the largest in the British navy, was being docked at Portsmouth today, the vessel took a heavy list because of the slipping of some supports and it was necessary to take the crew off. An admiralty announcement said the vessel was being righted and that there were no casualties. The X-1 was built in 1921 and for a time was known as the "Hush Hush" ship.

Judge Fisher Elected Chief Justice of Criminal Court

Judge Harry M. Fisher of the Circuit court was elected chief justice of the Criminal court yesterday at the annual joint meeting of the judges of the Superior and Circuit courts, held in the chambers of Superior Judge Denis E. Sullivan. At the same time judges were assigned to the various branches of the Superior court.

JUDGE FISHER.

Judge Fisher's election places at the head of the criminal branch a jurist whose recent innovations in court procedure have done much to speed up the courts. His election also brought about a peaceful culmination of a controversy which arose between Superior and Circuit court judges over the number of judges to be sent to the criminal branch from each of these courts.

Fisher Outlines Policy.

In a statement after his election Judge Fisher indicated that he intended to carry out his policy of speedy justice in the Criminal court and outlined in a general way the aims which will guide him in his new post.

"My aim will be to try the cases as soon as possible after indictments have been returned," Judge Fisher stated. "The most important requirement of criminal cases is the avoidance of delay and the speedy disposition of cases. With that end in view I shall propose to the judges to separate nonjury cases from jury cases.

"That will enable nonjury judges to have a much larger number of cases on their call and to dispose of them and enable the jury judges to put in a full day's work on jury cases without being interrupted by court trials.

"If the judges adopt that proposal it will result also in a material reduction in the cost of juries to the county. Instead of panels for each court, jurors will be drawn only for jury judges."

In one of the steps taken recently by Judge Fisher to speed up the business of his court he allowed a prisoner charged with a felony to waive a jury trial on a plea of not guilty and heard the evidence and passed judgment himself. The judge was sustained in this by the Supreme court.

Wants 7 Judges for Court.

The judge expressed the opinion that, unless some extraordinary crime situation arises, seven judges will be able to do all the work of the criminal courts. Accordingly, he will ask the courts to send six more judges besides himself to the criminal branch. This, he said, would also help the situation on the civil side by leaving more judges there to handle the cases.

At present there are nine judges assigned to the Criminal court. At various times there have been as many as 14 in this branch. The number has increased during late years because of the rise in the number of criminal cases.

At a meeting of Superior judges before the joint meeting Judge John Prystalski was automatically elected chief justice of the Superior court to replace Chief Justice Harry A. Lewis. He will take office next December. Judge Sullivan was reelected head of the chancery division and Judge Walter P. Steffen was reelected head of the law division.

Judges Are Assigned.

Those assigned to the law division are Judges Worth E. Caylor, Joseph H. Fitch, E. I. Frankhauser, Marcus Kavanagh, Harry A. Lewis, John P. McGoorty, M. L. McKinley, Peter Schwaba, John J. Sullivan, Charles A. Williams and Walter P. Steffen.

Those assigned to the Criminal court are Judges Rudolph F. Desort, James J. Kelly, John Prystalski, Walter T. Stanton and Joseph B. David. Judge David will be held there long enough to finish hearings in the sanitary district cases.

Judge Harry B. Miller and Judge Joseph Sabath were assigned to hear divorce cases. This assignment brings Judge Sabath back from the criminal courts to sit in divorce court, where he sat for nine years and heard some 50,000 cases before his transfer to the criminal branch last year.

Those assigned to hear chancery cases are Judges Robert E. Gentzel, William J. Lindsay and Denis E. Sullivan. Judge Ross C. Hall was appointed to hear condemnation and special assessment cases.

ALCOCK MAY GO TO WORLD POLICE MEETING IN PARIS

Mayor Cermak yesterday had under advisement a proposal to send Acting Police Commissioner Alcock to Paris as Chicago's delegate to the convention of International Chiefs of Police. The proposal, according to the commissioner, was advanced by Baron Collier, New York capitalist, who conferred both with Alcock and the mayor. If Alcock is sent to the convention, which will be held from Sept. 28 to 30, it is considered likely that the trip will include a special inspection of England's Scotland Yard and a brief study of police methods in the large capitals of Europe.

SPIKE O'DONNELL, BULLET TARGET, FEELS THE HEAT

Rival Gang's Activities Stir Up Police.

Edward [Spike] O'Donnell, bullet dodging beer boss of the Gresham and Chicago Lawn police districts, was vexed by two varieties of heat last night.

In the first place Spike was provoked by the sultriness in the Gresham police station, where he paced the bull pen, waiting to be booked for assault with intent to commit murder.

Secondly, he was irritated by the heat engendered during the last three weeks by the gang which Danny McGeoghegan organized to oust Spike and his neighbor, Frank McErlane of the Englewood district, from their beer bailiwicks just as trade was becoming brisk.

Blamed for Shooting.

It was the McGeoghegan heat, police say, which inspired a machine gun crew to rake the O'Donnell bungalow at 8143 South Honore street at 1 a. m. yesterday as Spike and his wife sat fanning themselves in the parlor while the three children slept upstairs.

The McGeoghegan heat penetrated even to the detective bureau, for Chief of Detectives John Norton confessed himself nettled by the existing breach among the south side beer hustlers.

"Rafferty," the chief called. In came the deputy chief of detectives, Lawrence Rafferty, mopping his brow.

"Rafferty," the chief ordered, "put three more squads into Gresham and Chicago Lawn tomorrow morning. And if they can't cool things off, make it six. We've had enough of this amateur pistol popping for awhile."

Inspired, apparently, by Norton's reference to "amateurs," the conversation in the chief's office turned to the decline noted in the number of "clean killings" since United States Attorney George E. Q. Johnson forced Al Capone to abdicate.

"The mobs are right back where they were in the labor wars 15 years ago," a veteran detective observed. "It took the Capone mob to execute clean killings with clean getaways. From now on there'll be a lot of loose blasting and less murder, the way it looks."

The only casualty in yesterday morning's fracas was Detective John O'Conner of the Gresham district, who was shot in the right shoulder, presumably by O'Donnell when the latter mistook a squad car for the vehicle of the machine gunners.

Takes Up the Pursuit.

Spike had slipped a pair of trousers over his pamajamas, seized two pistols and taken after his intended assassins in a car chauffeured by Patrolman James Walsh of the Brighton Park district, who was parked down the street with a young woman he had met earlier at a dance hall.

Spike, who was pitched out of the machine when the patrolman careened a corner in the chase, was nursing a dislocated shoulder. His lawyer, John Crane, having sued for a writ of habeas corpus before Judge Sabath in Criminal court, Spike expected to be turned loose at sundown.

Nine o'clock rolled around before Lieut. Roger Murphy, night commander of the district, informed the prisoner he was accused of shooting Detective O'Connor and would be booked for assault with intent to commit murder. The bail, he said, would be $5,000.

DELHI, India, June 26.—Faced with new rebellion in Burma, a possible violent uprising in northern India, and a tightening of the economic boycott by Mahatma Gandhi's All India nationalist congress, India is threatened with still another disaster today.

At a secret meeting of railway union workers here today the men voted to call a general railroad strike next month, as a protest against the government's retrenchment program, which has already put 50,000 railway men out of work, with the prospect of 40,000 more being laid off next month.

General Strike Certain.

A secret ballot will be distributed among the railway workers next week, and it is considered certain that the majority will vote for a general strike. Railway union leaders are confident that the northern peasants, especially those in the United Provinces, will aid the strikers.

Already in this province minor outbreaks, leading to considerable bloodshed, have occurred among the peasants who claim they have been unable to pay their land tax because of poor crops and low prices.

The native chiefs also have the backing of the powerful India nationalist party, which is already displeased with the way in which the boycott has been carried out, and would probably welcome, such a chance to harass the government.

ENGLAND TO AID INDIA

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 26.—President Hoover having set the fashion, Great Britain's debtors that she cannot be expected to aid sisters. Prime Minister MacDonald announced in the house of commons today that it was the government's intention to help India get on her feet financially.

The prime minister declared that, owing to political circumstances added to world economic conditions, India would likely need help before long, in the absence of which the proposed constitutional changes could not be carried out. He proposed, therefore, that in the necessity arose, that parliament should provide the authority to give that help.

Indian Credit Injured.

Behind this statement is the fact that Mahatma Gandhi's agitation has crippled the whole financial structure of India. Taxes are not being paid and Indian credit, which was formerly first class, is so injured that the last attempt to float a loan in London failed.

India will need within the next few months between $75,000,000 and $100,000,000 to make up treasury deficits and to take up its short sterling holdings on the London market. This cannot be raised in India under present conditions and these holdings are as much economic as political.

President Hoover's proposed moratorium will only save the Indian government about $3,000,000 this year.

SOUTH AFRICA TO PAY ALL DEBTS, BUT COLLECT NONE

[Copyright 1931: By the New York Times.]

PRETORIA, South Africa, June 26. The government of South Africa has accepted the Hoover plan and informed the British government that it will gladly forgo its share of the German reparation payments, whether conditional or unconditional.

It also informed the British government that it will not take advantage of the offer of the mother country to pay its payments on dominion war debts. The amount received in reparations averages about $500,000 annually and the amount paid on war debts to Britain is $1,687,500.

Hoosier Democrats Hear Illinoisian

Farmers Betrayed, He Tells Editors.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Invited to reply to President Hoover's recent address at Indianapolis, which was a discussion of the American financial depression, Senator James Hamilton Lewis did so last night with a speech that he entitled "The Nation Betrayed by Partisan Perfidy."

The President's address on June 15 was before the Indiana Republican Editorial association. Senator Lewis' answer was before the Indiana Democratic Editorial association at its annual banquet at Gary. Persons who witnessed both affairs said the second was by far the more enthusiastic, although smaller in size than the first.

Assails Republican Party.

While there was chilling rebuke for his critics in the President's speech, that of the senate whip under the Wilson régime teemed with heated words of denunciation for "the sinister system now called Republican," and "felonies against justice and honor in the name of Republican politics."

His entire address was an indication of several counts on the charge that the Republican party not only has been guilty of omission in its duties but has deliberately committed the offense of destroying the protections hitherto erected to prevent financial crisis such as the present one.

"Loot" of Federal Reserve.

In the first count he accused the G. O. P. of the "rape" and the "loot" of the federal reserve bank and the farm aid machinery designed to operate under its wing. His second count alleged that the "Hawley-Grundy" bill was a deliberate betrayal of the American farmer who had prospered under Democratic tariff regulation. The third was a condemnation of the destruction of war time shipping activities in behalf of private shipping interests. His comment on the banking situation was bitter.

In a brief conclusion, Senator Lewis made several definite proposals for relief. Among them he listed reduction of pay rolls, suspension of war debts and revival of friendships abroad, the revision of the treaty of Versailles, adjustment of the tariff, exportation of surplus crops in government owned ships, construction of public works, cessation of foreign loans, and use of federal funds for local relief through the states.

Greeks to Give Friendship Flag to Gov. Emmerson

A Greek flag symbolizing the gratitude of Greece for American friendship is to be presented to Gov. Emmerson at Springfield next Sunday afternoon by a delegation of Greeks from Chicago and the central west, it was announced yesterday by A. A. Pantelis, one of the organizers of the Hellenic post of the American Legion.

CHAMBER PREDICTS EARLY REVIVAL FOR WORLD'S BUSINESS

Washington, D. C., June 26.—[Special.]—The board of directors of the chamber of commerce of the United States today issued a statement in which they asserted that "there are indications that America and the world may have seen the worst phases of the depression." This optimistic viewpoint on the business situation was outlined in one of two statements issued by that body in support of President Hoover's plan for a debt moratorium.

The directors memorialized the executive chamber of the international chamber of commerce urging that this group "give its hearty support" to the President's plan. The executive chamber meets in Paris July 5.

As for taxation the board recommended that the government not raise taxes, pointing out that these usually provide excess revenue for debt retirement in normal times and adding, "It would be very much to the interest of the whole business of the country and in the interest of increased employment if the government, through this period of depression, should accept the fact that a moderate increase in the public debt is but an averaging of its large retirement over a long period of years, and should avoid tax legislation."

SEIZE WOMAN IN LIQUOR RAID.

Federal prohibition agents raided a residence at 18 Sawyer street in La Grange yesterday and arrested Mrs. Zella Curry on charges of violating the prohibition laws after seizing a quantity of beer and alcohol.

DEBT PLAN DRAWS PRAISE OF TRIO OF DEMOCRATS

Shouse, Harrison, Mrs. Ross Commend It.

Washington, D. C., June 26.—[Special.]—Democratic approval of President Hoover's proposal of a one year's suspension of debt and reparations payments was given tnight by Jouett Shouse, executive chairman of the Democratic national committee; Senator Pat Harrison [Miss.], and former Gov. Nellie Taylor Ross [Wyo.].

Mr. Shouse spoke at Atlanta at a dinner in honor of Governor-Elect Richard B. Russell Jr. of Georgia. Senator Harrison spoke here in Washington, and Mrs. Ross addressed the Indiana Democratic Editorial association at Indianapolis.

"It is gratifying to be able to indorse and commend, and that I do without hesitancy or reservation, in connection with the recent proclamation of the President calling for a year's truce in all international debts," Mr. Shouse said at the Atlanta dinner. "In such a crisis, with so much at stake, it is gratifying that the President has taken the position he has taken and it is to be hoped that he will meet with support at the hands of patriotic citizens generally.

Not Speaking for Party.

"I cannot, of course, speak for the Democratic party; I can only express my individual opinion with the support of the declaration of those eminent Democrats who were consulted by the President."

Mr. Shouse tempered his praise by remarking that of course President Hoover and the Republican party had helped bring the world economic situation about. He urged consideration of the Raskob plan of state liquor control.

Mrs. Ross Blames Tariff.

Mrs. Ross blamed the Republican tariff for a major share of the depression, but urged support of the proposal to suspend payments of international obligations.

ROBBERY VICTIM FINDS ADVENTURE BESETS HIS PATH

Threatened with "Ride" and Offered Bribe.

Five weeks ago Erwin Kolar, a cab driver, was a breezy young fellow, equally ready with his fists or his tongue. He looked the whole world in the face and had a wholesome contempt for gangsters, criminals and thieves and their reputed toughness.

On May 18 Kolar was held up and robbed of $17 and his Yellow cab. Incensed, he went on a hunt for the holdup man and helped capture him in a west side saloon. Kolar signed a complaint against the robber, who confessed and identified himself as John Erwin, 106 North Hamlin avenue.

Becoming thus a witness in a criminal case, Kolar was subjected to a series of adventures which would have done credit to an old time moving picture serial thriller. Somewhat shaken, he appealed yesterday to the Chicago crime commission, which promised to help him.

Tell of His Adventures.

"I was held up in Cicero about 3:30 a. m." Kolar told Col. Henry Barrett Chamberlin, operating director of the commission. 'This fellow stuck me up and took $17 and my cab. I remembered seeing him once before in an attempted holdup of a restaurant at 5917 West 22d street and I knew that he hung around saloons in Cicero.

"Four other drivers volunteered to help me catch the robber. We went to several saloons and at last found him in a place at 2007 South Cicero avenue. A number of men there grabbed me when I pointed to the holdup man and the other drivers ran out and called the police. When they got there, they took this Erwin into custody, and he admitted holding me up and other robberies, also."

Kolar's adventures began when he left the police station after signing a complaint against Erwin, he said. Two men stepped up to him and told him not to prosecute the case or he would be taken for a ride.

Offered Money by Woman.

Four days later, on May 22, he was visited by Mrs. Rose Erwin, 5410 West Harrison street, mother of the defendant, he said. She offered him $250, Kolar declared, to drop the case. He refused. Mrs. Erwin repeated the offer the following evening, according to his story.

"Just before the grand jury hearing, on June 7, Mrs. Erwin tried to get me to take the money for a third time," Kolar told the crime commission. "When I refused she said I would be bumped off.

"At 2:30 of the morning I was to appear before the grand jury three Italians came to my door," he continued his story. "They said they were police officers and wanted to take me to the police station to make a statement. I told them to wait. I called the police. The men left and the police arrived forty minutes later, although the station is only a mile away from my house. I testified before the jury and Erwin was indicted.

Force Cab to Curb.

"On June 18 three men in an automobile tried to force my cab to the curb. I got away and went to the garage, where the manager called the police. But the men weren't found.

"On June 20 two men caught me at 3 o'clock in the morning alone and beat me up. On June 22 three men in an automobile tried to corner me on the street. I ran in a store and called the garage. When they saw me phoning they left."

This last incident was enough for the once breezy Kolar and he appealed to the crime commission.

Records show that Erwin, indicted June 8 on a charge of robbery with a gun, surrendered June 15. His bond was set at $7,500 and he is at present in the county jail awaiting trial.

RUMANIA DENIES HELEN POISONED; MAGDA WELL, TOO

BUCHAREST, Rumania, June 26.—(AP)—Attachés of the royal palace today authorized a denial of published reports that Queen Helen was suffering from poisoning. A high authority said the queen was in a cheerful frame of mind and was in the best of health, physically and mentally.

As for the same rumor concerning Elme. Magda Lupescu, it was said there was not even good ground for the assumption that she was in the country, let alone she had taken an overdose of a sedative in a pique at King Carol.

Four Killed in Blast; Powder Plant Wrecked

NOBEL, Ont., June 26.—(AP)—Four men were killed here today in an explosion which occurred in the mixing house of Canadian Industries, Ltd., demolishing the explosives section of the plant. Property damage was estimated at $25,000. The victims were all employés of the plant. Windows were broken in Parry Sound, seven miles away.

EVIDENCE IN TRIAL OF 2 AS VIVIAN GORDON SLAYERS COMPLETED

New York, June 26.—(Special.)—Defense attorneys for Harry Stein and Samuel Greenberg, on trial for the murder of Vivian Gordon, suddenly rested their cases today in Bronx Supreme court without calling either defendant to support alibis that had been made for them by witnesses.

Greenberg was supposed to have been observing the shiva mourning period for his mother at the time of the murder, while Stein, according to testimony, had accompanied his sister to a motion picture theater and to a restaurant at the time Miss Gordon, a vice inquiry witness, was strangled and her body left in a ditch in Van Cortlandt park.

No rebuttal testimony was offered by I. P. J. Adlerman, chief assistant district attorney. Justice Albert Cohn informed the jury that an adjournment would be taken until Monday and the day reserved for summations. He said the case likely would be submitted to the jury on Tuesday morning, and he admonished the jurors not to discuss the case.

7 FARM BOYS HELD FOR BLAZES THEY SET FOR THRILLS

Seven boys ranging in age from 17 to 19 years, four of them sons of farmers living near Woodstock, yesterday confessed starting a series of fires which destroyed three barns, half a dozen haystacks and an abandoned house in that vicinity during the last few months. The damage caused by the blazes was estimated at $25,000.

An investigation conducted by Deputy State Fire Marshal Paul E. Bertram of Crystal Lake and Assistant State's Attorney V. S. Lumley of Lake county led to the arrest of the boys. They said they set the fires because it gave them a thrill to see the buildings and haystacks go up in flames.

The youths arrested are Enor Sorenson, Clarence Sherman, Ansel Howell, Ralph Felt, Lewis Jensen, Melvin Markee and Harold Hutson. The first four are sons of farmers living near Woodstock and the others employed on farms in the vicinity.

The two confessed under questioning and implicated the five other boys. Bonds for the seven were set at $5,000 each.

Hutson and Markee were unable to raise the money and were kept in custody. Other barns which the boys admitted burning were those of Daniel Quinlan and Charles Dacy. They also confessed setting fire to an abandoned house on the Edward Wallace farm and to half a dozen haystacks.

ARNO AND SMITH RENO ROMANCE GOES ON ROCKS

Reno, Nev., June 26.—[Special.]—The romance that was to have led to the wedding of Peter Arno, cartoonist, and Florence Rice Smith, daughter of Grantland Rice, sports writer, and former wife of Sidney Smith, New York broker, apparently has gone on the rocks.

Mrs. Smith made preparations to leave early next week for New York and Arno, who will be divorced here Monday from Mrs. Lois Long Arno, will depart for Hollywood as soon as the decree is granted.

The rift in the romance is due, it is said, to the recent episode in which Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., accused Arno of having kept company with Mrs. Vanderbilt and during which Vanderbilt said he set forth on a gunning expedition for Arno.

Mrs. Smith, who received her decree several weeks ago, said she believed Arno had used poor judgment in permitting himself to get tangled up in the affair.

$5,500,000 CHECK FOR POSTAL SITE ON WAY TO CITY

Assistant United States Attorney Henry Balaban was informed by treasury department officials yesterday that a check for $5,500,000 was en route to him from Washington. This check is to cover the purchase price of the air rights for Chicago long projected $21,000,000 postoffice, from the Union Terminal company.

The check will be turned over to Theodore Schmidt, assistant general counsel for the Union Terminal company, at 9:30 a. m. Monday in the office of United States Attorney George E. Q. Johnson.

The completion of the real estate transaction will not expedite the beginning of construction on the postoffice, for treasury department officials have announced that the work cannot begin until fall. The plans and specifications have been returned to Graham, Anderson, Probst & White, the architects, for retouching.

FREES RESTAURANT OWNER.

Judge Freeman L. Fairbank yesterday freed Robert Bodenhoff, owner of a restaurant at 1246 Fulton street, who was charged with possessing liquor, because the policeman who found several barrels of beer in his basement had no search warrant.

Other Officers Inducted

Sig Nothhelfer, president of the Lake company, was inducted as Chef de Gare of Voiture 220, 40 and 8 Societie, last night in the voiture's headquarters in the Hotel La Salle.

The national commander, Chef de Chamin de Fer Charles E. Perry of Kittery Point, Maine, installed Mr. Nothhelfer. Other officers to take new posts were William Schlupp, Harry Lehman, Francis Walsh and Joseph Dorfman, all Chef de Trains; Eugene Early, correspondent, and John Caldow, commissaire intendent. Prominent guests present were William Lyons, Sous Chef de Chemin de Fer, of Minneapolis; Ed Schussler, Grand Chef de Gare of Illinois, of Joliet, and Mancel Talcott, Grand Cheminot, and postmaster at Waukegan.

Musical Training for Girl Who Won $30,000 Verdict

Part of the $30,000 awarded to Lorraine Hawkins, 12 years old, of 336 West 102d street, for the loss of her left eye, will be used to give her a musical education, it was learned yesterday through her attorney, John D. Ryan. The judgment was returned Thursday against Edgar McClun, 25 years old, before Judge Walter T. Stanton of the Superior court. Lorraine received the injury in an automobile accident April 27, 1930.

ENGINEER CLAIMS RIVER SEAWAY IS BEING IMPERILED

Blames Power Scheme of Private Corporation.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., June 26.—At the moment when Canadian and American governments are declared to be on the eve of appointing commissioners to draft a St. Lawrence seaway treaty, it was charged today that the $100,000,000 Beauharnois corporation, through its canalization and power project is imperiling future navigation of the St. Lawrence river above Montreal.

Duncan W. McLachlan, chairman of the Canadian section of the joint board of engineers which investigated St. Lawrence seaways potentialities and reported favorably to the Canadian government, testified before the parliamentary committee investigating the Beauharnois project that the corporation had departed from the canalization plans approved by the dominion government and thus imperiled the proposed ocean highway of Canada and the United States.

Would Cause Bad Currents.

McLachlan revealed before the committee, appointed to investigate alleged political graft and flouting of government approved plans, that the intake of the Beauharnois canal had been moved 3,000 feet from the location shown on the plans approved by the Canadian government. Such change, he testified, would create extremely difficult cross currents in the St. Lawrence, which would seriously hamper navigation.

"Is it a serious matter?" asked the committee's counsel.

"It is serious enough for me to urge that some change be made to satisfy the American engineers, who must agree to what we propose to do in regard to navigation on the St. Lawrence," McLachlan testified.

His testimony in connection with the unauthorized shifting of the location of the entrance of the Beauharnois canal, agreed with the first of the series of charges made in the Canadian parliament by Robert Gardiner, progressive leader, who demanded the investigation.

Says Plans Ignored.

It was shown that the private corporation has excavated a canal three times as wide as authorized by the goverment.

Meanwhile, a conference of Ontario hydro-municipalities, meeting a stones throw away at the Chateau Laurier, passed a resolution demanding that the dominion government proceed to immediate seaways negotiations with the American government.

KERMANS WILL ENLARGE THEIR PRESENT STORE

Plan Seen as Sign of Better Times.

An indication of better times was seen yesterday in the announcement by Herman H. Friedman, president of Kermans cloak and suit store, that the firm's present building at 160 North Michigan avenue will be remodeled and enlarged and the entire front rebuilt. Work will start July 18.

Mr. Friedman in announcing the building plans said that the firm is preparing for future increases by expansion beyond present needs, a course which he advised other business men to follow. He said that his firm has gone through the present depression untouched by hard times.

Kermans as a firm is less than 12 years old, said Mr. Friedman. It was started in 1919, shortly after he was mustered out of service in the army, with a capital of $2,300. Locations on 63d street and on State and Washington streets were outgrown. A store at 4720 Sheridan road is still maintained.

The Michigan avenue store will be closed for rebuilding on July 18, but the store management hopes to be ready for business again within four weeks after the date of closing.

NECK BROKEN IN HIGH DIVE.

Allegan, Mich., June 26.—[Special.]—Maurice Barnes, 18, was fatally injured when he dove from an old shanty in Littlejohn lake, 2½ miles southwest of Allegan, Thursday afternoon, striking on his head on the bottom and breaking a vertebra in his neck. He was taken ashore by two companions, but died in an emergency hospital.

HURLEY TURNS DIRT TODAY FOR 75 MILLION NEW YORK PIER JOB

New York, June 26.—[Special.]—Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley will turn the first spadeful of earth at the foot of West Forty-eighth street tomorrow to mark the beginning of construction of the 1,100 foot piers in Hudson river for which New York and New Jersey have fought for more than twenty years. By his action he will release $75,000,000 worth of construction work.

To take part in the ceremony Mr. Hurley flew in from Washington this afternoon, in a tri-motor army plane. The trip took two hours.

LIBRARY RULERS ASKED TO CENSOR FOOLISH READING

New Haven, Conn., June 26.—[Special.]—Publishers of tabloids and "the synical editors of the shadow magazines" were assailed today before the fifty-third annual meeting of the American Library association at Yale university.

Henry Seidel Canby, editor of the Saturday Review of Literature, accused them of being "agents provocateurs" in distribution of reading material "deleterious to the mental morale and the requirements of a good life."

Mr. Canby said he did not refer to indecency but to "the vulgarizing of life and the sensationalizing of all the emotions to the point of degeneracy."

In maintaining free speech, Mr. Canby declared, the distinction between freedom to express opinion and freedom to use any method of selling printed matter for profit has been lost.

"It is not ideas, but profit, that needs censoring," he said.

The speaker said libraries must "inculcate good reading, but it is almost as important that they should discourage and decrease foolish reading."

SOVIET BOYCOTT HELD DUE TO LACK OF NEEDED CASH

Russia Embarrassed by Want of Credit.

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VLADIVOSTOK, May 21. — [By Mail.]—Moscow's declaration that the United States embargo against Russian timber has resulted in reprisals in the form of soviet boycott of American machinery and manufactured goods, is belied by facts.

But Russia this year is purchasing less in the United States than it did last year for two reasons. In the first place, contracts were let in 1928,1929 and 1930 for a large part of the installation for the units of the 5 Year plan which are expected to be completed first.

Kremlin Hesitant.

In view of the collapse of the schedule of the plan, and the failure of those units which are finished to operate on a productive basis, there is a certain hesitancy on the part of Kremlin to undergo further expenditures until the difficulties are understood and the obstacles surmounted. But the other reason is the more compelling. Russia lacks money with which to buy more foreign material. The menace that business which formerly went to the United States would hence forward go to Germany, is not a policy; it is merely a necessity, since the group of Westphalian industrialists in March, agreed with Berlin's guarantee, to extend credits to the tune of about $70,000,000, to Russia.

New Currency Issue.

Valuta is scarce now, hence the double currency system with valuta for foreigners and tourists, and the rumor that the depreciated chervonetz and ruble will be supercede with a new issue, based on gold values.

Russia has practically no favorable trade balances left abroad. The huge sum, despite low prices that she accomplished by throwing millions of bushels of cheap wheat on the market last autumn and winter, have been used up. Possibilities of enhancing sales with timber shipments abroad are going glimmering with the secession of embargoes placed on northern lumber. Most of the profits on the sale of exports are gobbled up by the Standard and Dutch Shell outfits, who agree to permit red oil to be marketed through their distributing organization, but levy a heavy toll for the privilege.

Patently, Russia cannot afford to be patronized by Germany. Germany is too close a neighbor, the German government is too keenly interested in Russia's future, to warrant the Kremlin taking any such chance. That is a primary reason why America was selected as the pattern on which industrialized Russia would be modeled.

Can Trust United States.

The Reds know that Uncle Sam has no secret aims at territorial expansion or commercial domination in this direction. They know that the United States would never join in any international attempt at military intervention. But they do remember the writer's famous "Drang nach Osten," the slogan of Ludendorff that Germany's future lies to the east. They recall too well how quickly the Teutons slid the wheels of German locomotives and cars along the axles to suit them fit the wider Russian tracks when the Prussians swept into what is now Poland during the great war. They recall how German agents operated the textile mills in Ivanovo to make cloth for Germany, and even converted some of them to make munitions for Krupp guns.

Nor does Russia intend to hand over its industrialization to England, even if London were willing to take on the job and finance it through the long term credits that are necessary. Britain, too, with an eye on India and Asia, is too deeply interested in the outcome of the communist experiment to permit taking such a hazard.

Seeks Yank Workmen.

Only the United States is left as Russia's eventual provider of machinery and manufactured goods en masse. Left to America Russia again will turn when she has the wherewithal to make the payments. And to Yankee skilled workmen and highly trained specialists she is now turning for her factories aproaching completion, exactly as she turned when she sought engineers to design them.

Americans here scoff at suggestion that American brains are helping to erect a Frankenstein that will eventually engulf the United States and swamp American industry with the unlimited production of the newly created Slav industry.

The Russian trade menace is considered a bigger joke than the one about Stalin, by most of the foreign engineers and experts, regardless of nationality, that I have talked with. "Compete with America, or for that matter Germany or England or France or Poland? Why, it will take a generation to teach Russians to wear underwear, and then another generation to make enough to supply them," one American said.

Finally it must be agreed that in great ratio to the success of the 5 year plan, or any scheme to industrialize or otherwise improve the country, the standard of living must be raised.

Even Russians, even communists, dyed in the wool "party men," admit that the people, the peasants and the workers, the overwhelming mass of the proletariat cannot be ground down and starved indefinitely. In fact, that is the confessed reason why the scheme to industrialize the country is called the 5 year plan.

"We had to hang up some time limit, give the people something to shoot at," an official high up in the councils of the Reds told me. "We announced the period as five years, but that is just a symbol. We could not expect the people to be willing to try to go on short rations indefinitely. Now they believe they are more than half way through their calvary, that in another couple of years everything will be fine."

Regardless of the force exerted against them by the Red army and the even more powerful G. P. U. organization, the people would be physically unable to carry on indefinitely on the starvation rations now doled out to them.

Must Increase Trade.

Prosperity in Russia means automatic resumption of purchasing from abroad, export by Russia necessitates commensurate imports to equalize trade balances, and raising the standard of living here through increase in national wealth and appetite means drawing on the rest of the world for the requisites that only the rest of the world can provide.

Since time was, advance in civilization has meant advance in scope of trading, increasing commerce with adjacent tribes and races, utilization of foreign commodities, employment of outside materials, and exchange of objects as well as ideas and principles.

So surely as the soviet government succeeds in building up its own domestic machine to make life livable for its people, so surely is it creating an internal market that will one day burst any attempts to confine it and keep it localized.

And that is apart from the concrete stipulation that it will require a given number of years for created industry here even to begin to satisfy the requirements of the domestic market. The number of years is problematical, the lowest epoch I have ever heard mentioned is two generations, approximately 70 years.

Time to worry about that as we approach the year 2000.

Reckless Driver Charged with Murder of Victim

LONDON, Ont., June 26.—(AP)—Darrel Taylor, Kent O., was charged with manslaughter today in the death of Bert Loosemore, 22, of Glencoe, who was burned to death in a highway crash on April 29.

Charlie's Quest for Gift Takes Him a Long Time

Charles Procter, a bridegroom of a month, didn't go home on Christmas Eve, 1928. On Christmas day he appeared at his home, 1127 Dunlap avenue, Forest Park, only long enough to exclaim to his wife, Anna, "My goodness, I forgot to buy you a present." He left to get one. So far as Mrs. Procter knows, he is still looking for the present, for he has not returned, according to the wife's bill for divorce, filed yesterday by Attorney Victor Frolich.

U. OF MICHIGAN TREASURER QUITS AFTER 20 YEARS

Ann Arbor, Mich., June 26.—[Special.]—Resignation of Robert A. Campbell, for twenty years treasurer of the University of Michigan, was announced today from the offices of the president, effective July 1. Poor health and nearing of the retirement age were given as reasons for the retirement. The board of regents of the university has given its approval.

Campbell achieved nation-wide prominence as faculty manager of the university band, and during his period of office served a term as mayor of this city.

Officials of the university declined to discuss the matter of a possible successor to Mr. Campbell.

FARM LEADERS OPPOSE RAISING FREIGHT RATES

Traffic League Fails to Take Stand.

Organized agriculture raised its voice in protest against the proposed 15 per cent increase in freight rates at a meeting of the officers and directors of the American Farm Bureau federation yesterday at the Hotel Sherman.

At the same time the executive committee of the National Industrial Traffic league, representing several thousand shippers, announced after a meeting at the Palmer house that the league would take no stand on the proposed increase. A sharp division of opinion among the members was given as the reason by J. H. Beck, executive secretary.

The farm leaders, upon learning that the railroads do not intend to exempt farm products from the 15 per cent boost, voted to file a petition with the interstate commerce commission and all state commissions asking that the petition be denied.

Study Just Completed.

"The interstate commerce commission has just completed a four year study of all rates on agricultural products, readjusting many of them," declared O. W. Sandburg, transportation expert of the farm federation. "Now the railroads are asking the commission to scrap this study."

The federation's directors also expressed general approval of the Hoover plan for an international debt moratorium in that it might become helpful to American producers. They discussed at length a proposal for a five year moratorium on farm mortgages, but decided it to be "probably impossible of execution."

Crisis in Farm Credit.

"The farm credit system affects the economic welfare of the nation just as seriously as the international situation," declared E. A. O'Neal, president of the farm bureau. "It should be given most immediate and serious consideration by the administration, for agriculture should have credit just as easily available to it as industry or other groups."

O'Neal and other state farm bureau leaders attending the session indicated that farm credits would likely be one of chief consideration by farm leaders next December when congress convenes. Officers of the federation were voted the power to work with legislators in framing a credit measure that organized agriculture could support.

RESTORE PROFIT TO BUSINESS, IS ECONOMIST'S PLEA

Recovery from world-wide unemployment will come through restoration of business profits by a revival of investment, according to John Maynard Keynes, English economist. Before the Harris foundation at the University of Chicago yesterday he elaborated the theory he expounded Monday that the world-wide slump was caused by a drop in volume of investment and that the remedy is to restore the high level of investment. His address was on "The Abstract Analysis of the Slump."

"A boom is generated when investment exceeds saving," said Mr. Keynes, "and a slump is generated when saving exceeds investment.

"Nothing, obviously, can restore employment which does not first restore business profits. Yet nothing, in my judgment, can restore business profits which does not first restore the volume of investment; that is to say, in other words, the volume of orders for new capital goods.

"There can be, I argue, no secure basis for a return to an equilibrium of prosperity except a recovery of fixed investment to a level commensurate with that of the national savings in prosperous times."

Mayor Puts a Curb on Visitors to His Office

Mayor Cermak's office in the city hall is to be a real sanctum hereafter, with a watchdog at the door in the person of John M. Kelly, the mayor's secretary. Bothered by a stream of visitors who made it impossible for him to work on city business, the mayor announced that he would receive visitors from 10 o'clock to noon daily, and thereafter his door would be locked, with Kelly holding the only key. Even State Representative Henry Sonnenschein, long the mayor's personal secretary, was denied a duplicate.

U. S. FARM BOARD REFUSES PLEAS TO HOLD WHEAT

Stone Is Firm in Reply to Senator Watson.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 26.—[Special.]—Through Chairman James C. Stone the federal farm board today reiterated its pronouncement of last March when it said it would make no pledge to keep its wheat holdings off the market other than to promise to dispose of them in such a way that they would constitute a minimum burden on the markets at home and abroad.

JAMES C. STONE.

Mr. Stone's answer was given to Senator James E. Watson [Rep., Ind.] who came to the board to press the arguments of Indiana constituents who sought to have the board promise to keep its wheat off the market for the next four months. Senator Watson's was the latest of a series of similar exhortations, all asking that the board formally announce that it would withhold its wheat for various specified periods.

Board Is Firm.

To all such requests the board has consistently returned the answer which Senator Watson received today.

The board attempted that method of holding up prices in the case of cotton, purchasing 1,300,000 bales and promising to keep them off the market. Despite this move the price of cotton continued to fall. There is no assurance, the board points out, that wheat prices would follow a different course.

Bumper Crop Ahead.

Moreover, the board points out, to give such a public assurance would benefit the very wheat producers, the farmers of the winter wheat belt, whose failure to coöperate in cutting down acreage threatens another surplus this year.

It is the winter wheat crop, now coming on the market, which probably would receive the maximum benefit for an announcement at this time. Instead of being less this year, in keeping with the board's program, the winter wheat crop promises to be 100 million bushels greater.

Judge Frees Man Whose Horse Injured Woman

Jacob J. Doering, 5553 Princeton avenue, who was summoned to court several days ago because he failed to pay a $5,000 judgment awarded a woman who had been struck by a horse he drove, was released yesterday by County Judge Frederick Allen. Doering filed an insolvent debtor's petition showing that he had no assets but his horse, valued at $50, and a buggy with no sale value. The $5,000 judgment was awarded to Mrs. Margaret McLennan, 315 West Garfield boulevard.

Washington, D. C., June 26.—(AP)—Edward B. McLean, publisher and sportsman, today abruptly vetoed all bids for the Washington Post, bringing negotiations for the sale of the newspaper to an unexpected conclusion.

Justice Jesse C. Adkins of the District of Columbia Supreme court dismissed the proceedings after McLean smilingly watched his attorney announce he had "changed his mind."

The move came after an expected offer by McLean's estranged wife had failed to materialize.

Without explanation in court, McLean rejected a $3,000,000 offer he previously had approved by David Lawrence, president of the Consolidated Press and publisher of the United States Daily, and a tender of the same amount by W. R. Hearst.

"I wanted to protect the children," McLean later said, referring to his two minor sons. "I did not want to let go of the paper. It did not occur to me until two days ago that a sale of the Post would throw 300 men out of work. I want the paper anyway."

Reports that a reconciliation between the McLeans might result were scouted by attorneys for Mrs. McLean. They said, however, that the 16 year old son of the family recently had been with both his mother and his father. They confirmed also that Mrs. McLean visited her husband recently when she believed he was critically ill.

Less than a month ago McLean sold the famous horses that had raced his maroon and yellow silks to fame on many tracks. Attorneys have declared the trust he shared with the American Security and Trust company, under the will of his father, the late John R. McLean, is badly in need of funds. This was the reason the Post was on sale.

Girl Sent to Dwight for Theft of Automobile

Bernice Kowalski, 19 years old, 2709 Indiana avenue, was sentenced by Judge Francis Allegretti yesterday to serve six months in the women's reformatory at Dwight for the theft of an automobile. The girl said yesterday that Henry Solome, 19 years old, whom she married recently, was her accomplice. Solome is being sought.

COURT REVERSES LYLE SENTENCE OF GANGSTER

The six months sentence for vagrancy, meted out to Dominick Brancato, Aiello gangster, by Judge John H. Lyle, was reversed and the case was remanded for a new hearing yesterday by the Appellate court.

Brancato appealed on the grounds that Judge Lyle, trying him on Nov. 21, 1930, denied his motions for change of venue and for a continuance because his attorney was not present.

The opinion of the Appellate court read:

"It is clear that the contention of the defendant that he did not have a fair trial is a meritorious one. It is equally clear that the trial court had prejudged the case and had concluded in advance to find the defendant guilty.

"The rights guaranteed to the defendant by the fundamental law of the state were entirely disregarded and the entire proceeding constituted an affront to justice.

"The trial court abandoned the bench and usurped the duties of the prosecuting attorney. To the credit of the latter, it may be said that he took no part in the proceedings."

Brancato and a companion, both armed, were arrested while waiting in an automobile in front of the former special office of the state's attorney in the Temple building.

Orders Divorced Executive to Answer Wife's Charge

Carl F. Meier, $15,000 a year secretary of the Adler-Jones company, window trimmers, at 651 South Wells street, yesterday was given until July 2 by Judge John J. Sullivan in the Superior court to show cause why he should not be cited for contempt. He is approximately $10,000 in arrears on payments for the support of his daughter, Kathleen, 17 years old, it was charged by his former wife, Mrs. Zula Meier. She divorced him in 1924, winning $25 a week for the support of the girl.

Fists of Victim Punish Thief, So Judge Frees Him

Because Frank Esposito, 19 years old, 908 Sholto street, already had two black eyes which he had received from a motorist when he was found sitting in the latter's automobile, Judge Francis Allegretti dismissed him yesterday on the charge of attempting to steal the car.

G. O. P. CAMPAIGN MONEY BARREL IS RUNNING LOW

JOSEPH R. NUTT.

Both national parties have undertaken to keep new and permanent machines in operation since the last presidential campaign. It has been satisfactory to the party leaders, but they find now that raising funds in off years without the excitement and tumult of an election campaign is not so easy.

Joseph R. Nutt of Cleveland, the treasurer of the Republican national committee, has been in conference here this week with Republican leaders. The low condition of the campaign chest was the center of most of these discussions.

Cleveland After Convention.

However, Mr. Nutt still has some money and he is not alarmed.

Incidentally, the Republican treasurer is very busy "selling" Cleveland to the party leaders for the next national convention city. He is hopeful of success, but admits he has no promises.

There is a general belief in Republican circles that a city in the central part of the country will be favored by Republicans for their convention city next year. Of course, they concede the final word will be up to Mr. Hoover.

Recalling that the Republicans went to Cleveland in 1924, Mr. Nutt says: "We have a great auditorium and a great city and I am certainly most hopeful that my colleagues will recognize this and come back again."

Raskob Has His Worries.

Speculation over a city for the Democratic convention includes sites from coast to coast. There is considerable talk here that San Francisco is preparing to make a determined fight for at least one of the conventions. That is something to be decided next December.

Just now Chairman John J. Raskob of the Democratic national committee has other things than a convention city to worry about. Finances is one of them. Mr. Raskob gave another loan last quarter to tide the party over the summer months, which the Republicans are now finding difficult financially.

FORECAST COMING OF DEVIL CAUSES CONGO UPRISING

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

BRUSSELS, June 26.—The Belgian colonial office received news today of a revolt among the natives of the Kickwit district of Kwango, western Belgian Congo. Some 15,000 natives are in that district.

Medicine men are reported to be inciting the people against the colonial authorities and have announced the approaching arrival of the devil.

The authorities have at their disposal only four soldiers and one policeman. A small force was sent to their aid but when the patrol approached the village they were met by a shower of arrows. The patrol fired, killing many natives. The chief medicine man was killed and the natives dispersed, but agitation is reported continuing.

VISITS OF CHILD TO WEALTHY FATHER CURTAILED BY JUDGE

The week-end parties of David S. Wilkinson are no place for his 5 year old son, David Jr., Judge John J. Sullivan decided yesterday in the Superior court.

Wilkinson divorced Mrs. Juanita M. Wilkinson on March 14, charging cruelty. She was given custody of the boy, with the provision that he should visit his father from 4 o'clock Friday until 6 o'clock Sunday every week.

Yesterday Attorney Lloyd A. Faxon charged before Judge Sullivan that Wilkinson recently received an inheritance, and started out on a career as a playboy which included roaring week-end liquor parties in his apartment at 2438 Estes avenue. Judge Sullivan, on that representation, reduced the time of the boy's visits to from 1 to 6 o'clock Sunday afternoons.

He also granted Mrs. Wilkinson's request for $7 a week for support of the child.

ROTARY MEETING ENDS; CHICAGO INVITES MEMBERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Austria, June 26.—The Rotarian congress ended today. The board of directors was completed with the election of William Cock Buning of The Hague and Luis Machado of Cuba.

James P. Haynes, vice president of the Chicago Association of Commerce and head of the Chicago delegation, invited the Rotarians to attend the Century of Progress exposition in Chicago in 1933. Crombie Allen of California, on behalf of Seattle, the 1932 convention city, invited the Rotarians to attend the Olympic games at Los Angeles in 1932.

The laurels for family attendance were handed out to A. W. Engel, his wife and two daughters from Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Engel have attended eight consecutive sessions and the two daughters six.

HOTEL REFUSES TO REVEAL WHAT RENT CURTIS PAYS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 26.—[Special.]—"In the interest of sanity," the management of the Mayflower hotel today explained that Vice President Curtis pays more than $5.50 a day for his suite of ten rooms on the eleventh floor.

In the interest of policy and courtesy to its guests, however, the management declined to explain just what the Vice President actually does pay.

The Mayflower commented at all, it was stated further, only because the question had been raised by E. Haldeman-Julius, publisher, of Girard, Kas.

Arraigned on a thirteen year old dent in a series of telegrams which charged that Mr. Curtis had forestalled a department of justice inquiry into the hotel's somewhat tangled financial affairs and in return had received a cut rate on his apartment.

Haldeman-Julius asserted that the rooms which Mr. Curtis was able to rent for $5.50 a day had cost Harry Sinclair $150 when he occupied them during his trial here during the hearings on the oil scandals.

To this last charge, the Mayflower replied that Mr. Sinclair had not occupied the vice presidential suite, but one similar to it, and that he had not paid $150 a day.

Woman Dies of Poison; Waited Week to Call Doctor

Mrs. Gladys Davis, 22 years old, 1317 Madison Park avenue, died in the Woodlawn hospital yesterday of rat poison. According to her own statement, she swallowed two spoonfuls of the stuff on June 18 after a quarrel with her husband, John, in a small restaurant they operated at Petoskey, Mich. She returned to Chicago on June 22, but her condition was not recognized as serious until a physician was summoned to attend her on Thursday.

WHAT TEN-WORD SENTENCE CAN YOU MAKE USING ONLY THE WORDS IN TODAY'S ADS?

$1000 IN CASH PRIZES

"GOOD TIME CHARLIEGRAMS"

What Is a Good Time Charliegram?

A Good Time Charliegram is a sentence of exactly ten words which conveys a timely message of good cheer or sound advice: "Every time you buy something you help bring back prosperity." "The time to stock up is when prices are low." "Large savings can be made on nearly everything bought today." "When business starts humming prices are bound to rise again." Do you think you can make up a better Good Time Charliegram than any of these?—using only the words appearing in advertisements in today's Chicago Tribune? Try your hand at it! Read the simple rules and start looking for your words now!

WHAT sentence of exactly ten words can you make up, using only the words appearing in advertisements in today's Chicago Tribune?

This is your last week to try for the $1,000.00 in cash prizes which the Tribune will pay for the best original Good Time Charliegrams. All you have to do is select ten words from any ads in today's Tribune except the Want Ads. Put them all together and the resulting sentence may win for you one of the big cash prizes.

Try it! It's a fascinating game—just like a treasure hunt. Read the simple rules and start looking through the ads now!

THE SIMPLE RULES:

1. The Chicago Tribune will pay $1,000.00 in cash prizes to the persons who send in the best and neatest complete sets of seven (7) original Good Time Charliegrams in accordance with these rules.

2. A Good Time Charliegram is a sentence of exactly ten words which conveys a timely message of good cheer or sound advice. The sentence must be made up of words taken from advertisements EXCEPT Classified or Want Ads, published in a single day's issue of the Chicago Tribune. To indicate where you get each word, simply write down the name of the advertiser following the word. Words are NOT to be taken from the Want Ads.

3. Not more than one word shall be taken from the advertising of any one store, company, or individual. If an advertiser has more than one advertisement in the same issue of the Tribune, only one word from such advertisements may be used in the same Good Time Charliegram. The same word may be used more than once, provided that it is taken from a different advertiser every time it is used.

4. The prizes are as follows:

1st Prize		$250.00
2nd Prize		100.00
Next 2 Prizes	$50.00 each	100.00
Next 4 Prizes	$25.00 each	100.00
Next 25 Prizes	$10.00 each	250.00
Next 40 Prizes	$ 5.00 each	200.00
73 prizes totaling		$1,000.00

5. This offer is open to every one—men and women, boys and girls—except employes of the Chicago Tribune and their families. You pay nothing. Just prove your skill.

6. Good Time Charliegrams are to be submitted in complete sets only. DO NOT send in each day's entry separately. Hold all Good Time Charliegrams until you have the complete set of seven (7). Then send them to "GOOD TIME CHARLIEGRAMS," the Chicago Tribune, Tribune Tower, Chicago, Ill. All entries in the Fifth Series must be received in the Tribune office before 6 P. M. on Wednesday, July 1, 1931.

7. Contestants may submit as many sets of Good Time Charliegrams as they wish, but no contestant will be entitled to more than one prize.

8. You need NOT buy the Chicago Tribune. You may use the handy blank supplied each day in the Tribune or you may submit your entry on a separate sheet of paper. The Tribune may be examined at any of its offices or at public libraries free of charge.

9. The Judges will be appointed by the Chicago Tribune. Their decision will be final. In case of ties, duplicate awards will be made to each tying contestant.

Dominating America's greatest home market

NO MEDIUM reaches into the home like the newspaper. If you would drive your sales message deep into the buying purse of over a million and a half people, consider that compact and responsive market known as A. B. C. Philadelphia.

One of the interesting and significant facts revealed by the 1930 Federal census is the ever-increasing number of suburban dwellers thruout America.

In Philadelphia this trend is particularly pronounced.

While the city proper registered a population gain of 129,573—or 6.7% since the 1920 census—Philadelphia's A. B. C. suburban area had a population increase of 383,946—or 30.6%.

Today, there are 372,689 families—1,639,832 people—residing in the A. B. C. suburbs of Philadelphia—more people than live in the suburbs of any other American city excepting New York—more people than live in the cities of Baltimore and Boston combined.

No one Philadelphia newspaper affords better than 38% coverage of this huge and concentrated suburban population.

Here is conclusive proof that to adequately cover A. B. C. Philadelphia and its suburban area it is necessary to use newspapers that provide complete market coverage and not merely city coverage—that reach and influence the buying judgment of all the families in both the city and its suburbs.

Philadelphia department stores have been quick to recognize changed conditions.

During the first five months of 1931 they increased their space in the Curtis-Martin group of Philadelphia newspapers to the extent of 601,020 lines, while they reduced their space in the other two standard-size Philadelphia newspapers by 210,815 lines.

The one and only way to dominate the true Philadelphia market—to obtain 100% coverage of both the city and suburbs—is through the Curtis-Martin group of newspapers—The Morning, Evening and Sunday Public Ledger and the Morning and Sunday Philadelphia Inquirer.

Advertising schedules, as they apply to this, America's greatest home market, should be revised to meet present-day conditions.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE VOLSTEAD ACT'S DEATH PENALTIES.

Metropolis, Ill., in the Ohio river section of the state, furnishes the newest exhibit in the psychiatry of American law enforcement. A nineteen year old boy, a farm worker, was out in the evening with an old car which did not have a license. A city watchman and a night policeman saw the car in a road and as they started toward it the boy got in and drove away. They told the coroner's jury that they blew the police whistle, but the boy did not stop and they pursued him, firing. A shot hit the young fugitive in the head and his car went into the ditch. The boy died in a hospital, where the attending physician was about to make the record one of accidental death in an automobile accident when the undertaker found the bullet wound. Then the whole story came out. As an explanation of the affair, evidently, it was said that there was an odor of liquor immediately after the accident, presumably from the dying boy's breath. This, it seems, was to justify the manslaughter.

The episode may appear insignificant socially, deadly to the boy, but of no other particular consequence. Two local Dogberrys, zealously patrolling the precincts and preserving the peace, have their suspicions aroused, with no evidence even of disorder or of minor misconduct, and their first instinct is to fill the road with lead. The boy evidently was running away because he did not have a license plate. His impulse cost him his life.

American law enforcement under the Volstead act and because of it has been bent into tortured forms. Law officers, whether they are federal men behind a coast guard gun or local constabulary with pistols or shotguns, have developed manslaughter instincts. Their regard for life is virtually nil and there is a curious morality which holds that liquor on a man's breath is properly his death warrant. Even the suspicion that he might have a whisky breath is accepted as a valid warrant if the shooting kills him.

America in this ugly mood is not presenting a new phenomenon, merely one which the civilized parts of the white world thought had been outgrown. It has not been. If causes are cherished and fostered the consequences will be the old ones. When sealotry and bigotry are given power in politics and sanction in law the dissenters and offenders will be treated just as they always have been when a specious morality insisted upon conformity or the death penalty. If this seems too savage and outrageous to be true of American society today it will nevertheless be proved true by an examination of the manslaughter records of federal and state governments, records which are not only condoned but approved by the leaders in the prohibition cult. It is only too apparent that man killing is justifiable in the Volstead code of morality. It is regarded as the just penalty when applied to a nonconformist or one suspected of nonconformity. The Volstead act prescribes the heresy hunt, and in law enforcement it is permissible to shoot first and inquire later. The life of the individual has lost all consequence.

COMBAT OFFICERS.

With the ending of the school year the reserve officer training corps of the high schools in the 6th corps area [Illinois, Wisconsin, and Michigan] have been duly inspected and rated for excellence. Chicago schools, under Maj. Beals, made a most creditable showing. Four units were given an honor rating, seven a rating of excellence. Thus of the students in training in 20 units in Chicago, over 50 per cent were rated as excellent or better.

The honor units were those of Roosevelt, Lake View, Nicholas Senn, and Austin; those rating excellent, Fenger, Harrison, Morgan Park, Hyde Park, Bowen, Crane Technical, and McKinley.

The youths who have taken this training are to be congratulated. They are better men for it, physically and morally. They have performed the first duty of citizenship before they have crossed the threshold of civic responsibility to cast their first vote. They have prepared to defend their country. It was the young reserve officers, hastily trained at the improvised camps of 1917, who led the great American army in Europe on the field of battle. It is the young reserve officers who will be the combat leaders if the nation is again summoned to war. We are proud of these young soldiers and know the stuff they are made of. They will carry on the fighting traditions of their corps.

A MANDATE HALF OBEYED.

When the legislature passed the congressional reapportionment bill in the final days of the late session it not only performed its constitutional duty but left itself no standing for its failure to perform its duty of state reapportionment. If the legislature was bound, as it was, to redraw the lines of congressional districts in accordance with the growth and change of population it was bound to redraw the lines of the senatorial districts. Both duties are mandatory and based on the same principle. Since the legislature recognized its duty in regard to congressional representation it has no excuse for ignoring its duty in regard to state representation. In fact, the latter duty is the more important to the welfare of the state.

The responsibility for refusing lawful representation to more than half the citizens of Illinois is one which party leadership will find too heavy.

THE LAKE BREEZE.

The official weather bureau thermometer at the University of Chicago refused to concede more than 95 degrees Thursday, although the federal building instrument took it for a record at 98, which will not be accepted by the A. A. U. It is native to the country to desire broken records, even thermometrical. For Chicago and its lake shore environs the heat had the day, but not the night. The lake began taking over the situation up on the north shore about 6 o'clock, the wind creeping south and hitting the hot atmospheric walls within which the citizenship had been boiling. The dusk of the long day found the people enjoying the perfect summer climate of the world.

The lake breeze did not get many miles inland. Towns and villages to the west remained about 90; but Chicago took its ease, revived by the breath of the most benignant body of water in the country, the source of the best climate on the globe. Every time the lake turns the streamers of smoke flying west it is apparent that this region is the hope of the white race. Climate makes civilizations; weather makes man. The difference between Thursday afternoon and Thursday evening is the difference between low grade and high grade culture. That difference was the lake breeze. The Periclean period which is to come, when the human race will really flower, will seek a perfect climate for its exhibits. That's here.

THE SEASON OF RAVINIA OPERA.

Louis Eckstein, president of the Ravinia company, decided in a bad season, when excess items would be out of many a family budget, to open the Ravinia opera season and take it on the chin. Any commercial management would have closed the show on the prospects. Mr. Eckstein could estimate his personal loss in advance, but he has gone ahead not only as usual but more so. There are, as usual, the great singers of opera, more operas than are usually scheduled and each perfectly prepared. The attendance may not be the same, not because people interested in other years are indifferent now, but because they are more likely to deny themselves something they want.

Ravinia opera is one of a number of things which outsiders who prefer only a dark picture of Chicago are stumped to explain, which cannot be fitted into a pattern of barbarism and Babbitry and which are revelatory of the true city. Many of the other assets are supported by taxes, some by sufficient endowment, and still others are of profitable private enterprise. Ravinia is one of the invaluable intangibles in a city's reputation. It is one of the elements which color opinion, and opinion takes tangible form in many ways. When this opera has the best of seasons it, of course, attracts but a small percentage of the population of the metropolitan area, but that does not measure its worth to the city. The desire and the ability to maintain such an institution is accepted as a valuation of a city's standards just as indifference is taken as a measurement.

WOMEN IN AVIATION.

Ruth Nichols' plan to fly her airplane to Europe nearly cost her her life. In landing at St. John, New Brunswick, she wrecked her plane and cracked two of the vertebrae in her spine. From her hospital cot she has announced that she will resume the flight as soon as she recovers from her injuries and her plane is repaired. It is to be hoped that she will change her mind.

There is no question of the ability of women to pilot planes and to handle them ably under ordinary circumstances. But such feats as ocean crossings place a strain upon physical and nervous reserves which women cannot hope to withstand.

If Helen Wills Moody is the best woman tennis player in the world there are still a couple of thousand and probably many more men who can defeat her unfailingly. The same is true of the ablest of the women athletes in all branches of sport. They are good, but they cannot keep pace with the experts among the men.

The great feats in aviation call for the Tildens, the Bobby Joneses, the Babe Ruths of flying. They demand a degree of physical strength and resistance to nervous fatigue which even the strongest and most capable of women do not possess. Had Ruth Nichols taken off for Europe she might have reached her goal, but the chances against her were far greater than should be taken. She and other women should be discouraged from such ventures, undertaken as advertising stunts for slackers who take no risks.

Editorial of the Day

[New York Evening Post.]

The President made an excellent speech at Indianapolis. He gave there a stirring call to arms on behalf of the brave American gospel of individualism against the bureaucratic slavery of communism.

Again, at Harding's tomb at Marion, O., he spoke well. He held his self-respect in speaking of that unfortunate and overmausoleumed President.

But at Springfield yesterday, at the rededication of the Lincoln monument, Mr. Hoover's address was simply stiff and commonplace. It was the typical "Lincoln" speech, with all the tags and conventional ideas.

The reporters did their best to give it a news semblance by trying to twist into a reference to the fixed-up surrender of Al Capone the President's long familiar words about the supremacy of law. We do not believe the reference intended.

The address was right enough, in its way, and it may well be that the President felt that he could not touch too deeply upon a political topic while speaking at Lincoln's tomb. Illinois history still recalls the shock given the state by a candidate who tried to arrange his nomination as governor by a whispered deal with his party boss while standing in apparent reverence before that very sarcophagus.

Nevertheless, the President did speak of American ideals and he might fittingly have spoken of that ideal which he upheld so nobly in his Indianapolis speech. It would not have shocked the propriety of things or even Lincoln himself had Mr. Hoover repeated his summons to Americans to stand up for their Americanism.

And if that is to be Herbert Hoover's battle cry for 1932, as we devoutly hope, he must learn political wisdom enough to repeat it and repeat it and repeat it until it is driven into the consciousness of his people. That was Lincoln's way and that was Roosevelt's way. Each knew that he had a message for America and each, by sheer force of repetition, pounded it home.

TREATMENT FOR RAYNAUD'S DISEASE.

A PERSON with "white finger" can cure himself by a very simple method, if he will start early, is the opinion of Dr. W. J. Kerr. The physician's name for this disorder is "Raynaud's disease." People who have it notice that when they put their hands in cold water the fingers become very pale. The malady may affect one finger, or all of them; one hand, or both; the feet, ears, or nose. Perhaps frostbite is a cousin of the malady. The persons whose hands mottle very markedly when exposed to cold or to wetness have an allied disorder, or maybe a milder form of the same disorder. It gets worse in winter and better in summer. Attacks are precipitated by exposure to cold, however that is brought about. In a more advanced stage of Raynaud's the affected parts develop something akin to a dry gangrene.

Dr. Kerr holds that the disease is one of the walls of the middle-sized blood vessels, causing them to become too sensitized to cold. He proposes to cure this tendency by a process of hardening. He begins by putting one hand, preferably the worst one, in cold water for ten minutes three times daily. During the first week the temperature of the water is 50 degrees Fahrenheit.

During the second week the exposure is to water held at 46.2 degrees Fahrenheit. The length of exposure is ten minutes three times daily. During the third week the water is held at 42.8 and, during the fourth, at 39.2. That is all there is to the treatment except that a person may carry on by taking tub baths after finishing the treatment of the hands.

The method can be used in chilblains and for the after-effects of frozen feet. It may be of service to those who suffer from cold feet, mottled skin after exposure to cold, and all that group of uncomfortable disorders that are grouped under the loose, general term of "poor circulation."

CAUSED BY INFECTION.

A. M. writes:

1. What causes a 7½ year old child to have gumboils continually, and is there a cure? We kept her teeth filled until she began having them and the dentist began taking out the fillings.

2. What causes a cough to linger two months after the flu?

3. What might be the cause of swelling in the knees that is not painful but aches considerably when on the feet much?

REPLY.

1. Gumboils are caused by infection of the gums and tooth sockets. To prevent it give the child an abundance of fruit juice, probably several times as much as you now give. Also vegetables, and especially tomatoes. Irradiated foods and cod liver oil may help. Mouth washes should be of service.

2. It may be tuberculosis, or it may be a simple bronchitis. Sometimes the lungs do not clear up well after an atypical pneumonia.

3. My guess is that it is a mild arthritis of some kind.

DOPE USERS.

Mrs. K. writes: Can one pick out persons using dope by certain symptoms?

REPLY.

IT IS NOT DANGEROUS.

V. writes: Will it be dangerous to treat a swollen vein in the back of the thigh by injection?

REPLY.

No.

REWARD FOR CARE.

Chicago, June 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My sister died in 1915, leaving two children, one a baby eight hours old. My mother took care of them for two months, but it was too much for her, so I took them and have cared for them ever since, sending them to school. My husband is out of work, so I wrote to the children's father asking for a little help for the children. He wrote back and said he did not have to give me anything, but that if I could not continue to take care of the children to send them to him. Can he take them away from me after all these years I have cared for them? He is working every day. MRS. M. D.

Your chances of collecting from the father and still being permitted to retain the children would seem good enough to warrant employing an attorney.

WATCH DOGS.

Chicago, June 17.—[Friend of the People.]—There is a gasoline station adjacent to the building which keeps two watch dogs that howl and bark at night. The racket is very annoying to the tenants as well as ourselves. Can't something be done to prohibit the station from keeping the noisy animals?

A. B.

The captain commanding the 24th district reports the owner of gasoline station keeps dogs in building to protect the station from being broken into after they close up for the night. He states the only time they bark is when there are strangers around the place. He also states it does not pay to keep the gasoline filling station open all night. The officers on post were instructed to take the proper action against him if any violation were found.

JOHN H. ALCOCK,
Acting Police Commissioner.

WOULD ADOPT CHILD.

Chicago, June 21.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I understand that if a father does not support a child or go to see it for over a year that the stepfather can adopt it without the father's signature. Is this so?

2. Could the mother at any time force the father by law to support the child after the stepfather had adopted it?

1. Correct.

2. Section 8 of the adoption statute provides that the natural parents shall be deprived of all legal rights as respects the child and the child shall be freed from all obligations of maintenance as respects such parents. It might be argued that the failure to state that the parent is freed from all obligations of maintenance indicates an intention to distinguish between the child and the parent in this respect, but the general rule as stated in One Corpus Juris, page 1,396, is that the natural parent is relieved of responsibility.

SECOND DAY—"Fine thing." "Might work out splendidly." "Looks as though it would end the depression." "Ought to help the world a great deal." "Sounds good."

WHITE SMILE.

Where have we met before?
That same dear flash of eyes and teeth—
A heartrending encore!

Long, long ago, yet not so long—
Remembering is slow—
And who was he; and what was he?
Oh, now—I know, I know!

The hurt is healed, the scar is small,
One lesson should suffice,
But if I touched the flame again
Should I be wounded twice?

THE CUSTODIAN of the capitol at Washington is all worked up because Statuary hall, where stand the statues of the nation's former great men, is so crowded that no more can possibly be put in. Cheer up, custodian; from the looks of things present and future, new statues of great statesmen can be grouped in a telephone booth.

SEASONABLE HINTS.

For frozen ears or nose, rub the affected part in snow or bathe in ice water. If the hands or feet should be frozen during the present most unusual weather immerse them in a wash basin filled with snow. Snow blindness can only be cured by remaining within a darkened room for several days. In the case of chilblains do something at first to remove the chill, the blains will then heal of themselves. Warm, thick red flannel underwear should be worn these days with heavy clothing and fur overcoats. If lost in the snow do not keep on walking. You think you are walking straight ahead, but you are not; you are walking in a circle and will soon come back to the same dam place where you started. And don't sit down and go to sleep; keep moving. If you go to sleep in this weather you will probably freeze to death, which would be just too bad. If you are sure you are lost in the snow and a terrible blizzard full of sleet driven by a high wind comes on, the best thing to do is to advertise in the Lost and Found column of any newspaper. It might be well to state in your ad that you have on your person a quart bottle of prewar whisky; the world will beat a path to your door. But, whatever you do, try to keep warm. Swing your arms, jump up and down; anything, just so you keep warm.

THE GOOD WILL MAYORS, now that they're back after their more or less triumphal tour of sunny France, say the press reports grossly exaggerated; they merely drank like gentlemen. But the drys will tell you that no gentleman ever drinks; a man who drinks even a glass of beer is instantly transformed into a raging fiend who sets fire to the old home and chases his family with an ax for fifteen miles. The drys are really good-hearted people, most of them, but simple, trusting souls.

You birds who drive your cars a-straddle,
Of the line between the lanes—skedaddle!

Or list what's going to happen to you,
If you keep on driving the way you do.

And old St. Peter will bid you wait.

"A road hog, hey!" Saint Pete will say,

"You're one of those who quite disdain,
To keep within your proper lane,

"And who'll not yield or bat an eye,
Though the cars behind beg to get by.

"Well, since you love to ride the line,
We'll let the punishment fit the crime.

"You can straddle a certain line we've got,
Where on one side the weather's hot.

"On the other it's nice and pleasant, but you
Will have to drive betwixt the two.

"You shall drive your car, and I trust you drive well,
On the line dividing heaven and hell.

"So step on the gas and cut out the tears,

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JUNE 27, 1915.

CHICAGO.—Dario Resta, Italian motor racer, is the speed king of the world. He drove an automobile for 500 miles today at Speedway park at a pace faster than it was ever driven before. He won prizes aggregating $23,000 by crossing the tape an easy winner at Chicago's first auto Derby. In his Puegeot French racing car he traveled the 500 miles in 5 hours 7 minutes and 27 seconds, an average throughout the race of 97.6 miles an hour. Porporato finished second in his English racing car, the Sunbeam special, and Rickenbacker finished third in his American made racer, a Maxwell special. The attendance was 82,000.

BERLIN.—Successes for German arms at three points on the western battle front are reported. The official statement says: "The battle north of Souches and between Souches and Neuville ended last night. The last Frenchman was ejected from our trenches, despite the arrival of reinforcements. French attacks in the Meuse hills and also eastward near Luneville were beaten off. We captured an advance enemy position east of De Tranches."

PARIS.—The war office admits that violent German attacks on the Meuse heights enabled the Teutons to penetrate one of the advance French trenches, but says other attacks in the region were repulsed.

PARIS.—Field Marshal Sir John French, commander of the British army around Ypres, is likely soon to find himself retired, following the recent precedent in Lord Kitchener's case, according to reports from the front. Announcement is expected shortly that French's health has given way.

CHICAGO.—Under a bombardment of eggs, vegetables and stout sticks, four disciples of John Alexander Dowie were chased out of Evanston by a crowd of 700 angry citizens. It was the noisiest demonstration quiet Evanston has known in years. The quartet had attempted to spread the doctrines of Elijah II. at an open air meeting. Northwestern students started the demonstration.

CHICAGO.—The board of education further enlivened an otherwise stormy session by swinging the economy ax. It voted out of office Assistant Superintendent A. F. Nightingale, after the position he held had been characterized as "ornamental" and then on the admission of Supt. Cooley that they could be spared, four of the district superintendents were dismissed.

CHICAGO.—Miss Hannah Comerford, daughter of Mrs. Mary Comerford, 3823 Langley avenue, and Dee S. McGrath, cashier of the Calumet National bank, were married at the Church of the Holy Angels on Oakley boulevard by Bishop McGavick, assisted by the Rev. Father Farrell. Miss Mary Parker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Parker of 4737 Lake avenue, and Edward Rolland Adelsberger were married at the Parker home. Miss Parker is well known in art circles, having created the central figure of the nymphs fountain which two years ago adorned the lake front park, and Mr. Adelsberger is government architect at Havana.

NEW YORK.—Speaking on the subject of monopolies the Rev. Henry Ward Beecher said: "The great peril of the future lies in the development of combinations of labor and capital. The individual becomes powerless before the gigantic monopolies created by the force of wealth."

BERLIN.—The public exhibition of placards of emigration agents or of foreign steamship companies has been prohibited, and a bill impeding emigration will be introduced in the next session of the reichstag.

CHICAGO. — The twenty-second grand sängerfast of the North American Sängerbund will be held at the Exposition building June 29 to July 2, and is expected to be the greatest musical event of the nineteenth century. The program includes seven grand concerts, a mighty chorus of 2,000 singers, and a magnificent orchestra of 150 artists. Hans Balatka will be the musical director.

THE MEANING OF A MURDER.

Chicago, June 22.—This morning's account of the murder of J. Kaufman, movie operator, is a murder story that I hope all Chicago reads from first to last line, especially those who complain about murder stories being given much prominence. Here are the full details showing what our American "unions" have degenerated into. The state's attorney's office is always investigating; but if these investigations mean anything, why are these racketeering unions allowed to exist at all?

When the business agent of such a union can have his own brother in the city hall as head of the bureau issuing permits to work at that trade, and when said business agent can have state laws passed compelling employers to hire these men he gives permits to, it shows that we no longer have a government for the citizens' welfare, but an autocracy of the racketeers. This one small incident in one union is repeated by dozens of other unions affecting our housing, clothing, amusement, food, and fuel, until we Americans have not one trace of our original dearly bought freedom left. All men and their families that are members of some union or other know that this condition exists, but it is only when a murder occurs that it is brought out publicly.

So far from condemning front page murder stories we ought to especially commend a paper that will print every detail when such details can be obtained from the state's attorney's office.

MEN VS. HORSES.

Chicago, June 23.—In these times of stress and adversity the antics of our so-called social and political leaders who patronize the race tracks are cause for comment. If the so-called leaders are in earnest when they state that only the races interest them, and not the money, why don't they donate those $50,000 and $100,000 prizes to charity and let the nags run for some broken down cup? Surely the horses won't object.

Let Mr. Average Citizen, who loses at least ten dollars every time he (or she) goes to the track, donate his share to the human race instead of the horse race, and human misery will be alleviated greatly. NATHAN HILLMAN.

THE AGE OF UNIVERSITIES.

Chicago, June 23.—Strolling into Jackson park from the north, opposite the new industrial museum, Sunday morning, a young man approached and asked the writer if the above structure were a part of the University of Chicago. I said no, tried to explain, and directed him to the U. of C. From his accent I judged he was an Englishman and from his conversation that he must have been a recent arrival. As we parted he said, "The university is rather new, isn't it?" This remark may indicate both a criticism and a boast—a criticism in that, being new, the university could not be other than immature; a boast in that the European colleges, being centuries older, must be far superior.

The Chicago university, as well as all similar institutions in the United States, is just as old as the oldest in England or continental Europe. The crux of the matter lies in the fact that the intellectual lore that is being diffused through our colleges came to us via Europe or the orient. Europe's textbooks are our textbooks. Do not these, then, fix the age of our seats of learning, rather than the buildings? CHARLES W. SMITH.

THUMPING.

Chicago, June 21.—Unspeakable gratitude for your thumping, inspiring and dignified editorial on American morals in this morning's TRIBUNE! Whatever adverse opinions I have been entertaining hitherto—and they have been plenty—against your paper, they all are forgiven and forgotten now in the enthusiastic and emotional reception given this editorial.

It requires a larger public. Can it not be repeated in a daily issue this week? And then frequently reprinted in Sunday editions? Can it not be published in pamphlet form and disseminated throughout the country? It should inspire the nation to raise us up a leader who would show us our way out of this slough of demoralization. A leader—and the millions would follow!

INGERSOLL ON THE PRESS.

Chicago, June 17.—I have enjoyed the press gems you are running at the head-off of your editorial page; and while I do not like them less than the one hereinafter, plucked from the preserved gems of the late Robert G. Ingersoll, I simply pass it on to you for utility in your noble fight:

"Let the press have the courage always to defend the right, always to defend the people—and let it always have the power to clutch and strangle any combination of men, however intellectual or rich, that feeds and fattens on the flesh and blood of honest men."

JURY DECIDING FATE OF DEPUTY WHO SLEW RUBIO

BULLETIN.

Ardmore, Okla., June 26.—(AP)—The Guess jury retired for the night at 10:10 p. m. without having reached a verdict.

Ardmore, Okla., June 26.—(AP)—The murder trial of W. E. Guess for the killing of Emilio Cortes Rubio, young kinsman of President Ortiz Rubio of Mexico, was given to the jury at 7:32 tonight.

The jury took the case just 19 days after Cortes Rubio and his friend, student Manuel Avila Gomez, met their lives beneath Guess' gun in a residential section here.

Tom Crosby, former county sheriff who is charged with the murder of Rubio and Gomez, announced he would demand a trial even if Guess was acquitted.

CECIL CROSBY.

Saw Students Shot.

Crosby was a companion of Guess the night of June 7 when the two Mexican students were shot and killed by Guess as they stopped their motor car on a street here while en route to Mexico, but Crosby did no shooting.

The jury heard hours of oratory by Guess's score of lawyers, including M. C. Gentsch, attorney for the Mexican consul general at San Antonio.

Gentsch said Gonzales, was "prosecutor, judge and jury" when he shot down the youths. Emilio, he shouted, was "sacrificed to the sanguinary instinct of an irresponsible officer." Gentsch charged Guess "planted" a gun on Gomez.

Defense Has Say.

Roy Sigler, defense lawyer, pounded the jury box with the Mexicans' pistols and shouted, "It is better to be quick on the trigger than not quick enough. In another quarter of a second Bill Guess would have gone a-dying."

Sigler said the youths had pistols because they were "looking for trouble" and that they were "dressed like hijackers than students."

KILLED BY DYNAMITE BLAST.

BINGHAM CITES ASIA PROBLEMS OF FUTURE IN FILIPINO DECISION

Washington, D. C., June 26.—[Special.]—Philippine independence would be an economic disaster for the islands and would mean a great loss of prestige on the part of the United States, declared Senator Hiram Bingham [Rep., Conn.] today. And just as surely, he added, a bill granting Philippine independence will be pressed during the next congress, and probably will pass.

HIRAM BINGHAM. [Fotograms.]

Senator Bingham hoped that the President would see fit to veto any such measure.

"There is no question," he said, "that the most serious problems likely to arise in the next generation are those connected with Asia. Such a very large part of the population of the world lives in India, China, and the far east that we cannot afford to take any steps, even for some immediate economic advantage to ourselves, which will lessen our influence and our prestige among Asiatic peoples."

What he meant by "immediate economic advantage to ourselves" he explained by recalling the efforts of farm representatives and leaders to end what they declare is an unwarranted competition coming from the importation of certain Philippine commodities.

CHINESE BUREAU TO STOP USE OF OPIUM ATTACKED

SHANGHAI, June 26.—The National government announced today the creation of a new bureau for the purpose of the "prevention of opium smoking," which is designed to exterminate the drug evil within six years.

Today 120 Chinese labor unions issued a protest to Nanking, demanding that the government rescind the scheme, which they charge is a plan to create an opium monopoly for the purpose of raising the government's revenue.

The unions' protest declares that the creation of a new opium bureau is a violation of The Hague opium suppression convention.

Dr. Wu Lien-teh, head of the Chinese quarantine service and the Chinese delegate to the recent Geneva anti-narcotics conference, originated the scheme, claiming that China will thereby realize an annual revenue of between $50,000,000 and $100,000,000, which is now going into the pockets of smugglers and corrupt government officials.

Seabury Inquiry Causes an Upheaval in Courts.

New York, June 26.—[Special.]—The ousting of New York's first and only woman magistrate, Jean Norris, has turned the spotlight strong upon the city magistrates' courts. Heretofore the state inquiry instituted by Samuel Seabury, under appointment of Gov. F. D. Roosevelt, had lobbed along without the public seeming to realize its importance. With Mrs. Norris cast out, and a summary of results of the inquiry brought to attention, it is seen that quite an upheaval in the lower courts is under way.

Vitale First to Get Out.

Albert H. Vitale was the first to go. After him went by way of resignation George W. Simpson, Henry Goodman, and Francis X. McQuade, and yesterday, Mrs. Jean Norris, the only woman in the magistrates' courts.

It was shortly after the death of Arnold Rothstein that there came to light evidence of a loan made by the murdered gambler to the magistrate. The loan was for $28,000.

The result, as the court saw it, was to impair public confidence in the administration of justice, and out went Vitale.

The extrajudicial activities of Francis X. McQuade were what brought about his resignation. There was no corruption revealed in the case of McQuade, but Mr. Seabury believed the Appellate division would have declared him unfit for the robe had he permitted his case to go before the court.

Subject of Public Quiz.

The next resignation came from Magistrate Henry Goodman. He, too, offered a letter, leaving the bench shortly before he was to have been the subject of a public inquiry. Illness was the reason Goodman gave for quitting.

It was his conduct while on the bench that was the chief subject of the inquiry into Goodman's conduct, but his bank accounts also were brought under scrutiny.

George W. Simpson became ill at the time that his affairs were being investigated. It was on Magistrate Simpson's court calendar where were found the names of Tammany district leaders noted in the magistrate's handwriting opposite the names of cases.

The only magistrates to let the Appellate division rule upon fitness were Mrs. Norris, Vitale and Magistrate Jesse H. Silberman. Magistrate Silberman now is on trial. At the trial today a witness told of a Tammany district leader influencing Judge Silberman in imposing sentence on two men.

TWO MORE MEN OF MYSTERY HUNTED IN FAITHFULL PUZZLE

New York, June 26.—[Special.]—Two men, said unofficially to be the persons with whom Starr Faithfull had an appointment just before her death, have been identified by the police and are being sought to testify before the Nassau county grand jury, it was learned today at Mineola.

Refusing to give the names of the pair, District Attorney Elvin N. Edwards announced that subpoenas had been issued for them. His statement followed earlier reports that Tucker Faithfull, sister of Starr, had named the two men to Inspector Harold R. King of the Nassau county police.

The two persons sought were expected to show that Starr had gone voluntarily to Long Beach, where, according to the unofficial accounts, one of the two men had a summer cottage. Mr. Edwards effects to produce the two before the grand jury next Tuesday.

At the same session, Mr. Edwards said, the report of Albert Osborn, handwriting expert engaged to pass upon the genuineness of so-called suicide notes written by Starr to Dr. G. Jameson Carr, ship's surgeon, will be presented to the grand jury. The notes, which tend to show that Starr committed suicide because her affection for Dr. Carr was not returned, have been declared forgeries by Stanley E. Faithfull, the dead girl's stepfather.

RECOUNT PLEA OF EX-JUDGE OLSON IS DISMISSED

County Judge Jarecki yesterday dismissed the petition of Harry Olson, former chief justice of the Municipal court, for a recount of the ballots on which John J. Sonsteby defeated him at the election last November.

Judge Jarecki acted after inspecting a test count of 275 precincts. In those precincts both candidates lost votes, Sonsteby, 1,104, and Olson, 762. Olson's gain of 342 votes, however, was not considered sufficient headway toward wiping out the Sonsteby majority of 16,401.

Judge Jarecki continued until Monday his action on the petition for a recount of the votes of former Municipal Judge Charles F. McKinley. The official canvass showed that Judge George V. McIntyre, lowest on the list of elected judges, defeated McKinley by only 2,381 votes. The test recount of 275 precincts gave McKinley a net gain of 1,094 votes.

Druggist Gets 3 Years in Narcotic Law Case

Dr. William Loeser, druggist at 1102 Leland avenue, was sentenced to serve three years in federal prison at Leavenworth by Federal Judge John B. Barnes yesterday on a charge of violating the anti-narcotic laws. He was convicted on eight counts by a jury in Judge Barnes' court two weeks ago.

Washington, D. C., June 26.—[Special.]—The National guard ration for enlisted men attending summer camps this year was cut by the war department as an economy move today. Telegrams dispatched to the adjutant generals of the various state organizations directed that the allowance for subsistence in camp per man be reduced from the 50 cents a day voted by congress to 45 cents. Reductions in the amounts usually spent for forage, fuel and transportation were also called for.

The order cutting the amount to be expended each day on the food for the men attending National guard summer camps was issued shortly after it had been made known that the army would be able to turn back a substantial part of the fund voted for regular army food last year.

The present army ration costs about 42 cents on the average. The ration for the regular army, however, is based on certain components of food and for that reason varies from month to month. The amount of food remains the same although the cost varies.

In National guard organizations the amount available for food is cut, thus reducing the size of the ration. No change has been made thus far in the 70 cent ration voted by congress for each man attending C. M. T. C. camps. This 70 cents is for paying cooks as well as for purchase of food.

"On account of an impending deficiency in appropriations for summer camps fiscal year 1932 the utmost economy must be practiced in all camp activities and especially in the items of fuel, forage, and transportation of equipment to these camps. On account of the reduction in costs of food items the allowance for subsistence in camp is reduced to a maximum of 45 cents per man per day," the order said.

EUGENE O'NEILL JR., SON OF PLAYWRIGHT, MARRIED JUNE 15

New York, June 26.—(AP)—Eugene O'Neill, Jr., Yale student and son of the playwright, and Miss Elizabeth Green of Forest Hills were married in Long Island City on June 15, it was disclosed today.

Announcement of the marriage was made by Mrs. George Pitt-Smith, mother of the bridegroom, who said there was no parental objection and the couple were on a wedding trip on a yacht owned by the bride's father. The only witnesses at the marriage were Mrs. Pitt-Smith and the bride's father.

The bridegroom is the son of the playwright by his first wife, the former Kathleen Jenkins, now Mrs. Pitt-Smith, whose marriage to O'Neill was dissolved by divorce in 1912.

Young O'Neill, now in his junior year, won the Winthrop prize at Yale last May. He plans to return in the fall to graduate.

Hold Confessed Slayer of Woman to Grand Jury

Frank Cankar, 43 years old, who confessed that he choked to death Mrs. Katherine Albrect, 55 years old, with whom he roomed at 655 West Grand avenue, was recommended held to the grand jury on a charge of murder yesterday by a coroner's jury. His confession was read to the jury. In it he charged that Mrs. Albrect had attempted to take out an insurance policy on his life, mentioning to him as she did so the case of Mrs. Margaret Summers, now under indictment on charges of murdering four men for their insurance.

THIEF MURDERED, JURY HOLDS.

A coroner's jury returned a verdict of murder by persons unknown yesterday at the inquest into the death of Domipic Latronica, 21, year old automobile thief, who was "taken for a ride" and tossed into a ditch in Willow Springs two weeks ago.

SPAIN FIRES SEA FLYER AS HEAD OF AIR SERVICE

Maj. Franco Accused of Plotting Revolt.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, June 26.—Maj. Ramon Franco's brief hour of glory as birdman hero of the Spanish republic ended today, when Minister of War Manuel Azana, with the hearty approval of the entire provisional government, disgraced the Atlantic flyer by throwing him out of his job as chief of the nation's air service.

The little aviator with the restless eyes, who last December was willing to bomb former King Alfonso out of his palace, may, some believe, rise to greater glory as chief of a discontented proletariat, but it won't be tomorrow morning in the wee hours as it is said, he had planned.

Revolt Scotched, Republic Say.

The uprising, which he seems to have been provoking for some few hours hence to destroy Sunday's parliamentary elections, has been scotched, the provisional government said.

He is accused of aiming to set off the anarcho-syndicalist and communist elements in Catalonia, Andalusia, and the industrial districts of the north in collaboration with a number of hot blooded pilots, to whom he is still an idol, and the acquiescence of at least three of the exiled king's old generals, who are said to be anxious for any kind of trouble.

But the government acted quickly. They had only to remove Maj. Franco from office and were not obliged to risk a riot by jailing him because he is in bed with a broken leg after that "tail spin" from the speaker's platform night before last night when he exhorted the proletariat of Andalusia.

Constabulary Head on Guard.

But to make sure, the government sent Gen. Sanjuro, commander of the civil guards, the man who made the transition from the monarchy to the republic bloodless when he saw Alfonso was through, down to Seville to stand by in case of trouble.

Upon his arrival in Sevill tonight Gen. San Jurjo immediately went to the headquarters of the captain general of the Andalusia region, which, because of its acute agrarian problem, is on a par with Catalonia as a menace to the tranquillity of the republic.

After a speedy inspection of the city, the commander of the civil guards massed the constabulary in the streets, arming the guards with machine guns and tear bombs. They were also posted around churches and monasteries lest efforts be made to apply the torch.

Guards were also placed at the bedside of Maj. Franco.

UNIVERSE LIKE BURSTING BOMB, SAYS EINSTEIN

BERLIN, June 26.—(AP)—The universe is like a bursting bomb, in the center of which we sit, and it also is like a soap bubble. The comparisons are Prof. Albert Einstein's.

"The great solar systems beyond the milky way are racing away from us at great speed," the professor said last night in a lecture at the University of Berlin. "In other words, the universe turns out to be a bursting bomb, in the center of which we sit.

"According to Friedmann's dynamic theory, however, this expansion can only be stated as proceeding at present. Calculations force us to conclude that the expansion will not continue forever, and that one day the cosmic soap bubble must reach a maximum and begin contracting."

Prof. Einstein, who was in genial mood, likened the universe to a gigantic bubble steadily increasing in size but likely in the astronomically near future to cease expansion and enter a long period of shrinkage.

For awhile, he said, the prevailing theory of the distribution of matter in space was that space was practically empty except for the crowded milky way. Later, science had to admit that far off and tiny nebular wisps really were systems just as big and crowded as the milky way. But, according to Newtonian astronomy, a universe built like that would be lopsided and could not maintain its equilibrium.

About thirty years ago, Einstein continued, advanced astronomical thinkers began suggesting that the Newtonian law of gravitation needed amendment. "As a matter of fact there was no objection the scientific police could raise to such amendment except on the ground of good taste," Einstein said.

UPHOLDS FERON AS MAGISTRATE FOR OAK PARK

Judge H. W. Summers, sitting temporarily in the Circuit court of Cook county, yesterday rendered a decision giving the police magistracy in Oak Park to James M. Feron, from whom that office was taken by the Oak Park village board after a shortage of about $15,000 was found in his accounts more than a year ago.

The matter was brought into court through a petition filed by L. A. Wescott to compel Feron, as magistrate, to issue a garnishment. As the village board in March, 1930, had declared Feron's place vacant and had appointed Paul R. Wick, village attorney, to be a justice of the peace and act as police magistrate, it was a question as to whether Feron had any standing as a police magistrate.

Judge Summers held that he still was possessor of the office and that the village board had acted illegally in discharging him. Feron has replaced the money which he was accused of taking from the fines paid in, and he was allowed last March to plead guilty to a charge of petit larceny. On this count he was placed on probation for six months.

$7.88 NOW BUYS WEEK'S FOOD FOR FAMILY OF FOUR

Surveys Show Prices Cut 20 Per Cent.

BY PAUL POTTER.

The cost of eating in Chicago, reduced in recent weeks to the lowest in two decades, now makes it possible to supply a family of four for a week with an adequate diet for as little as $7.88. This was revealed in a survey of food prices yesterday.

Drastic declines in retail food prices were found to have followed the earlier drop in wholesale values of 10 to 25 per cent below the prices of a year ago. These percentages of decline are even greater when today's prices are compared with those of 1928 and 1929. Some Chicago retail authorities even express the belief that further lowering of food costs may be expected before the end of the year.

The good news for home budgeteers that a week's meals might be prepared for less than two dollars per person was contained in the report of a survey in 13 large cities, issued by the federal home economics bureau in Washington. Chicago stood next to Los Angeles in having the lowest retail prices, with New York prices being highest. The average of the 13 cities was $8.34.

On Weekly Food List.

Here is what the government's shoppers bought in making their comparisons for a week's purchases: Bread, 20 to 25 pounds; flour, 4 pounds; cereal, 4 to 7 pounds; whole milk, fresh or canned, 4 to 14 pounds; potatoes, 15 to 20 pounds; legume vegetables (beans, etc.), 1 to 3 pounds; tomatoes, fresh or canned, or oranges, 6 pounds; other vegetables, fresh or canned, and inexpensive fruit, fresh or canned, 20 to 25 pounds; fats (butter, lard, etc.), 4 pounds; sugar, including some of unrefined cane molasses, 5 pounds, and lean meat, fish, eggs, or cheese, 5 to 10 pounds.

"Shopping was done at inexpensive or average stores," the bureau says, "prices being based on either weekly purchases or from day to day. The combinations and proportions of food will give good nutrition returns for a limited outlay of money, but low cost meals are somewhat more difficult to plan and achieve."

Show Drop of 19 Per Cent.

Meanwhile, the report on another survey of food costs in Chicago by the government's bureau of labor in May reflected in even more detail the drop of 19 per cent in retail prices compared with May a year ago. Further declines in meat prices in June were said yesterday to have brought this reduction to more than 20 per cent. Forty-two foods were listed in the labor bureau's comparisons.

Lowest Prices in 20 Years.

"Present retail food prices are now the lowest in 20 years in Chicago, and they are approaching the low prices we had in 1893-'94," declares Sol Westerfeld, veteran grocer and meat retailer, former head of the city's food retailers' association.

Several store managers declared Chicagoans might see even further declines in the next few months. They also pointed out that price comparisons alone do not tell the whole story, since methods of production and merchandising now give the consumer more certain high quality and wider range of selection in season as well as out of season.

JOIN COMMUNITY IN FIREWORKS, IS SAFETY PLEA

The National Safety council in a bulletin just issued sets forth a series of rules for the reduction of Fourth of July fatalities. It is especially urged that fireworks, if any, be handled as a part of community celebrations, never by children. Among the rules are:

1. Motorists and pedestrians should be doubly alert when our population celebrates on wheels, as over the Fourth.

2. Know first aid and be ready to utilize your knowledge; fireworks injuries should be treated by a physician if possible, to prevent lockjaw.

3. Know the principles of prone pressure resuscitation. Drownings come second to automobile accidents in Fourth of July casualties.

Wright Gives Views on City of the Future

Less Height, More Spread, Architect's Theory.

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

FRANK LLOYD WRIGHT'S lectures to Princeton undergraduates in architecture have been published in book form by the Princeton University Press. Embodying, as they do, the speaker's faith and philosophy, they make extremely worthwhile reading for all of us, whether we know much or little about the subject of architecture.

To most Europeans Frank Lloyd Wright is America's leading architect and designer. For many years his ideals have been executed in stone and concrete in Germany, Japan and other parts of the world. By some he is called a genius.

"Modern Architecture" gives the why of Mr. Wright's beliefs. In its contents: "Machinery, Material and Men; Style in Industry; The Passing of the Cornice; The Cardboard House; The Tyranny of the Skyscraper and the City," he explains his revolt against the old and the traditional forms of building and shows his reasons for his lifelong struggle for integrity in architecture and for what he calls "organic simplicity" and beauty.

"Repose is the reward of true simplicity," he says, "and organic simplicity is sure of repose. Repose is the highest quality in the art of architecture, next to integrity, and a reward for integrity." By integrity is meant a fundamental honesty in design, a refraining from all imitation of the work of other builders, of other times.

He uses the cornice, without which no building was formerly constructed, as a symbol of the artificial and the grandiose, of "sculpture in architecture," and in the advent of the skyscraper of Louis H. Sullivan, with its abolition of the cornice, he sees a great sign of progress. The skyscraper "was a greater achievement than the papal dome," he believes, "because here was utility become beauty by sheer triumph of imaginative vision."

However, according to Wright, verticality, such as our modern office buildings emphasize, is only temporary. The citizen of the future will prefer horizontality. "He will gradually abandon the city." The metropolis as we know it now will die, and we are already witnessing "the acceleration that precedes dissolution."

In this architect's ideal housing scheme he sees an acre allotted to each family—not a strip of ground 25, 50, or even 100 feet wide, but an acre. The city will flatten out, so to speak, and spread all over the landscape, with neighborhood distribution centers, meeting places, and restaurants acting as "advance agents of decentralization." Man will then know the real meaning of freedom.

The most interesting part of the book is the section in which the writer, or lecturer, tells of his own early designs for houses, shows how they broke with tradition and explains what he was trying to accomplish by doing away with attics, cellars, cornices, dormers, interior partitions, etc. You feel that here is a really unique mind at work; here is a genius at the task of creation.

"Modern Architecture" will make a worthy addition to the library of every intelligent person.

"Modern Interiors in Europe and America," published by Rudge in London, is a collection of photographs by Herbert Hoffman with a preface by him. It is a fascinating book to any one interested in interior decoration, showing, as it does, examples of the work of all the well known contemporary European and American designers of interior furnishings.

Especially interesting to Chicagoans are two pictures of the work of Howard T. Fisher, young Chicago decorator, one of which appeared in THE TRIBUNE some time ago in connection with photographs of modern offices of this city.

The best way to find out what the contemporary craftsmen are trying to do is to sit down and go through a series of pictures of their work, such as this book affords. At a glance you can tell how the French school differs from the German in its conception of modern decoration, how the Swedish in some ways resembles the German, and how the English is a group by itself.

"Modern Interiors" will prove highly enlightening and is sure to evoke comments for and "agin" the modern movement.

TRIALS OF AUTHORS TO AID HOSPITALS; MORE MYSTERIES

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON.—[Special Correspondence.]—There is to be another series of mock trials this year in aid of King Edward's hospital fund, and again many distinguished writers have consented to be indicted for some imaginary offense for the entertainment of audiences.

ST. JOHN ERVINE. [Pinchot Photo.]

Among others, St. John Ervine and Philip Guedalla will be placed in the dock; but the nature of the pretended charges against them is not yet disclosed. This notion had happy results last year, and the trials will again take place at the London School of Economics.

St. John Ervine should be in good practice as a speaker, for he is now in Sweden, lecturing. He is among the most popular of all men with those who attend the entertainments so ingeniously promoted on behalf of the hospital fund, for he is a ready debater and is neither timid in statement nor irritable under attack.

In June will be published a new volume of poems by Humbert Wolfe. It is to be called "Snow," and it consists of sonnets, epigrams, and lyrics, some of them inspired by symbols of the passing months and others by characters, real and fictitious. The poet demands of Omar Khayyam and FitzGerald, for example, which of them was the real poet. He celebrates Corporal Trim. He pays homage to Andrew Marvell, George Herbert, Byron, and Heine. And he adds a single translation—of Georges Lafourcade's "Ode to Shakespeare."

Last year I drew attention of David Sharp's first amusing thriller, "Where No Man Pursueth!" Mr. Sharp is just publishing a second book of the same kind, called "My Particular Murder!" This is a little too much like its forerunner to have quite the novelty of "Where No Man Pursueth," but it is written with the same light humor. A professor, lost in the fog, offers twopence to a dead man, hastens away, is kidnaped, and is accused of murder. He is a foolhardy old gentleman, and is busy in his search for trouble; but since all ends well he may be justified. If the book were only a little better it would be very good indeed; and those who care for the mixture of nonsense and murder will like "My Particular Murder!" Others will find it too slight.

Mr. Sharp is not so much as mentioned in an elaborate study of crime literature called "Masters of Mystery," by H. Douglas Thomson, which otherwise has a fairly encyclopedic interest. This book surveys the novel of crime as it has been written in France, America, and England. His work is interesting, though not exhaustive, in analysis. The author is a young man who is engaged in the advertising business in London. The literature of crime is his hobby. If the present demand for such work continues, there is no doubt that his studies will prove good training for the actual writing of murder novels.

Certainly the demand shows no sign of diminishing here. Each day of the week one or more mystery books can be seen arriving at the booksellers' shops. No fewer than twenty new ones stand at this moment upon a shelf above my head, all gory, all decorated either with masks or pistols or question marks.

Otherwise the book trade is fairly quiet just now in London. Miss Naomi Royde-Smith's new novel is highly commended [it is called "The Delicate Situation"], and William Faulkner's "The Sound and the Fury" is just published.

Skipper Writes Vivid Account of Polar Epic

Shackleton Rescue Told by Worsley.

BY AL CHASE.

"Endurance," by Commander Frank Worsley [Cape-Smith] is a straightforward narrative of the unbelievably thrilling experiences of Sir Ernest Shackleton and his party in their desperate struggle to safety across sea and ice when their ship was crushed in the Antarctic. It's probably a more vivid and smashing saga of the south pole than anything Shackleton could write for Worsley, skipper of the Endurance, was Shackleton's closest friend and told of their icy battles with death with a freedom that Shackleton, a modest hero, couldn't or wouldn't write about himself.

The boat journey to South Georgia by Shackleton, Worsley and others, across one of the most treacherous stretches of salt water on this old earth, to get help for the rest of the party left behind on Elephant island, is truly an epic of polar adventure.

The hair raising trip across the glaciers and mountain peaks of South Georgia by Shackleton, Worsley and a companion, and their slide down a mountain side to safety and aid at a whaling station also is a super thriller.

The story of the rescue of the Endurance crew has been told again and again, but never, we believe, with more authenticity, vigor and human interest. The "good old skipper," as Shackleton called him, is also a "good old reporter." He remembers the incidents that the average person enjoys hearing about and he tells them with such enthusiasm and good humor that, perhaps entirely unconsciously, he does a really fine piece of writing.

He devotes several chapters to Shackleton's and his own adventures after the famous Endurance episode, including some war exploits and sea adventures. And then he tells of Shackleton's last pathetic fight to break through the Antarctic barrier and reach the pole. It's a poignant picture of a disasterous voyage, with death seemingly at the helm from the start.

Worsley pays this tribute to his old friend: "He was not only a great explorer; he was a great man. Twenty-two years of his life he had devoted to polar work—work which had brought him fame and had earned him a knighthood. He had forced his way to within ninety-seven miles of the south pole and had returned with all his men.

"He had discovered the Beardmore glacier and had added two hundred miles of Antarctic coastline to the map. He had conquered scurvy—the scourge of all explorers till his time—and had never lost a man who was under his protection.

"His was a proud and dauntless spirit, a spirit that made one glad he was an Englishman. Surely there is no end with such a man as Shackleton; something of his spirit must still live on with us; something of his greatness must surely be a legacy to his countrymen.

"Endurance" is attractive in format and has many fine illustrations but has neither maps nor closeup of Shackleton, although it has a large picture of the author.

Victory of "Married Love" Recalls Ban on Magazine

Now that "Married Love," by Dr. Marie Stopes [Putnam], has been cleared by the courts it is interesting to recall that back in 1918 the ban caused the suppression of one entire issue of the Survey because the magazine contained a review of the book by Mary Ware Dennett.

"Island of Penguins" Delight for Those Interested in Nature

Every lover of animals, either feathered or furry, will revel in "Island of Penguins" [McBride], Cherry Kearton's story of his five months' experience on a South Atlantic isle with millions of droll Mr. and Mrs. Penguins and their equally droll offspring for companions. Mr. Kearton has given an intimate glimpse of the home lives of these ludicrous but appealing birds which is as fascinating as anything of its kind we've ever read.

Mr. Penguin is such a dapper, serious, quaint little gentleman, with his prim black and white clothes, his fearlessness of humans and his deep, undying affection for Mrs. Penguin, that his biography is well worth reading, especially when written in such a delightfully whimsical and sympathetic way. There are seventy-seven unusually good photographs of Mr. and Mrs. Penguin, the children, and all the neighbors.

MOTHER HELD TO GRAND JURY IN POISONING CASE

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lebanon, Ind., June 26.—[Special.]—County Attorney Ben Scifres plans to lay the mystery of the Simmons poison picnic before the grand jury Monday. That he will ask the indictment of Mrs. Carrie B. Simmons in connection with the deaths of her two daughters, Virginia, 13, and Anna Jean, 10, is regarded as probable. The two children were poisoned last Sunday at a family reunion picnic of the Simmons family. They ate chicken sandwiches prepared by their mother which were heavily dosed with strychnine.

No charge has been placed against the woman, but Ben Scifres said he is prepared to file one at any time if a lawyer should appear with a habeas corpus writ.

Two New Witnesses.

This afternoon Scifres and Coroner G. A. Owsley took statements from Mrs. Emma Pollard, 30, and Alonzo Faulkinbury, both of Lebanon.

Mrs. Pollard stated that she had taken one of the chicken sandwiches prepared by Mrs. Simmons and was holding it in her hand when John Simmons approached, also carrying one.

"I wouldn't eat that if I were you," she said he told her. "It's bitter." A few moments afterwards the girls and Horace Jackson, another picnicker, were writhing in agony. Jackson afterward recovered.

Faulkinbury was not a member of the picnic party, but was walking in the park. He first saw a man rolling upon the ground in great pain near the picnic party. This was Jackson, and Faulkinbury tried to aid him.

As he held the stricken man he turned to look about him. The two children were stretched upon the grass in convulsions. Their mother, Faulkinbury said, was walking about looking dazed and paying no attention to her daughters.

INQUEST HELD ON FATHER WHO DIED AT SON'S BEHEST

After hearing the testimony of two student nurses who found the body and two policemen who investigated, a coroner's jury, sitting at the county morgue yesterday, returned a verdict of suicide at the inquest into the death of a man identified as R. J. Capron, who was found shot to death in Lincoln park last week.

No relatives or friends of the man have been found. A letter in the man's clothing was the only clew to identification, but the clew failed. The letter, supposedly from the man's son, advised him to "seek the only way out." A pistol was found beside the body. There was a bullet wound in the head.

The nurses who found the body were Miss Grace Strasburg and Miss Edith Wisender, who reside at 427 Garfield avenue. They reported their discovery to Policemen A. J. Conway and Barney Roseberg of the Lincoln park department.

County Rejects Bids on Highway Appraisal Service

The roads and bridges committee of the county board yesterday rejected all bids for appraisal service to the county in its purchase of $4,000,000 worth of right-of-way for highways, contending that they were too high. The committee then ordered advertisements for new bids. At the same time George A. Quinlan, county highway superintendent, was authorized to employ appraisers for work on the more pressing highway projects.

CHURCHMAN GETS NEW TRIAL AS AMERICAN HANGS

MONTREAL, June 26.—Brother Albert Nogaret, Catholic churchman sentenced to die for the murder of a 7 year old girl, Simone Caron, today was given a new chance for life. The Court of Appeals granted him a new trial.

Brother Nogaret is a member of a Catholic religious order and for a time was a teacher in a local school. Later, after becoming blind, he ceased teaching but continued as an employé of the school. He was sentenced to hang after being convicted of the murder of Simone Caron, a 7 year old girl, whom he enticed into the cellar of the school.

Thomas McHugh of Philadelphia was hanged here today for the murder of Arthur G. Reid, taxicab company cashier, in a holdup on the morning of Jan. 26. Efforts of friends to save his life failed.

Woman Patient Leaps Out Hospital Window; Killed

Sioux City, Ia., June 26.—[Special.]—Said to have been delirious after a surgical operation, Mrs. Elmer E. Dodds, 42, of Moville, Ia., leaped from a window of St. Joseph's hospital and died three hours later. Harold Dwinall, 32, died at 9 o'clock this morning in an office where he was employed as salesman, his death being caused by heart trouble brought on by the intense heat of the last few days.

Trace Fingerprint Clews in Hunt for Burglars

Fingerprints left by the thieves were being investigated by police last night in an effort to arrest burglars who broke into the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kurt Friend at 529 Stratford place, early yesterday morning and stole approximately $6,000 worth of jewelry. The intruders used a ladder to enter the apartment and looted the home without disturbing the Friends, who were asleep.

Extortion Threat Bared by Friend.

Andreas Pavley, noted dancer, former ballet master for the Chicago Civic Opera company, plunged to his death yesterday from his room on the 16th floor of the McCormick hotel at 616 Rush street. He was 36 years old and had been a dancing teacher in Chicago since his youth.

The Chicago avenue police expressed the belief that Pavley had leaped to his death because of financial reverses and because he was unable to meet an extortion demand for $100 from a blackmailer who threatened an alleged scandalous exposure next Monday unless the demand was met.

Friend Denies Suicide Theory.

On the other hand, W. D. A. Peaslee, an engineer who lives at 550 Surf street, a friend, said Pavley's dancing school was prospering, that Pavley had strong religious prejudice against suicide, and furthermore contended that the circumstances of the death indicated the dancer had accidentally fallen from the window while tinkering with his radio set.

The extortion letter, bearing the signature "Edward Walls," was turned over to the authorities by Morris M. Madden, 7641 South Union avenue, another friend, who had been given the letter by Pavley shortly after its receipt last week. Madden, meanwhile, had consulted with the state's attorney's office and postal inspectors regarding the blackmail demand.

Postal Card Renews Demand.

A postal card addressed to Pavley, bearing the words "don't forget Monday" and signed "Edward Walls," was turned over to the police by the hotel management. The card came in yesterday morning's mail but had not been delivered to Pavley.

The police said the torn screen in the window indicated the dancer had jumped. He was clad in pajamas, which were torn about the shoulders and back.

Peaslee said the dancer appeared to have been tinkering with his radio and probably sustained a shock which caused him to fall through the window. The loud speaker of the radio set also fell through the window, indicating, Peaslee said, that Pavley had the speaker in his hand at the time of the accident. Peaslee said it did not appear logical that the dancer would leap out the window clutching the loud speaker.

Associated with Oukrainsky.

Pavley had been associated with Serge Oukrainsky, Russian nobleman, in the dancing school at 64 East Jackson boulevard. Both dancers had been ballet masters for the civic opera in various seasons since 1920. Oukrainsky is now on a ballet tour of France. Pavley was the son of a Russian mother and a Dutch father. The dancer's full name was Andreas Hendricus Theodorus Van Dorp de Weyer. He became a citizen of the United States three years ago.

An inquest will be held Monday morning at the undertaking rooms at 200 East Erie street.

Deaths of a Day

PITTSBURGH. — (AP) — L. Walter Jenks, 73, retired Carnegie Steel company official, died. He was general manager of the bar and hoop department from 1901 to last year.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—(AP)—Arthur Latham Church, 72, secretary of the Baldwin Locomotive works, and a trustee of the University of Pennsylvania, is dead.

EXPLAINS FREE RENTS OFFERED IN PRESERVES

Supt. Charles G. Sauers of the forest preserves yesterday explained the rental by the district of homes acquired for expansion of the preserves to tenants at nominal or gratis rentals. He declared free rentals were given to employés to save expense of a patrol system against fires and have the employés near the scene of their work.

"Not more than 3 per cent of the houses in the preserves are in any way modern," he said. "This and their inaccessibility make it difficult to get anybody to live in them except for a very special inducement. Farm land is rented to aid in our constant fight against the Canadian thistle, one of the greatest obstacles in reforestation.

"Homes have been given rent free, pending eventual destruction, to impoverished families in coöperation with social welfare agencies. The preserve management, in conformance with the recommendations of the advisory committee, has wrecked 75 houses. Of those remaining it is desirable to get whatever revenue possible before their destruction."

FORMER UNION AGENT SEIZED AS EMBEZZLER

Edward Tolf, 45 years old, 2954 Lyndale avenue, former financial secretary and business agent of the Bridge and Ornamental Iron Structural Workers union, was arrested yesterday by Detectives James Zegar and Edward F. Ryan of the racket bureau of the state's attorney's office. He is charged with embezzling $16,000 of the union funds entrusted to him.

Assistant State's Attorneys Donald Thompson and Edward Duffey said that the union complained last March that Tolf was short in his accounts. By the time an audit was completed Tolf had disappeared and it was not until yesterday that he was found hiding in his home. Tolf had been a member of the union since 1900 and in 1921 was elected financial secretary.

Mrs. Theresa Brown, 38 years old, a night club entertainer, was severely injured yesterday morning in a leap from her second floor apartment at 8038 Central Park avenue. She told police that she was forced to jump to escape a beating by her husband, Robert Brown.

WILLIAM SMALL, CLERK FOR U. S. ATTORNEY, DEAD

William A. Small, venerable gray haired chief clerk of the United States attorney's office, a federal employé for 25 years, died yesterday in his summer home, Pistakee bay, McHenry county, of heart disease.

The passing of Mr. Small was lamented at the federal building by judges and office boys alike, all recalling his soft spoken, kindly manner, his benevolent smile and indispensable cigar. He had been ill and unable to work for three months.

Mr. Small was born in London, Ontario, 71 years ago, but came to Chicago in his youth. He was secretary for years of the Chicago contingent of the London Old Boys' association which made an annual pilgrimage back home. He was chief clerk of the Criminal court for many years before 1906, when he entered the government service.

Two sons, William A. Jr. and Joseph, a daughter, Jane, and the widow, Margaret, survive. Funeral services will be held at 11 a. m. Monday at the Oakwoods cemetery and meanwhile the body will remain at the home of William A. Small Jr., 4860 Kimbark avenue.

HAMMOND BOY GETS 3D HOME IN THREE DAYS

Howard Timmons, 5 year old Hammond boy who is said by juvenile authorities to have a 12 year old intelligence, yesterday had a new home, his third in three days.

The lad ran away from his mother, who lives at 911 Summer boulevard, on Tuesday. When he returned she declared he was incorrigible and declined to take him back. He and Stepfather Timmons, she said, did not get on well together.

Into the breach stepped another Hammond couple of slender means, but kind hearts, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Forsythe, 519 Sibley avenue. They would be glad, they said, to take in Howard for a week's trial, and to adopt him if they all got along as well as they believed they could.

Howard was satisfied, but before he had remained twenty-four hours with the Forsythes his mother, Mrs. Iona Marie Timmons, arrived and demanded him—not to take him back with her, but to give him to another couple. His new foster parents, Mrs. Timmons said, were Chicagoans and well to do. She declined to tell their names.

Woman, Shot by Burglars in Her Dress Shop, Dies

Mrs. Celia Kaplan, 47 years old, who was shot early Thursday morning by a burglar who had broken into her dress shop at 1848½ West 35th street, died yesterday at St. Anthony's hospital. With her husband, Max, and their 17 year old son, Sidney, Mrs. Kaplan lived in the rear of the store. She was awakened by the sound of breaking glass in the salesroom and awakened her husband. He asserted that he heard nothing and Mrs. Kaplan went to investigate alone. She found two men piling up the dresses. When she screamed one of the men shot her.

FORMER VILLAGE OFFICIAL KILLED IN AUTO MISHAP

George Max Adams, 58 years old, 304 Euclid avenue, Arlington Heights, a former trustee of the village and a retired importer of Christmas merchandise, was instantly killed yesterday when his automobile was struck by a southbound Chicago and North Western railroad train at the Euclid avenue crossing in the village. The automobile was dragged 100 feet and hurled to the right of the track. Adams is survived by a widow and five children. His death raised the 1931 Cook county motor toll to 529.

James Harrington, 76 years old, 17046 Bulgar avenue, Hazelcrest, was critically hurt last night when he was run down by an automobile while trying to cross the Dixie highway at 170th street. John Glow, 1111 Cornell street, Chicago, the driver, was held by Homewood county highway police. Harrington was taken to the Ingalls Memorial hospital in Harvey.

POLICE END HUNT FOR A SUSPECT IN KILLING OF MAID

Rosa Kulzer, 20 years old, was found dead on June 8 in the basement of an apartment building at 2341 Commonwealth avenue, where she was employed as a maid. A file had been driven through her heart.

Yesterday the police ceased their search for a man who had been recommended held to the grand jury in connection with the murder.

Testimony at the inquest into the girl's death showed that she had several suitors. It showed, also, that the most persistent of the suitors had been Folke Oberg, 36 years old, who formerly resided at 1811 Belle Plaine avenue. In Rosa's room were fervid letters signed by him, and the file that ended her life was a match for other tools in Oberg's chest.

The search for Oberg ended yesterday when he died of natural causes in the American hospital. He was admitted to the institution under the name of Joseph Hooper on June 23. Physicians diagnosed his trouble as tuberculosis. A notation in the effects of Hooper contained in the Belle Plaine avenue address and Mrs. John Sword, who lives there, identified the body as that of Oberg.

OBITUARY.

MRS. REBECCA SIMMONS, 87 years old, died on Thursday in her home in Montgomery, a suburb of Aurora. She was said to have been the oldest native of Kendall county. Throughout her life she had lived within a few miles of her birthplace, Yorkville. A son and daughter survive.

THE CLICK OF THE GATE

By Alice Campbell

SYNOPSIS.

Iris, fifteen year old daughter of Iris de Bertincourt, disappears mysteriously. Iris has been separated for years from her dissolute husband, Marcel. They are cousins and joint heirs of their tyrannical aunt, the Comtesse de Castelmaurou. Marcel is seen publicly with Suzanne Marly, an actress. Iris planned to divorce her husband and wed Alan Charnwood. Charnwood and his friend, Tommy Rostetter, conduct a search for Clare.

Iris goes to her aunt's home and learns that her husband is already domiciled there. Marcel is said to have reformed.

A letter is sent to Iris stating that Clare is being held for ransom. Her aunt offers to pay the sum asked if Marcel and Iris promise to become reconciled.

Iris meets Marcel and recalls having seen him at Le Touquet, hobnobbing with a questionable couple. Marcel calls on Alan in his hotel room. That night an attempt is made to assassinate Alan. He moves to Tommy's apartment.

Tommy and Alan suspect that Marcel, who is known to be heavily in debt, is the director of the kidnaping with the couple, known as Yetta and Pietro, his partners in the scheme, serving the ransom. Alan learns that the couple have a half-witted son.

Tommy sees Marcel leaving Suzanne Marly's home at the hour scheduled for him to pay the ransom. Alan calls on Iris. Marcel arrives shortly after, badly beaten up, and declares that he was robbed by the kidnapers, who have not returned Clare. Tommy does not tell the story to the police. They return with the police inspector to question Marcel and Iris, who are astonished. They leave to search for Yetta and Pietro in the underworld district of Paris, where they are supposed to dwell, each taking separate cabs. Alan finds the dilapidated dwelling they used as their hideout. It is deserted. Tommy returns and Alan hides in the scullery off the kitchen. Marcel arrives. He has hid the ransom in Suzanne's flat, and that she found it and won't give it back. He tells Marcel that Clare is dead. The son of the couple has escaped from the house and runs to make a search for him before they make their getaway. Soon after Tommy and Inspector Maupin arrive on the scene. The inspector leaves to get the local police, while Alan and Tommy search for the criminals.

INSTALLMENT LX.

A SUDDEN ATTACK.

"They are there! They are inside the cabin. God knows if we can get them in time! How the devil are we to slip down upon them without being seen?"

It was a difficult problem. All the immediate lines of descent were virtually impossible, besides being in full view from the door of the shack.

A quick survey revealed a deep gully at the back of the cabin, forty feet to the left. It wound almost straight downward, but was provided with precarious footholds in the form of outcropping rock. The chief risk was that of dislodging loose rubble, one fragment of which cannoning down the slope would give instant alarm to the hidden ones beneath. Still, it was all that offered. Tommy eyed it dubiously and came to a quick decision.

"It's our only chance—but God help us if we raise a row! We'll be dead ducks before either of us can draw a gun. Shall I make the start or will you?"

"Let me go first. I've got rubber soled boots."

Without more ado Charnwood lowered his body into the cleft, clinging to the brief tufts of grass to steady himself. Presently in the darkness above he heard Tommy struggling and slipping, with smothered imprecations as a large clump of vegetation came away in his grasp.

The gully, greasy with mud, was full of unseen pitfalls. Every few feet Charnwood plunged into a hole to bring up providentially against a sunken rock, and each accident a cascade of gravel rattled down the ravine, making his heart to miss a beat. Dripping with sweat he emerged and cast a quick look cautiously over the scene.

To his relief the glimmer still showed in the square of window, though no sound or silence which reigned it was impossible to say whether or not the cabin was tenanted. However, as he picked a stealthy course through the intervening slough, twin shadows blotted out for a second the uncertain square of light. His pulses leaped. The persons had not gone.

Tommy was still confined in the gully. Alone Charnwood reached the small kind of rock on which the hovel rested and, finding room to stand himself bit by bit to the level of the window. The thickly grimed pane covered the interior, but out of the upper one a triangular piece was clear only. To this jagged orifice he affixed his eye.

In the smoky flame of a candle stuck on a rotting shelf a trio of familiar figures hemmed, crowded close in the cramped space. Lepin, his head stooped to avoid the low room, was backed against the door; the woman's broad face was only a few inches from the window, while opposite, kneeling down, Bertincourt bent over, his damp, livid features palpitating in the feeble light. All eyes were glued to an inert object stretched upon the floor, the lower portion blacked out by the shadow of the shelf.

Stooping suddenly, the woman's pudgy hand caught up the candle and held it close to the thing they were examining. Then she too knelt down, making a clear opening through which Charnwood could see.

It was there on its back, but with the face turned away, lay the limp, pitiful form he had accosted some hours before. The helpless attitude was ghastly pathos; the long unwashed hand which the woman lifted and let fall again seemed curiously delicate, infantile. Was the owner dead? The group about the body were apparently in doubt. De Bertincourt, shrinking with fascinated repulsion, seemed, like his companions, to be seeking answer to the question.

Charnwood's eyes followed the coarse, mud caked jersey to the black stockings below. He noticed that one bony leg was encased in a steel structure of the sort used for straightening crooked limbs, but in the poor light he could not make out the nature of the malformation. Holding his breath, he saw the woman stoop and press her ear against the region of the heart. This done she raised her head disclosed, with its dead black, bristling hair. There was a deep gash on the side from which blood oozed sluggishly.

A touch on the elbow made him start. Tommy pulled himself up beside him and silently joined in the watch. Together they saw Warshavsky turn the ghastly face toward the light.

De Bertincourt stared anxiously at her as she replaced the candle and turned slowly several times. Then a sobbing breath escaped his lips, as though he were released from an unbearable tension.

"Dead! You are quite sure?" he faltered. "Then I suppose it's all right to go ahead——"

"Fool! Better leave us now and wait in the car. I'll do what has to be done," came the guttural response.

Lepin signed to Lepin, who with nervous haste unrolled a heap of rugs and clothing wadded together on the floor behind him and spread them out carefully. At the same time the woman turned her back on the other two and, opening her coat, laid something down upon the board. Swift as she was Charnwood caught sight of the object, which was neither more nor less than a sharp bladed butcher's knife.

Charnwood sprang forward, but a pressure on the wrist detained him and his companion's free hand clamped over his mouth.

Looking again they saw the latter pause on his way to the door, apparently seized by a fit of nausea. Warshavsky, eying him coldly, waited for him to recover, then gave him a violent push.

"Get out now," she ordered roughly. "Pietro! Look after him so he don't try to slip off with the car. You've taken the key?"

"It's in my pocket," Lepin informed her, and when De Bertincourt had passed blindly into the outer darkness he followed, leaving Yetta alone with the body.

Through the soft mud the two men's footsteps could be heard going to the car and till they ceased the woman stood listening, her little eyes on the lifeless form. When she could no longer hear them she went to work. She made a thick pallet of folded rugs and dragged the lifeless form on it. The sacks she hastily lumped together and thrust aside with the lengths of thick cord. Next she laid hold of the knife and ran a cool, professional finger along the blade. Last she stood and began to remove the dead boy's shoes.

It was at this moment that Tommy's grip tightened, and he whispered hoarsely: "Look! Look! Do you see?"

There was no need to ask what. To the unspeakable horror of both a convulsive spasm passed over the whole prostrate frame. It was no more than the ripple of still waters, but even as they asked themselves if fancy had played them a trick a faint moan reached their ears. Stung to action, Charnwood broke away, but at that instant the doorway darkened and the returning Lepin, whose bloodshot eyes bulged from his head. It was plain to see that he, too, had caught that significant sound.

"He—not alive?" he stammered, blanched with terror.

Yetta turned on him fiercely.

"Fool! Of course, you fool! Surely you guessed it? Hand me my bag from the hook. I was prepared for this."

She took from her bag a metal flask, unscrewed the top, and sniffed its contents. The sickly sweet smell of ether stole through the broken pane. She then began soaking her dirty handkerchief in the fluid.

With one accord the two Englishmen rushed for the cabin door. Already it was blocked from within, but with a mighty kick Charnwood drove it open. A torrent of oaths vomited forth. The candle was stamped out and in the room ghastly indescribable chaos reigned. Four bodies grazed each other, swayed and struggled for mastery. Arms eluded arms, the frail walls rocked with the impact of random blows.

Good Morning!

Mary Roberts Rinehart's story "Lost Ecstacy" is the basis for this screened love drama of the west, in which a cowboy weds a city girl, with results that make fairly entertaining picture fare.

Gary Cooper and Carole Lombard team together remarkably well. They seem to understand one another and each gives an alert and moving performance. Male scribes [jealous perhaps] are given to speaking casually of Mr. Cooper save when with undue emphasis they draw attention to what they call his "long, mulish upper lip." Well, we girls know what we like, and, while Gary may not be the world's most distinguished thespian, fact remains that he's both a likable chap and an able and easy actor, and we're for him. Miss Lombard's is becoming a name to reckon with. And she IS so pretty!

You aren't ever much in doubt as to the general outcome of the adventures marital and otherwise in which the hero and heroine find themselves involved and which take them from prairie to drawing room to circus tent; but you like watching things work out.

The picture is draggy in the middle, but sets, scenery and photography are fine. Those snow scenes! Real, I'm sure, and beautifully photographed. Theres' an honest note about the staging throughout. Direction is intelligent though not speedy.

Nick the barber was "nuts on blondes."

As you will see for yourselves, for "Smart Money" parades more light-haired maidens than you can shake a stick at. One by one they come into the life of Nick, who is also a gambler and a lucky one—save when they're concerned—and one by one they stroll out leaving him poorer, but, apparently no wiser. They are responsible for the journey upon which he sets out so jauntily as this movie unreels to a close.

Nick's lucky in a small town. He crashes the gates of a big one and is even more so. Also he is shrewd. He always has an alibi with which to baffle the district attorneys and policemen when they get importunate. If he had trusted in brunettes, dear knows how far he might have gone, BUT—the gentleman took his yellow.

Direction is clever and the story entertains from start to finish.

Be sure to look out for the incident in which Mr. Robinson and Margaret Livingston figure. What happens to Margaret brings shouts of surprised and joyous laughter from the audience, which, from that time on, keeps breaking into reminiscent chuckles. I'm grinning like a fool as I write about it.

See you tomorrow.

Movie Gossip from Hollywood

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., June 26.—[Special.]—Producer Sam Goldwyn wanted to shorten the suspense as to whether he had sunk $500,000 to good or bad purpose in a musical picture at this time when no other producer dare venture a musical picture.

So Sam relates with a grin that he asked Harpo Marx to come to United Artists studio and look over some of Eddie Cantor's and Charlotte Greenwood's rushes in "Palmy Days."

"The happiest sight I ever saw," Mr. Goldwyn says, "was Harpo Marx doubled up laughing so hard he fell off a chair. Harpo told me, 'Sam, don't worry any more about that picture.'"

Incidentally Goldwyn was comparing Cantor with Ronald Colman, another of the Goldwyn stable of stars. "Colman is the most retiring fellow I ever saw in the motion picture business," the veteran producer said. "It took a personal visit by Lord Beaverbrook to me in my hotel room in London to get me to induce Colman to give an interview for the London Daily Mail.

"Colman sure is different from Eddie Cantor, who goes around looking for benefits to appear at. Eddie Cantor would clown on the roof of a 20 story building if he thought any watchers would get a kick out of it.

"The best anecdote I know of in the show business was the time Eddie Cantor and Georgie Jessel met in New York one Saturday night, and walked up one street and down another until they finally succeeded in finding two benefits they could volunteer to appear at."

All Hollywood, which can afford it, takes to the ocean during the summer picture letdown. Those who can afford yachts, such as Barrymore, Schenck and Howard Hughes, go sailing. Others enjoy oceanside cottages at Malibu, like Dick Barthelmess, Charlie Farrell and Louis Fazenda; some merely bask at the beach clubs; while still others, like Dot MacKaill, Janet Gaynor and Warner Baxter, find the lure of Honolulu too compelling to stay away.

There isn't a villain in the whole Capone outfit who finds his dirty work as remunerative as John Miljan. This versatile actor has just been resigned by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer to another contract. Greta Garbo couldn't do without him to depict Burlingame, the treacherous circus boss with twirling mustaches, in "Susan Lennox."

Zasu Pitts (Mrs. Tom Gallery) is thrust into another funny rôle to play a dumb and laughable hired girl in Lunt and Fontanne's "The Guardsman" for M-G-M. Her comic stuff has been built up in the film version of the Franz Molnar story into one of the important rôles.

Champaign, Ill., June 26.—[Special.]—A spirited election to name a state commander for next year is expected at the final session of the annual encampment of the United Spanish-American War Veterans, Illinois division, here tomorrow morning. At this morning's session two Chicagoans were placed in nomination for the office and from present indications delegates are about evenly divided in their choice for the office. John R. Mayeskie, commander, of McKinley post, Chicago, and Ernest C. Ermel, a member of Oak Park post No. 80 are the candidates. Martin L. Duffy, Salem, who has served as junior vice commander during the last year, will be unopposed for the office of senior vice commander.

A resolution calling upon the United States government to readjust the pay received by Spanish-American war veterans for their services in the Spanish war in the same manner as adjusted compensation has been given to world war veterans, was among a number of resolutions adopted at this morning's business session. Memorial services were held this afternoon, with Oscar Carlstrom, attorney general of Illinois, delivering the principal address. Two parades, one staged by the Spanish war veterans and a second by the Military Order of Serpents were held tonight.

German Home Benefit.

State to Take Charge of Boys County Helped

Mrs. Plumb Explains End of Special School.

It now appears that the majority of the 177 boys to be released July 1 from the Chicago and Cook County School for Boys, and the Oaks, will be harbored by the state in a cottage colony to be set up in connection with the St. Charles institution.

RODNEY BRANDON.

Rodney Brandon, state superintendent of public welfare, expects to establish the colony at once. Meanwhile, Mrs. Glenn E. Plumb, county commissioner, yesterday insisted that criticism of the county board for having closed the schools was unjust.

"No aspersions should be cast on the county board, because it voted to close these schools for lack of funds," said Mrs. Plumb. She was appointed to head a committee to confer with Mr. Brandon, Judge Mary Bartelme of the Juvenile court, and others, to assure dissolution of the schools with the least possible harm to the inmates.

She added: "For the care of mental defectives always has been a function of the state, not of the county. And when we came into office here we voted funds to operate these institutions for six months in line with the county's effort to do as much as possible for such backward children.

"For months we had been hoping that some of the Chandler child welfare bills introduced into the legislature would pass, and that they would solve the problem of care of these children. But they were all lost. So when we did make an effort to provide for it in another way, through a probationary system, we were too late for that and it failed.

"The plan to set up this cottage colony at St. Charles has met with opposition, because many juvenile authorities deeply regretted the possible effect of the stigma of incarceration on these boys, who are not to be confused with delinquents. It is to be emphasized that this cottage colony will not be a restrictive institution in any way, but a place where the children will get the care they need to develop their minds and lives properly."

Lake Geneva Marks First 100 Years with Lively Events

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lake Geneva, Wis., June 26.—[Special.]—John Kinzie and his family reached what now is this gold coast summer region 100 years ago on an overland journey from Chicago to Fort Winnebago, now Portage. They were the first white settlers to view the beauties of Geneva lake waters, whose shores a century later were to become one of the midwest's show places.

The pioneer Kinzie camped at the north end of the lake as the Potawatomis, the original Geneva lake summer colonists, looked on. This overnight stay was the first to be made by a white man in these parts. In white flannels, Chicago millionaires and village tradesfolk turned out today in sweltering temperatures to recall John Kinzie in speeches and pageantry.

To visualize the night John Kinzie made his camp fire 100 years ago on the lake shore now dotted with summer palaces, a band of Potawatomis were brought from the Forest county reservation.

In this old stamping ground of their ancestors these much domesticated and poor descendants of the proud Big Foot, whose tribe once claimed the shores of Geneva lake, put on tribal dances of the aboriginals for the industrial barons whose groomed acres now fringe the lake.

These dances go back to the days of John Kinzie and Chief Big Foot to recall a society that knew nothing of industrial depressions or real estate improvements.

The water, when John Kinzie saw it, was called Big Foot lake in homage to the old chief. It was John Blink, a government surveyor, who came along later to admire the beauties of the waters and to rename them Geneva lake because of the likeness he saw to Geneva lake in New York state.

U. of Illinois Faculty Wins More Power

Trustees Approve Changes at Urbana Session.

Urbana, Ill., June 26.—[Special.]—Certain statutes governing the administration and operation of the various colleges and departments of the University of Illinois were approved today by the board of trustees at its meeting in Chicago.

DEAN HARNO.

The changes have already been approved by the university senate, a body composed of all holding professorial rank.

The new statutes hope to eliminate inconveniences due to overcentralization which developed during the period of extremely rapid expansion, to provide greater freedom of action to the several administrative units in matters of educational and other departmental policies, and to provide the principal officers of administration with advisory councils or committees.

The committee was appointed by President Chase last December pursuant to a vote of the senate. Its chairman is Dean Albert J. Harno of the college of law. Other members of the committee were Profs. E. L. Bogart, E. H. Cameron, H. F. Fletcher, M. T. McClure, H. F. Moore, W. A. Oldfather, H. P. Rusk, and P. L. Windsor.

In discussing the report following its adoption by the board today, Dean Harno, in behalf of the committee, pointed out that the new statutes "Define the powers and duties of various officers and administrative and educational groups and are aimed to adjust the working machinery of the university to present conditions."

"Briefly, the new measures tend to decentralize the organization of the university and to place a larger measure of autonomy in the various colleges and departments of the university," he said. "They remove student discipline from the jurisdiction of the council of administration and place it in the charge of a committee of the university senate. They provide that the dean of men and the dean of women shall be advisers for men and women students respectively and that their duties shall not be regulative as at present; and they provide for the appointment of officers to assist the president in such matters as he may designate. They also create a council to advise the president.

"The statutes assure a measure of faculty participation in the determination of questions of policy. The aim is to secure this result through a scheme under which various administrative officers are given councils or advisory committees.

"The president's council will consist of the deans and directors and three representatives elected by the senate. The dean of each college is given an executive committee of two or more members elected by and from the college and a large measure of faculty participation is given in departments organized with chairmen. Departments may be organized either with heads or chairmen and provision is made for the consideration of changes from one form of organization to the other."

SOMETHING OUGHT TO BE DONE ABOUT THIS

YANKEE AND BRITISH CHILDREN AGREE ON MAKING WORLD BETTER

LONDON, June 26.—(AP)—Catherine Dubolse of Washington, D. C., representing a group of American boys and girls now visiting Europe as "envoys of friendship," today delivered a message of good will to the boys and girls of Great Britain.

Replying to a welcome by hundreds of English school children, she said: "We girls feel we are perhaps a little more important than boys, because the greatest influence for good throughout the world is the good woman and the good mother."

Broiling Heat Brings Demand for Free Ice

Just imagine for a moment what Chicago would have been like yesterday if there had been no ice, and no means of getting any!

Down back o' the yards, around the steel mills and in those cramped short streets of the near west side, that was exactly the situation before TRIBUNE free ice wagons rolled down the blocks.

In heat as fierce as any summer season ever produces, those cooling chunks were as grateful as manna from heaven to the mothers in those stifling quarters.

Women and children are besieging the free ice wagons this summer that never before knew what it was to lack for such service. Jobless men who cannot provide their families with the comfort and relief ice insures are calling to ask that free tickets be sent them at least during the most insufferable of these hot days. More than five times as many calls as have ever been recorded are coming in, yet the donations, it seems, were never so slow.

Here is one sample, received yesterday, of the type of pleas that are reaching this office daily. It is carefully penciled in a neat handwriting, indicating a person of intelligence and neatness as the writer:

"I would like to make application for help from the ice fund," it begins, a bit timidly. "My husband has had no work for nearly six months. We get milk from the county, but have no ice to keep it sweet. I have seven children. The youngest is six months and the oldest is 14 years of age. We need the ice very badly.

"MRS. CLARA K——."

If one of these appealing women came to your door, with her baby in her arms, you wouldn't turn her away without the relief she asks. She cannot come, but you can reach her and many more like her through the medium of this Free Ice Fund, which annually supports a fleet of nearly twenty ice trucks, sent out daily through the districts inhabited by needy families. Tickets are dispensed only to those known to organized social agencies as being worthy of the help.

Donations for either the Free Ice Fund or the Camp Algonquin Fund, which provides vacations for mothers and babies at the haven on the Fox river, fifty miles away, may be mailed to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, at Tribune Tower, and will be acknowledged here.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., June 26.—[Special.]—Mrs. Hoover left the White House this afternoon for the presidential camp on the Rapidan. As usual, Mrs. Hoover drove her own car. She was accompanied by several friends. The President will join her tomorrow.

The former American minister to Salvador, Warren Delano Robbins, who has been in Washington for a short time, sailed today with Mrs. Robbins for Buenos Aires to spend several months with Mrs. Robbins' parents. On their return here they will occupy their home in Georgetown and Mr. Robbins will take up his new duties as ceremonials officer at the White House.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, June 26.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. Grayson M. P. Murphy, who have taken the Henry S. Sturgis home in Lawrence until July 16, will sail on that date for Europe, where they expect to take a castle in Scotland for the shooting season.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean Sage Jr., who have been on a trip around the world, are expected this week-end at the Terraces, Llewellyn Park, N. J., the home of Mrs. Sage's parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. Sheldon Tilney, where they will pass the summer.

Take Your Sunshine in Graduated Doses and Avoid Freckles

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Freckles as a topic of professional conversation here are just about one of the dumbest subjects imaginable. They bring so little that is new or different to the scene. The same old sizes and shapes they assume annually for the same old reasons. And the worst of it is that the best known freckle remedy, which is prevention, isn't improved on with time.

So, we are left just about where we were last year, the year before that, and so on backward. Excepting that perhaps we can recommend for freckle prevention the oil baths that bathing beauties resort to if they are going to spend a long time in or by the water. They protect their skin against sunburn and freckles, to some extent, and against the drying effects of salt water.

You can make a good oil preparation for light greasing with half cocoa butter and half cocoanut oil. This sort of thing is so messy, though, that I find women aren't easily susceptible to its lures. They'd rather burn than look greasy.

There are now on the market products to prevent the burning and perhaps you'd better look into these, for this year, as you know, it must not be your beauty ambition to look like a red Indian, or a bronzed one, either.

About the sunning—go at it gingerly, if you haven't been accustomed to outdoor life. Ten minutes a day under the strong rays is enough to begin on; ten minute periods a couple of times, a day, anyway. But don't come out of the water and sit under the sun with the body still wet. That's the way you raise the most painful burns. If the skin is badly burned and blistered, you may be laid up for days and be most uncomfortable all with it all.

Another bad habit, or one rather with bad beauty results, is not to rinse the salt water out of the hair. Salt water is good for the hair and scalp, but it should not be allowed to dry on.

Bright Sayings of the Children

"Mama," said little Marie, aged 4, "please button my dress."

"You'll have to do it yourself, dear," was the reply. "Mother's too busy."

"O, dear!" exclaimed little Marie, "I don't know what I'd do without myself." F. C. B.

It was one of those cold, foggy days. Peter had managed to slip off to school without his sweater. When he came home in the afternoon his mother asked:

"Weren't you cold today, Peter?"

"Not me," said Peter, "but the weather sure was cold!" J. E. S.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

L. S.: A STRONG ALKALINE soap may be used for coarse, oily hair. For normal hair a good castile soap is recommended. Reduce the soap to liquid form. Shampooing instructions may be had for a stamped, addressed envelope.

S. F.: IT IS NOT UNUSUAL TO find the eyebrows dry when the hair is dry. Use almond or olive oil on them, then brush.

Four Weddings Set for Today; Here Are Plans

BY THALIA

DESPITE reports from the county building that the wedding license business has decreased somewhat this month, the society department has noted no scarcity of nuptials on the June calender. Since the first day of the month this department has chronicled its quota of weddings, and now on the last Saturday in June concludes with mention of four more.

On the north shore there will be the nuptials of Miss Sarah Stires Wood to James Roland Addington and of Miss Elisabeth Born to Albert M. Stein. The marriages of Miss Kathleen Whitcomb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Whitcomb, to Byron S. Harrison, jr. and of Miss Eloise Higgins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Willard Higgins of 1449 Lake Shore drive, to Harris B. Gregg Jr. of St. Louis will be solemnized in town.

Miss Wood and Mr. Addington are to be married at 4:30 o'clock at Trinity church in Highland Park. Afterwards there is to be a reception at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Wood. The bride's maids, the Rev. Ernest M. Stires, bishop of Long Island, will perform the ceremony.

Miss Wood will be attended by her sister, Mrs. Edwin E. Tullis [Anne Wood] and Miss Frances Wood, as matron and maid of honor, and by three bridesmaids including her cousin sister, Miss Mary Wood; Miss Mildred Wheeler, Miss Virginia Walton, Miss Lelia Withers, Miss Corda Shaw, Miss Betty Smith, and Miss Elizabeth Walsh.

Jerrold Kelley will serve as best man for Mr. Addington and the ushers will be Theodore Simpson, Dustin Granger, A. Watson Armour III., James Haworth, John McCauley, John Clayton Barnes of Philadelphia, and Robert W. Wood II.

Plans Ceremony for Miss Whitcomb, Mr. Harvey.

Miss Kathleen Whitcomb and Mr. Harvey will be married at noon at the Fourth Presbyterian church. A small reception for the bridal party will follow at the Whitcomb residence at 1000 Lake Shore drive. Miss Whitcomb's sister, Mrs. Latham Hunter, will be her matron of honor and the bridesmaids will be Mrs. Lloyd Adams, Mrs. Robert S. Pirie, Mrs. Theodore Noel II., Miss Annie Laurie Aspinwall, Miss Margaret Carr, and Miss Ann Stevens.

The groom's elder brother, Stewart Harvey, will be best man and the ushers will include his younger brother Daggett Harvey; Ward Cheney, Leo Hogan, John T. Pirie jr., Robert S. Pirie, Latham Castle, James C. Hemphill, Scribner Fitzsimons, and Lloyd Laflin. Mrs. Frederick Harvey and Miss Katherine Harvey of Kansas City are here for the ceremony. The groom's mother, Mrs. Frederick Harvey Sr., gave a spinster dinner on Thursday evening for Miss Whitcomb and last night her sister, Mrs. Castle, gave a party for Miss Whitcomb and her fiancé and those who will be their attendants at the wedding.

Parties at Fortnightly Before This Wedding.

The wedding of Miss Eloise Higgins to Harris B. Gregg Jr. will take place at 6:30 o'clock in the chapel of St. James' and will be followed by a reception at the Fortnightly. Miss Jeanne Higgins is to be her sister's only attendant, and Douglas Kingland will be best man for Mr. Gregg. Patrick A. Egleston, Blake Blair, and Benedict Farrar of St. Louis will be ushers.

Miss Elisabeth Born will be married to Albert M. Stein at 5:30 o'clock in the residence of the Glencoe residence of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Born. Mr. Stein and his bride are to sail tomorrow for a year's travel around the world.

Parties Coming for Those at Ouwentsia.

Additional eastern guests, expected to be here for the international polo matches at Ouwentsia July 11-18 and for festivities taking place that week, include Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Widener, Mr. and Mrs. D. Stewart Iglehart, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clarkson, Bayard Tuckerman of Boston, and Dr. Ardio Walker, prominent Virginia sportsman.

Mr. and Mrs. Widener are to be guests of Miss Edith Cummings during her stay, and Mr. and Mrs. Iglehart, whose son, Stuart B. Iglehart, is a member of the Old Aiken team, are to be house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Emil H. Reynolds. The Clarksons will be with Mr. and Mrs. William H. Mitchell, and Mr. George E. Brown jr., who is coming from Baltimore for the Arlington races, will be with his daughter, Mrs. John Wentworth, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Salmon will be among those from New York with a party of guests in a private car.

Plans are to be numerous house parties this week-end at Lake Geneva. Mr. and Mrs. Daniel P. Trude are to be guests of the Daniel Peterkins, and Miss Jeannette Peterkin will be host to a group of young people. Miss Arline Peck Warwick, Mrs. Alice Murdock, and Miss Betty Lewis of Evanston are to be with the William Dickinsons. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Busse jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Busse sr. are to be guests of the Charles R. Walkers.

Comings and wheres—Concluding their European wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Carroll H. Sudler Jr. are to sail today from Havre on the France. They are to be at home after July 4 at the Carroll Sudler seniors' apartment at 232 East Walton place. The Carroll Sudlers are departing shortly to visit the Culbreth Sudlers at Palo Alto, Cal., for the summer . . . Count and Countess Ruggero Visconti di Modrone [Edith Fairbanks], who were married on Wednesday, are sailing today on the Conte Grande for Europe . . . Mrs. Carl Stibolt is sailing next week for Europe . . . Her sister, Mrs. William S. Covington, and her children are here from Washington, D. C., for the summer . . .

The marriage of Miss Marion Roger Morriss, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank V. Morriss of Highland Park, to William Haviland Morriss of Stamford, Conn., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hayles Morriss of Providence, R. I., took place at 4:30 p. m. Thursday at Trinity Episcopal church in Highland Park. A reception for the families and a small group of friends was held after the ceremony at the bride's parents' residence.

The bride wore a white satin gown and a tulle veil twined round her head with orange blossoms. She held a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley and sweet peas. The maid of honor was Miss Caroline E. Schofield, and the bridesmaids Mrs. Stephen Y. Hord and Miss Emily Norcross. They wore green chiffon frocks and cream colored straw hats banded in green, and carried sprays of Johanna Hill roses and daisies.

The marriage of Miss Gwendolyn Feeney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Simon J. Feeney of 54 East Elm street, to Charles S. Stevens of Chicago took place on Wednesday evening at Holy Name cathedral.

The marriage of Miss Cynthia Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Pierson Clark of Evanston, to Bryson James Reynolds, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Reynolds of Evanston, will take place at 5 o'clock this afternoon at St. Luke's church in Evanston, with the Rt. Rev. George Craig Stewart, bishop of Chicago, officiating. A reception for relatives and members of the bridal party will be held after the ceremony at the residence of the bride's parents.

Three hundred and fifty children and mothers escaped from Chicago's heat yesterday and left by train for the Arden Shore camp, north of Lake Bluff, for a two weeks' vacation provided for them by wealthy residents of the North Shore.

The Arden Shore association is attempting to provide vacations for twice the number of mothers and children accommodated last year, due to the rundown condition of many children after a winter of poverty. Yesterday's contingent, the first to leave for the camp, numbered twice the first group of visitors last year. Other mothers and children will continue to leave every two weeks until September to spend two weeks at the camp.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

Here is a youthful looking, chic frock for all day wear, made of one of the lovely printed silk crêpes, with the vest of white eyelet mousseline. There is a slight cowl effect to the bodice, caught with a knotted trimming piece of the dress material at the front. Similar trimming appears on the short banded sleeves. Deep scallops give an appearance of snugness through the hips.

The pattern, No. 3021, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years, and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3½ yards of 39 inch material with ⅞ yard of 35 inch contrasting.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Cake, Pro and Con.

At our small country club, we have pot luck dinners, with each member bringing a covered dish. We then eat at long tables, family style.

I am fond of chocolate cake, so while dining at the club recently I selected a rather dry looking piece of cake for dessert. Mother asked me how the cake tasted. I replied, "It isn't quite as bad as it looks."

A large rather severe looking lady across the table leaned over and said, "I made that cake; I am sorry you don't like it."

Light Touch Proves Valuable to One Who Manages Children

A list of books to be read to children and by them will be sent by Mrs. Bevans on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Are you a good cake maker? If you are you know one of the most important things to have is what we call in our family "a light touch."

You need it in most pastry making, too, and things like baking powder biscuits. Don't you know how much better your biscuits will be if you handle them lightly and roll and pat them lightly?

And you need the light touch in managing children, too. You need it in lots of ways. Treat them at certain times with a light touch and take lightly some of the minor things they say and do—and they'll not be repeated or they will wear themselves out in no time. Here are some examples of when not to be heavy handed:

You can have the light touch by being cheerful and jolly and finding it easy to laugh with your children.

You can use the light touch when they come home with stories or expressions or words that shock you or seem vulgar, because we are bound by taboos or convention, or because we are so very "refined." I know a boy who will tell his mother anything he hears the boys say at school because she never draws a long or condemning face. He can see she thinks they're of no account—so he forgets them. She even laughs at something a boy would find funny, which if said by an adult, would be in atrocious taste.

You can use the light touch in handling what grownups consider solemn questions. You can use the light touch on small misdemeanors—on the ubiquitous "No"—and so forth.

Governor Praises G. R. Koons, Who Gets Scholarship

George R. Koons, 14 year old student in the Parker Junior High school, yesterday heard himself alluded to by the governor of Illinois as a boy who in years to come would "make a mark in the world in some field of useful public service."

Then, in a ceremony which took place in the Stevens hotel, Gov. L. L. Emmerson presented George with a $6,000 four year scholarship offered by the trustees of Culver Military academy. George was the winner in a state-wide competition among several hundred ninth grade boys.

He is the son of Mrs. Laura E. Koons, principal of the Midway School for Children, 6216 Kimbark avenue.

NEW CHURCH PLANS BIRTH CONTROL TALK DURING CONVENTION

Seattle, Wash., June 26.—(AP)—Birth control was debated here today at the conventfon of the merged Congregational and Christian churches. Resolutions were introduced by Iowa and New York City groups.

Repeal of laws which prevent physicians from giving birth control information to married couples was urged by the Iowa Congregational conference. A birth control referendum of church members, married at least five years and parents of at least one child, was recommended by the New York City Congregation association.

The union of the Congregational and Christian denominations, begun yesterday, struck a snag in selection of a name. The Christian group was said by delegates to favor the name, "Congregational Christian," while others said the name, "United Church of Christ," had approval of many in both groups.

Dr. Fred B. Smith, New York City, ranking Congregational moderator, read a message from President Hoover, which said in part:

"The merger of these two important church bodies is an interesting and promising development. The continuing and consistent advancement of spiritual welfare of our country is fundamentally important."

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Here's a little topic for discussion or argument, if you feel sufficiently interested. Why are good looks in a man not the matrimonial drawing feature they are in a woman?

Maybe they are, to you. When you are very, very young, I gather the boy friend's looks are of pretty serious consideration. But the older and closer you get to the altar, rumor has it, the less you want to do the return jaunt down the aisle on the arm of a collar-ad-ish male specimen.

What is it about the perfect masculine beauty that frightens women off a lifetime sentence with it? It must be said that our handsomest movie stars haven't any trouble collecting wives. It must be said, also, that in private women have a great yen for the romantic looking male beauties of the screen. For romances perhaps they'd have them beautiful.

What started this was a recent vote of unmarried English women against masculine beauty as a quality to be desired in a husband. Maybe the American girls are different. But one thing sure is that a lack of physical beauty acts as no handicap to a man who is skilled in other arts of pleasing. Chiefly, the art of telling the lady that she is all that's fair and beautiful. A barrel of flattery, in other words, is worth a couple of barrels of looks.

Organdy Dancing Pajamas for Evening

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Dancing pajamas have taken the fashionable youngest set by storm this summer. Wherever chic boys and girls meet to trip the "light fantastic" of the moment, there you're sure to see a goodly percentage of the young élégantes wearing divided skirts.

But these divided skirts are, if anything, more feminine than those that cling to the maxim that union is force, and it cannot be denied that they are extremely practical for dancing, as well as extremely modest The Fauvety dancing pajamas, sketched today, are simply ideal for the vacation girl in the neighborhood of 20. The divided skirt frock is in white organdy with "crinoline trousers" made bouffant by three wide flounces that mask their transparency. This ensemble is for both afternoon and evening dancing.

In the afternoon, you wear the little bolero of black organdy, that has full puffed sleeves of white organdy, and the huge white organdy hat that gets sufficient stiffness by cross-machine stitchings in black, and is trimmed with a sash of black velvet ribbon.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Deserted Mother Needs Help.

"My husband deserted me three years ago and left me with four children to support. I have been out of work for some time and it is pretty hard to get along. We need clothing now and I thought you might be able to get some for us. I wear size 16 or 18, the boys are 9, 7, and 3 years old, and the girl is 6. Their shoe sizes are 12½, 11, 7½, and 3½.

I will be thankful for anything you may be able to get for us.

"MRS. M. H."

The support of a family of this size is no small task for one woman. Won't you relieve some of her burden by providing her children with the clothing they need?

THREE MEALS A DAY

From the Tribune Cook Book

Food Talk.

Mrs. W. G. asks: "How can food editors justly claim that croquettes are an excellent company dish? It seems to me the variety is limited. I know the chopped food can be combined with white sauce and the croquettes molded ahead of time. But the process of frying is tedious and then, too, there is danger of the housewife being too concerned with other last minute details that she is liable to overheat the fat and the disagreeable odor that results is certainly uncomplimentary and discouraging, too."

If croquette mixtures are combined with an active imagination, a sensitive understanding of flavor, and a tender light touch of the fingers, they may be creations of delicacy that will never fail to appeal. To the amateur without a discriminating palate croquettes are merely a possible use of leftovers and are liable to be served lukewarm and be a stiff, pasty, tasteless mass.

Good croquettes on the outside are always a golden brown, tender and crisp. But no matter what the shape, they are creamy on the inside. The cream sauce used should not be too stiff. A sauce of medium stiffness mixed with the chief ingredients will become stiff enough to bind any food together when spread out in a thin layer and chilled in the ice box.

And where is the limit to variety? All sort of meat, fish, poultry, and cereals may be used. Some of the most unusual croquettes I have eaten were made of chestnuts, shrimps, toasted almonds, parsleyed rice, macaroni and cheese, and eggs to which were added a few stoned ripe olives for flavor and color. Oyster and lobster and sauces like tomato, egg, fish, cheese, and mushroom add variety to the croquette just as they do to meats.

Croquettes may not only be combined with the cream sauce and shaped the day before or a few hours before, but they may also be fried a few hours before hand. This I know is unorthodox, but it is practical nevertheless. Fry croquettes 2 or 3 hours before the meal, then about twenty minutes before the meal is served they may be put into a medium oven and heated thoroughly.

In this way the initial frying should not be continued beyond the point of obtaining a delicate golden color. The heating in the oven will intensify the color to the desired stage and the inside of the croquette will become piping hot all the way through and no harm will be done to the crisp crunchy crust. This early frying, however, applies to croquettes prepared from cooked, not raw foods.

And variety in croquettes may also be obtained in the different shapes. And even the ordinary shaped ones—balls, cylinder, and barrel shape—may be molded with a depression in the side or end, sufficiently large to receive a spoonful of jelly of contrasting flavor and color just before they are sent to the table. Are the claims for croquettes justifiable? I think they are.

BAKED GREEN PEPPERS.

Choose 6 medium sized peppers. Cut a slice off stem end and remove the seeds and partitions. Parboil whole pepper about 5 minutes in salted water. In the meantime sauté ½ pound cleaned sliced mushrooms in 3 tablespoons of butter for about 4 or 5 minutes. Add 3 cups of cold cooked rice [left from day before] and 1 beef or chicken bouillion cube dissolved in ¼ cup water. Let remain on fire just long enough to heat through. Add the salt and celery salt to suit taste. Fill this mixture into hot drained peppers. Place the peppers in buttered pan or casserole and place in a medium over [375 degrees F.]. Bake for about 20 to 25 minutes or until peppers are tender.

"Marouf" Sparkles with Laughter on Stage at Ravinia

BY EDWARD MOORE.

One of the finest specimens of French comic art applied to opera, Henri Rabaud's "Marouf," came up for the first performance of the season at Ravinia last night. As has been the case for several seasons past, it remains one of the jewels of deepest sparkle in the Ravinia collection.

As has also been the case for the several past seasons, the performance exhibited Mario Chamlee as one of the finest of comic artists in opera. Not that the adjective is anywhere near fully descriptive of either opera or artist. In both cases there is much more than mere drollery or funmaking. In both there is complete sincerity done with expert lightness of touch. The phrase is not new but still applicable that "Marouf" was France's last smile before the war, and it is in that mood that Mr. Chamlee interprets by song and characterizations its principal character.

For that matter, it is the mood employed by all the company. The beautiful Yvonne Gall continues in the rôle of the princess, and if ever there was a perfect scherzo put into terms of opera, it is the fourth act of this work as done by Miss Gall and Mr. Chamlee. Two great comics in the cast are Julia Claussen as the shrewish wife whom Marouf leaves behind when he goes on his adventures, and Vittorio Trevisan as the vizier whom he meets when he enters upon the said adventures.

Leon Rothier is the stately and entirely creditable sultan of the piece, and there is a host of lesser characters, all of whom are notable units in the complete sum. Never was a charming dance performed with more vitality on a hot night than that done by Ruth Page and Blake Scott in the court scene.

Above all there is a man who knows and loves every note of the score and interprets it through all the other characters. He is the conductor, Louis Hasselmans.

Weddings and Divorces Less for Last Year

Washington, D. C., June 26.—(AP)—Hard times hit both marriage and divorce last year

Of forty states, on which the figuring is finished, 33 showed decreases in marriage and 30 showed decreases in divorce.

Miss Alice V Hagan, who for five years has written the annual census bureau study on marriage and divorce, ascribed the decreases to the fact that getting married and getting divorced costs money.

"It is well known that the marriage rate responds quickly to changes in economic conditions increasing in times of prosperity and decreasing after a commercial crisis, she said.

As for divorce, Miss Hagan wrote to officials of all counties where the rate had fallen as much as 10 per cent asking an analysis of the cause.

A large majority of the replies, she reported, laid the lack of divorces to business conditions.

Reno, Nev., is marrying as merrily as it separates. California's law requiring pre-posting of marriage intent sends the couples to Reno And the six weeks' divorce law already has ground out such a grist that Reno has written the census bureau for more form cards to record divorces.

Of the seven states in which marriage managed to show an increase in 1930 a majority were especially blest, like Reno, in being adjacent to a state in which couples had to wait on marriage law time limit requirements. The states showing an increase were Oklahoma, New Mexico, Arizona, Nevada, Maine, Nebraska, and Virginia.

Marriages decreased 18.3 per cent in Mississippi and 17.1 per cent in Arkansas. Divorces decreased 15.4 per cent in Arkansas and 13.4 per cent in Mississippi. Other decreases of more than 10 per cent were:

Marriages—Michigan, 19.9 per cent; Wisconsin, 15.4; Indiana, 11.9 per cent; Montana, 10.9; Connecticut, Utah, and Colorado, each 10.1 per cent.

Divorces—North Dakota, 17.1 per cent; Michigan, 12 per cent; Oregon, 11.1 per cent; Montana, 10.3 per cent.

U. S. RYDER CUP TEAM TAKES 3-1 LEAD OVER BRITISH

...ED DIEGEL AND ESPINOSA ONLY YANKS TO LOSE

The Pairings

COLUMBUS, O., June 26.—(AP)—The pairings for the eight singles matches in the Ryder cup golf competition tomorrow:

UNITED STATES.		GREAT BRITAIN.
Ky Cooke	vs.	Archie Compston
Leo Diegel	vs.	Fred Robson
Johnny Farrell	vs.	W. H. Davies
Billy Burke	vs.	Abe Mitchell
Gene Sarazen	vs.	Chas. Whitcombe
Denny Shute	vs.	Bert Hodson
Walter Hagen	vs.	Ernest Whitcombe
Al Espinosa	vs.	Arthur Havers

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Columbus, O., June 26.—The Ryder cup tournament, in which the leading professional golfers of the United States and England turn amateur for a couple of days every two years, added three victories and one defeat to the Americans on the links of the Scioto Country club today.

Walter Hagen and Denny Shute batted their ball around to beat George Duncan and Arthur Havers one up and 2 in a match which was to go the 36 holes. Gene Sarazen and Johnny Farrell, partners in many a championship after concurrent years as caddies in Westchester county, New York, won from Archie Compston and Willie Davis, 5 and 7. Leo Diegel and Billy Burke, whose real name is no more Burke than that of Syd Cuckoochay's name is Jack Dempsey, won from Syd Easterbrook and Ernest Whitcombe.

Al Espinosa and Abe Mitchell were the only members of the British team to win a match. They disciplined Leo Diegel, the pride with the stance of a slightly inebriated gentleman leaning on a lamp post, 3 and 2.

The Scotch Foursomes.

The matches were Scotch foursomes. In a Scotch foursome each side has one ball and the boys take turns driving it. This way a player gets about as much action as he would in singles foursomes, but the scheme has the advantage that a fellow always makes a terrible shot on the green to which his partner left him. By the end of the first day found the contestants less than half done, because Saturday's program calls for eight singles matches. Each victory counts for one point in a possible total of twelve. The British hold the cup now, having won it in their country two years ago, but the American professionals, all native born Incidentally, probably will win it back Saturday afternoon. The cup was put up by a Englishman named Sam Ryder, who thought it would be very nice if international matches were to play merely every two days every two years so that they are not entirely necessary. It is a conventional cup, set on a tall silver stem like those with chocolate marshmallow sundaes with crushed nuts are served in fountains.

Big Diddy's Embarrassed.

An embarrassing situation arose in the later stages of the victory of Diegel and Espinosa. In this tournament, in which the standing of a match is indicated to the spectators by means of a number of small national flags stuck in little holes on a wooden board, which is borne on high at the head of the procession by a flag boy. The committee, with pardonable lack of foresight, guessed that eight holes would be sufficient for such standard, and when all the flags in the Hagen and Shute standard were filled with little American flags the caddy asked, "Now what do I do?"

He trailed the last nine holes or so, from time to time to the crowd, "and two more."

Hagen and Shute were 10 up at the end of the morning round of 18 holes, Sarazen and Farrell were 5 up, Diegel and Espinosa were 2 up, Burke and Burke were 1 up. Diegel and Espinosa played terrible golf, though good enough golf for most victims of this devouring team to account for their defeat. One of their hands the ball into a trap and the other would knock it only half out. One would dump a long iron in a lot of horsehair and weeds, and the other would just recover and pitch.

Real Bothers Britons.

Sarazen and Havers took 120 strokes for 18 holes, including three sevens and a couple of sixes. The still, dry heat of the morning bothered all the contestants, most of all Duncan. Why it bothered them so much more than it bothered the Americans does not appear, considering that Englishmen have been looking up hot countries to go for many years, and invented the pith helmet and the rickey. Rickeys, of course, are readily available in the United States of America, but they seem to be some constitutional disadvantage against the hats.

When the last of the morning foursomes had holed out before a small group of gasping patrons standing in the sun filled with little American flags, and feeble postures around the green, the sky began to darken

DUNLAP, KEPLER MEET TODAY FOR COLLEGE CROWN

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

George T. Dunlap Jr., the wiry Princeton junior, refuses to part with the national intercollegiate golf championship which he won at Pittsburgh last year. He demonstrated this with considerable emphasis yesterday by defeating Tommy Aycock, the Yale graduate who was champion two years ago, 9 and 8, in the semi-finals of the thirty-fifth annual tournament on the No. 4 course at Olympia Fields.

Bob Kepler of Ohio State will dispute Dunlap's right to retain the title in the 36 hole championship match today. Kepler won his way into the final match in one of those pal against pal struggles, for the loser was Johnny Florio, a friend of Bob, who also attends Ohio State. Neither appeared to be playing for good old Ohio State yesterday. It was Kepler for Kepler and Florio for Florio, but there was more of the former than of Florio, and Bob finally won on the 13th green, 6 and 5.

Florio's Putting Is Off.

Kepler's victory was something of a surprise, for he did not fare as well in the Western conference meet as Florio, who was runner-up to Dick Martin of Illinois. But Florio's putting yesterday was decidedly off, while the young man from Dayton, who had previously eliminated Martin and Young Sid Noyes of Yale, seemed to have reached the top of his game.

Kepler was 6 up at the end of the morning 18 holes, and although Florio rallied during the first afternoon nine, he was still 4 down at the turn. They halved the 10th and 11th, but Florio slammed his drive on the twelfth against a tree, hooked his second shot and three putted. He landed in a trap on the short thirteenth and took a four to Kepler's par 3 to end the match.

Dunlap's margin at the end of the first 18 holes was even more convincing than that of Kepler, and was more surprising in view of the fact that he was playing a former champion who seemed bent on coming back, judging from his earlier performances in the tournament. Dunlap was 7 up on Aycock at lunch time.

Aycock got back a hole on the first

BY HARVEY WOODRUFF.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Geauga Lake, O., June 26. — Will Stribling's plan of campaign against Champion Max Schmeling for the world heavyweight title is not definitely revealed by training camp sparring practice at this amusement resort within easy motoring distance of Cleveland. The one time Georgia school boy practices both the aggressive slashing attack, which most critics think he should adopt because of his speed, and the clinching, careful mode which has made some of his appearances unsatisfactory to bloodthirsty spectators. Evidently he wishes to be prepared for what seems best to him and his advisors on the night of July 3.

MA STRIBLING.

Let us, then, review in detail one of these night sessions which are supposed to end Sunday so far as the public is concerned. First picture a long line of customers waiting their turn to part with four bit, or $1 on Sundays, from the ticket seller. Then they step into a large tract, in the center of which is a regulation ring, lights overhead, with accompanying rope skipping and bag punching platforms. On three sides are rows of benches for the cash customers, with front row viewpoints for the fight critics, not cash customers.

Youngsters Open Show.

First appear the "Montreal Midgets," a quartet of boy boxers from 10 to 14 years old, clever and with a good working knowledge of the game. They, too, are good showmen, as must be everyone around a Stribling camp.

Then comes the championship aspirant with his sparring partners, accompanied by Manager Pa Stribling, while Ma takes a ringside chair as timekeeper, and Brother Herbert, known in the ring as Baby Stribling, posts himself where he can be useful for any occasion. W. L. then skips rope for the equivalent of a round, shadow boxes another round, and punches the heavy bag a like period.

Now for the serious work of the evening as protective headgears are adjusted and the large, soft gloves fastened. Jim Cawley, a Pennsylvania heavyweight, perhaps twenty pounds heavier than the challenger, is first. He is slow of foot by comparison. His guard is not unlike that of Max Schmeling in that he carries it high, although his hands are not as close together as those of the German.

Strib weaves in and out with his left low, it seems almost too low, but comes back like a flash to meet an opponent's lead. This left against Cawley is for feinting and menace, for Strib's attack is heavy rights to the body, occasionally lifted to the head. That is supposed to be his reply to the body fighting which Schmeling relishes. Two rounds and W. L. has hardly been touched although a few nights ago he was hit frequently. This time, however, the Georgian is in prime humor and determined to show the onlookers his wares.

Schmeling Pins Hope of Victory on Body Attack

Conneaut Lake Park, Pa., June 26.—(AP)—Max Schmeling hopes to conquer Young Stribling with a body attack in their world's heavyweight championship battle in Cleveland a week from tonight. He gave evidence of this in his five round workout against two sparring partners this afternoon.

They tossed George Panka, Pittsburgh heavyweight, and Tony Marullo, the New Orleans veteran, into the ring with Schmeling and against both sparring mates the sturdy German moved forward until he got into close quarters and then let fly with both hands to the body.

Eichrodt Goes

OUTFIELDER FRED EICHRODT was returned by the White Sox yesterday to the New Orleans team of the Southern association. He was drafted from that team last fall. Eichrodt formerly was with the Cleveland Indians.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Having been more or less of a bust for a month, during which he collected six straight defeats, Cecil Pat Caraway made up his mind to start in the opposite direction yesterday. His act was run off so perfectly that Washington's ambitious Senators were forced to mark off the day's labor as a total loss. They could nick the lengthy southpaw for only five hits, so the White Sox won handily, 4 to 3. It was the first time this season that the Sox have beaten Washington.

The Senators scored three runs on their meager total of hits, because Caraway had one bad experience with lack of control and two experiences in which he came out second best against Joe Kuhel, first sack understudy. The lack of control just about forced a run on the visitors in the fourth and the two others resulted from Kuhel slapping the ball over the right field barrier in the seventh and again in the ninth.

Sox Begin Early.

The Sox started to fasten down the decision in the first inning. They presented Caraway with a one run lead and in the third increased the margin by two. Then by knocking out Alvin Crowder they hung up their final tally in the fifth, Caraway himself having a hand in this with one of his three hits. Meanwhile Pat was hurling at such a deadly pace that only one safety had been recorded, this being by Myers to open the game.

The inaccuracy of Crowder's fire assisted the White Sox in scoring their run in the first inning. He walked Kerr, the leadoff man. Blue fanned, but Reynolds singled to right center, Kerr dashing to third. Reynolds was caught in an attempt to steal second. Fonseca rolled one toward third and it was too slow to handle, so it became a bargain single and Kerr scored.

Two Hits Bring Two Runs.

The Sox made everything count in the third. They used only a pair of hits to score as many runs. After Kerr's retirement Blue banged a two bagger along the left field line. He walked home on a triple aimed into the right field corner by Reynolds. Fonseca brought his bat around to meet Crowder's first pitch and a fly to deep center was the result. Reynolds hustled home after the catch.

Caraway's flurry which permitted the Senators to get possession of their first run in the fourth started with passes to Manush and Cronin. Harris filled the bases by letting himself be plunked on the back of the neck by a pitched ball. Caraway then settled to the job of getting himself out of the jam. A popup to Jeffries disposed of West. Bluege lined to Fonseca and Manush scored on the play. The bases were filled again when Kuhel walked, but Spencer popped out the side.

Blue collaborated with Caraway in the fifth to give the Sox one more run, making the count 4 to 1. Pat opened the chapter with a robust hit which sailed far enough into center to permit him to reach third. He remained there while Bluege was throwing out Kerr, but went home a moment later on Blue's single to left. Blue's wallop also terminated Crowder's reign on the mound. The value of this run was wiped out a bit later on Kuhel's homer into the stand in right.

The third of the limited taps off

FREAK BASEBALL HAPPENINGS
by Irving Vaughan

For a ball game to be lost by a bit of bone head work is not uncommon. But to win a decision on the strength of a "boner" is a bit of a rarity. Frank Chance unwittingly proved it could be done. It occured while he was managing the New York Yankees, that club having called on him to aid in pulling it out of the mud after he had completed his colorful career as "Peerless Leader" of the old Cub machine. As pilot of the Yanks, Chance enjoyed no success and soon threw up the job.

The boner came up in the course of a big eighth inning rally in which the Yankees scored six runs in a game at St. Louis. When the inning opened, the Yanks were trailing by a big margin and the pitcher was the first man up. Chance decided to bat for the pitcher. He singled to start the rally. A bit later he scored and immediately went to third base to serve as coach for the remainder of the inning.

The rally continued until four runs were over the plate and two men still were on the bases. The next man at bat was Derrick, the Yank shortstop who was swinging in the eight hole. Some one yelled to Chance that it was his turn to pinch hit for the second time. In the excitement he ran from the coaching line to the bench, picked up a bat, went to the plate and singled. The two men on bases scored to complete the six run upset.

Chance in his first trip had batted for the pitcher who was last in the attack. In his next trip he batted in the berth that Derrick should have filled. Had the blunder been noticed immediately, Derrick, the proper batsman, would have been called out automatically and neither Chance's second single nor the two runs he drove in would have been counted. The error wasn't discovered by the Browns until the next inning when a newspaperman informed George Stovall, St. Louis manager, of what he had overlooked. Under the rules, it was too late to demand that the umpire in chief act on the matter.

The costliness of the Brown's oversight became evident in their half of the ninth. They scored three runs, but the game ended with the Yankees in front by 8 to 7. Had the two tallies which grew from Chance's mistake

Although the game was won by the "boner" Chance wasn't satisfied. He charged that Derrick, by not yelling that it was his turn at bat, was asleep on the job. It wasn't long before Derrick went back to the minors.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., June 26.—Our Cub took another radiant blistering from the Braves this afternoon, spanked by the Bostonians for the fifth time in the seven games this year. On this occasion the score was 7 to 3.

Socks Selbold held the boys to two hits, neither of which figured in the scoring, and Ben Cantwell pitched the last four innings and allowed them only two more hits, neither of which figured in the scoring.

It was another fine day for those Chicago White Sox castoffs, Earl Sheely and Randy Moore. Both scored in a four run salvo off Pat Malone in the first inning, and in the seventh Randy singled and came home ahead of Earl when the latter knocked a homer into the left field stand.

Malone Folds Up Again.

That first inning was Malone's second pitiable exhibition in three days and further revealed that Pat is far from the physical condition to approach his 1929 record, when he won 22 games, or his last year's mark, when he won 20.

In today's collapse Malone was touched for four hits, gave two walks, committed a wild pitch, and failed to cover first in rapid succession and without the interruption of a putout.

Malone has been credited with five victories and four losses during the playing of 61 games. His record is not an indication of his inefficiency, however, for two of his victories were cheap ones gained in brief relief roles, while he has escaped several losses, such as the one day before yesterday when he failed to protect an 8 to 3 lead given him against the Giants.

Finishes Only 3 Games.

Pat has started 12 games this year and has finished only two of them, a rather pallid showing for a gent who promised 25 victories as his contribution to the Cub pennant plans.

Aside from the deplorable showing of Malone there was great grief otherwise because of the loss. The realization now seems fully upon the boys that they have no class against first division competition. The team has won only seven games out of 22 played against the other first division teams.

Tomorrow Guy Bush, who has been looking pretty good recently, or Lou Warneke, will try to dam the flood. Cunningham will pitch for the Braves.

Strangely enough, the Cubs made their three runs today without the aid of a base hit or an enemy miscue. Walks to the first four batsmen in the sixth and two infield outs gave the Cubs their total for the day.

Five Runs Before Cubs Hit.

The Braves had themselves five big runs before the Cubs made their first hit—those four at the expense of the portly Mr. Malone and one off his successor, Sweetland, in the second inning.

We might spare you the details of that horrible first inning, but we're not going to. Maranville started it by singling with one down. Berger walked. Then R. Moore singled to right, the Rabbit scoring and Berger stopping at second. Sheely walked, filling the bases. This inspired Malone to cast a wild pitch, which scored Berger and advanced Moore and Sheely. Schulmerich grounded to Grimm, but Malone didn't even try to waddle over to first and the effort went for a single. This scored Moore and put Sheely on third. Cronin singled to center, scoring Sheely, Schulmerich stopping at second. Sweetland then went in and put out the fire. He fanned Maguire and threw out Selbold.

Score Off Sweetland.

Dressen led off the Braves' second inning with a walk, and went to second on Hemsley's passed ball. Maranville filed to Stephenson, but Berger singled to left, scoring Dressen. Moore fouled to Hemsley.

Sweetland got the first Chicago hit, a single with one out in the third, but immediately went down with Cuyler in the Braves' second double play.

$25,000 DERBY HEADS LATONIA OPENING CARD

Pittsburgher Is Favorite in Field of Ten.

Latonia, Ky., June 26.—[Special.]—The annual summer racing season will open at the Latonia track here tomorrow with the renewal of the $25,000 Latonia Derby at a mile and a half as the attraction.

Ten were named overnight for the Derby, All of them, with the exception of St. Brideaux, All Hall and Scuttle, trailed Mate home in the American Derby in Chicago last Saturday.

Pittsburgher was the favorite, but considerable support was developing for St. Brideaux, a stable mate of Twenty Grand owned by Mrs. Helen Hay Whitney. Charley Kurtsinger, Twenty Grand's jockey, will be here to ride St. Brideaux. The Derby field follows:

SUN MISSION VICTOR

New York, June 26.—[Special.]—The humble Sun Mission, which has performed ably and honestly in modest company, and the aristocratic Curate, well known for his poor races in the country's biggest stakes, had a battle royal for supremacy in the mile of the California handicap, which was the feature at Aqueduct today, and Sun Mission won by a nose.

Two lengths back of Curate, which under 126 pounds conceded a pound to Sun Mission, came the Belair stud's Flaming. After that Gigantic, Condescend and Bobashela crossed the line as named, the last having been backed down to joint favoritism under steady play while Sun Mission's price went up from an opening at 11 to 5.

Walking Ring Is Installed at Arlington

A walking ring has been installed in the paddock at Arlington Park in the best European manner, the first in the history of American racing. In this ring for five minutes before post time the horses about to start in all races will walk uncovered, for public inspection.

This has been done in England and on the continent of Europe for years. Jockeys will mount their horses in the ring and ride them out on the course for the customary single file parade past the grandstand.

Vice President Charles Curtis will be the guest of Albert D. Lasker, one of the directors of the Arlington Park Jockey club for two or three days next week and will attend the Arlington Park races on July 4.

The handicap will bring to the post a fine field of horses, 3 year olds and over for the mile and a furling event. The purse will be about $35,000.

NEW TRACK FOR MIAMI

Washington, D. C., June 26.—(AP)—Plans for construction at Miami, Fla., of the largest horse racing plant in the United States at a cost of $2,000,000 were announced tonight by T. V. O'Connor, chairman of the board of the Miami Beach Jockey club.

The track will be operated for winter racing, giving Miami two plants. The Hialeah track is already in operation there.

Pancho Lopez was soon hustled to the front and, racing well, withstood several mild challenges to show the way to the finish. Night Vintage was close up at all times and outfinished Discobolus. Latter broke slowly from an outer post position, then dashed up to the leaders on the outside but weakened slightly in the run home. Elizabeth W. met with interference, but was going well at the end. Crystal Prince displayed early speed. Point Final and Koster Maid were in close quarters early.

Cheers followed the pace of Nifty under slight restraint to the stretch, then took command and drew out to win as he pleased. Nifty showed the most early speed, but was a easily beat of the others was no match for the winner. Bachelor's Toy went fairly well, but was outclassed by the first two. Shasta Bullet dropped back after breaking in front. Bacciocco made up some ground.

Flag Time, always within striking distance of the leaders, came fast when the stretch was reached and, after being blocked a sixteenth out, came to the outside to wear down Martie Flynn and win going away. Martie Flynn, probably best, was blocked when taken to the rail in the early running, was then forced to be taken back and came to the outside at the eighth turn to take command when Hot Shot tired but had little left with which to resist winner. Sage Fire showed a good effort. Hot Shot set the pace but could not last. American Thunder tired badly in last furlong. Stick Around and Nusakan had early speed.

Sister Zoe, in close quarters rounding the far turn, continued gamely and, coming fast on the outside in the stretch, wore down her opposition and was slowly drawing away at the end. Nostaw gained slowly but steadily to head the pace a sixteenth out, but could not resist Sister Zoe's strong, courageous finish to best Suttor. Latter, a forward factor from the start, headed the field at the stretch turn but could not last. Portmaniaau hung in the last furlong. Dark Entry displayed early speed but could not keep up.

Time, :24 1-5, :48 1-5, 1:14 2-5, 1:40 2-5, 1:54 1-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Traumel, $6.26 straight, $4.18 place, $3.24 show; Thunwin, $30.88 place, $18.50 show; San Clemente, $7.18 show. Start good. Won easily. Place driving. Went to post at 4:54. At post 4½ minute. Trained by W. R. Beamsley.

Traumel followed the pace closely under steady restraint and, much the best, caught Thunwin weakening in the stretch to draw out to an easy victory. Thunwin went to the front when Dandy Dan tired, but faltered in the final eighth. San Clemente, forced wide at the eighth turn, closed with a strong spurt was far out of it in the early stages and although making up some ground in the last quarter did not threaten. Our Billy weakened in the run home. Shasta Lover was in close quarters on stretch turn. Tea Green was shuffled back rounding the first turn. Dandy Dan tired badly.

Waterport, saving ground where possible in the early stages, raced strongly through the stretch and got up to beat Albazano in the last stride. Albazano, a bad post color, showed fine early speed, and holding on gamely when challenged, barely missed. Englewood came strongly in the last quarter. Brown Hills also closed gamely near the rail. Flagg Porter rushed up to the leaders on the back stretch run, but faltered when put to a drive in stretch. Ann Clay was close to the pace in the early stages, but displayed little when put to the test.

Horse's Hearts Are Topic On Homewood Off Day

BY FRENCH LANE.

A stormy controversy among horsemen raged all afternoon at Washington Park yesterday while a near "get-away" day program was being run.

"Can a race horse by his superior class break the heart of another by defeating him?" was the question at issue.

Most turfmen say Man o' War broke John P. Grier's heart in the Dwyer stakes of 1920 at Aqueduct. Recent races indicate Twenty Grand might have broken the hearts of Sun Meadow and Jamestown when he whipped them so unmercifully in the Belmont early in the month.

Sun Meadow's first appearance under colors after the Belmont found him running last in an American Derby field. There were some good horses in the American Derby. There were also some bad ones. Sun Meadow surely ran like a horse with a broken heart in that race.

Jamestown's first effort after the Belmont brought the most disgraceful race the champion 2 year old of last year ever ran. He finished third in a three horse race, beaten by two horses that never before had won a race.

Joseph A. Murphy is one racing man who believes that a great horse either breaks the heart or takes the heart out of his rivals. He is certain Man o' War broke John P. Grier's heart. He can name you a lot of other instances. They deal mostly with cheaper horses whose owners have rafed them too high.

"When they drop these platers back where they belong they can't even beat horses much inferior to them," Murphy says.

O'Neil Sevier, the human horse encyclopedia of the Arlington Park Jockey club, says the idea of one horse breaking the heart of another is poppycock.

"I'd rather think a leg, a corn or a bunion was hurting the horse instead of his heart," Sevier said. "Old age, injuries, weak underpinnings or sickness will stop a great horse but never is the thoroughbred a victim of a broken

Four Home Runs Feature Batting Spree.

Brooklyn, N. Y., June 26.—(AP)—The Robins went on one of their batting slugging sprees of the year today and trounced the St. Louis Cardinals, 16 to 5. After the Cards had knocked Hollis Thurston for three runs in the first inning, Brooklyn came in its half against Burleigh Grimes from the start with a rally that netted eight runs in their half. They continued their assault against Jim Lindsey and Tony Cuccinello, piling up 16 hits, which included four homers.

afternoon green, which Dunlap three putted, but George went 7 up again on the second and took another hole at the 3d, where Aycock's long putt skirted the cup's edge by half an inch. Dunlap sliced on to the adjoining fairway while driving for the 5th, and Aycock was again 7 down. They halved three successive holes, but Aycock was short in reaching the ninth green and took a 6 to Dunlap's five. Dunlap put an end to the proceedings at the tenth, where he holed an eight footer for a par 4 against Aycock's five.

Dunlap didn't delay building up his lead on the morning rounds. His second shot reached the green, where he two putted, while Aycock found a trap and took three putts. They halved the second, Aycock making a beautiful approach shot, but George went two up on the 3d, where Aycock's second shot was short of the green and he two putted.

Dunlap Goes 3 Up.

Dunlap became three up on the 4th when his ball reached the green inside of Aycock's. Both found the rough in their drives from the 5th tee, and Dunlap's second shot wound up stymied by a tree. Their approaches were poor, but they got down in two putts to halve the hole.

Dunlap's drive to the 6th reached the green and his 12 foot putt for a birdie two just grazed the cup. Aycock pulled his drive to a trap at the right and eventually picked up, giving the Princetonian a four hole lead. They halved the 7th and 8th, and Aycock finally found his game on the 9th, where he took a par 4 to Dunlap's 6.

Aycock encountered a trap on his drive to the 10th, while Dunlap's second reached the green, where he two putted. Aycock's second rolled off the green, but his third came within six feet of the cup. He required two putts to get down, however, and Dunlap was again 4 up. Aycock had a bit of tough luck on the 11th, where his second shot turned up 20 feet from the flag and his putt curled around the cup and out. They also halved the 12th and 13th, but Dunlap took another hole at the 14th.

Adds to His Lead.

Dunlap also took the 15th and 16th, making him 7 up. On the former, Aycock's drive struck a trap and his second shot found the rough, but he made a great recovery, spanking the ball through the trees and nearly on the green. At the 16th Dunlap came through with a birdie deuce, his drive reaching the green, whence he holed out a 15 footer. They halved the last two holes of the round.

In the morning round between Florio and Kepler, the first hole finally triumphed over Johnny and Kepler went 1 up. Florio already had made eight birdies and one eagle on that first green, but he three putted it yesterday. They halved the 2d and 3d; but Kepler sank a 25 foot chip shot for a par four on the 4th, while Florio was taking a five. The latter rallied to win the 5th when Kepler landed in a trap, but Kepler went 2 up with a birdie four on the 6th. They halved two and Kepler made himself three up at the turn when Florio's second shot splashed into a creek.

Kepler was 4 up after the 12th, where Florio again found three putts necessary to get down. Kepler was troubled by the creek on the 14th and Florio gained a hole. He three putted, however, at the 15th and found himself in a trap on the 17th. Kepler came in to luncheon 6 up, because Florio's second shot to the 18th was short and he needed three strokes to reach the green, where he two putted.

June Beebe Beats Mrs. Jones 3 and 2 for Women's Title

Miss June Beebe, 18 year old golfer, of Olympia Fields, yesterday won the women's western open golf championship by defeating Mrs. Melvin Jones of Lincolnshire, the medalist, 3 and 2, in the final match at Midlothian Country club.

Miss Beebe was out in 42, one over par, and led one up at the turn. She took the opening hole with a par 5 when Mrs. Jones three putted. A stymie cost Mrs. Jones the second. Miss Beebe getting par 3. The third was halved in 5s and they exchanged the fourth and fifth in birdie 4s. Mrs. Jones registered her birdie on the fourth by negotiating a dead stymie with her niblick, and June garnered hers on the fifth when she sent a long iron within two feet of the pin and sank the putt.

Stroke Apart at Turn.

Mrs. Jones' par 5 won the 6th, but she again became 2 down on the seventh when her tee shot landed in the rough and her next shot went into a trap, requiring six shots to reach the green. June was down in 6. Mrs. Jones won the 8th with a birdie 3. She also uncaged another birdie on the ninth, but June equaled this and they made the turn with June out in 42 and Mrs. Jones out in 43.

The 10th was halved, but June took the 11th with 5 when Mrs. Jones missed a short putt and again became 2 up. Then Mrs. Jones sent her tee shot on the 122 yard 12th 3 inches from the cup. This deuce made her only one down. But she sliced her next drive into the rough and was unable to make a recovery. June's long straight shots on the 514 yard 13th gave her a 6 and a lead of 2 up. They halved the 14th and 15th in 5s and 4s. With a par 5 on the 507 yard 16th, Miss Beebe ended the match, 3 and 2. Final results:

Will Stribling Be Puncher or Try Clinching?

with body leverage behind the blow, predominate. Alternating are lefts to the body, generally a straight punch, but seldom with as much power. This setto likewise is two rounds.

One round sessions against Frank Kitts of Akron, in which clinches from which Strib often propels his famous "sneak" punch, and against welterweight Mickey Dugan in which footwork and speed are the salient features conclude the program.

Chat with Visitors.

Following his shower and rubdown in improvised quarters at press headquarters, W. L. and the remainder of the family stand around to chat with visitors and newspaper men until the latter are ready for the drive back to Cleveland.

Stribling will work in public tomorrow and Sunday night. It seems hardly likely that will conclude his sparring although no future plans beyond those dates have been made. The amusement concern would like one added public appearance because of the gate receipts which are its property in return for the flat bonus of $10,000, which is paid Stribling for training expenses and advertisement of the resort by his presence.

The Georgian appears in perfect condition. There was professed fear that he might go over the line in condition and tend toward staleness. No such danger appears in his workouts. The only cause for worry on that score is his good nature manifested several times in playful rather than vicious cuffing of sparring partners. Good nature is not orthodox for a boxer nearing a big fight. He should be sullen, crabby and vicious, according to approved thought on the subject. This writer prefers the present Stribling brand, at least for newspaper interview purposes.

Advance Guard Augmented.

Newspaper men from distant cities and sport celebrities are arriving daily to augment the advance guard. Nate Lewis, matchmaker for the Chicago Stadium, is one. That provides a conversational companion for those addicted to late hours, for Nate long has held that daylight was the best time for sleeping purposes.

WOOD CONQUERS NEW ZEALANDER AT WIMBLEDON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WIMBLEDON, England, June 26.—Syd Wood of the United States gave the year's biggest crowd at Wimbledon its most exciting tennis match this afternoon in defeating C. E. Malfroy of New Zealand, 6-2, 10-12, 10-8, and 6-4.

Wood's victory was one of the two four set matches featuring the advance of the three remaining American single players to the final eight. John Van Ryn beat Christian Boussus, the lefthanded Frenchman, by 6-2, 1-6, 6-2, and 6-1. In the match immediately following theirs, Frank Shields trounced J. S. Olliff of Great Britain, 6-2, 6-0, 6-3.

The American performances concluded with a straight set victory of Mrs. L. A. Harper, the ranking United States woman entry, over Miss Olive Webb of Great Britain. Mrs. Harper made an impressive appearance with scores of 6-0, 6-4.

LINDBLOM PLAYS LANE 9 TODAY FOR PREP TITLE

Lane Tech, six times winner of the Chicago public high school baseball league championship, will seek another title this afternoon when it plays Lindblom, central and south sectional championship victor, at Wrigley field.

Leading all league teams in the number of championships won, Lane took the title last year by defeating Marshall. Two members of last year's squad, Freddie Bergmann and Walter Czelusta, will appear in Lane uniforms for the last time, having been graduated yesterday.

Lindblom, champion in 1928, staged one of the greatest battles in its history to reach the final game. Qualifying for the semi-final competition by winning the central section title, Lindblom was forced into a playoff with Tilden for the central and south championship.

REFEREE PROBLEMS.

CLEVELAND, O., June 26.—[Special.]—Public naming of the referee for the Schmeling-Stribling title bout next Friday night probably will not be made until the day of the battle, perhaps not until the evening of the battle. This has become a custom of late years where the sport is ruled by boxing commissions. Such belated announcement is supposed to protect the chosen arbiter from sinister influence, political pressure, or what have you.

There are dozens of men whose integrity would not be questioned by the managers of either battler. But integrity, no matter how essential, is not the only quality to be considered. The referee must also be a man of experience and good judgment. If it could be assured the bout would end in a knockout or go the limit of 15 rounds without any complications, then it would be simply a matter of judging the merits of these two boys and giving a decision. But it's the complications, the unexpected happenings, that contain dynamite.

Look at four title bouts within the last dozen years. In Toledo, when Dempsey took the crown from Jess Willard, a faulty gong failed to operate and Dempsey climbed through the ropes and started to leave the ring when nearly all thought the Kansan had been knocked out in the first round. But the count of "ten" had not been reached when the round actually ended. Dempsey had left the ring, a technical foul, but Referee Ollie Pecord finally straightened out the chaos and ordered the bout to go on.

When Luis Firpo, the "Wild Bull of the Pampas," knocked Dempsey through the ropes in their New York bout of 1923, there was always the argument whether Jack was helped back into the ring or returned "under his own power," so to speak. No action was taken.

In the second Tunney-Dempsey contest in Chicago was the famous "long count" when Referee Dave Barry's action was pronounced correct by the boxing commission present, according to rules agreed before the match. Yet Barry, to this day, is greeted by gallerytes with unison counting up to "fourteen."

In the battle against Sharkey in which Schmeling was awarded his present title was the foul blow which was not seen by the referee and one of the two judges. The decision was given by the referee on the authority of one judge.

So there is more than integrity alone to be considered in the choice of the third man in the ring.

Some thread from out her pocketbook
She took, and started in to hook
A funny needle through and through
And soon a lovely pattern grew.
All swirls and rings and swirls again
Like snowflakes on the window pane.
It seemed mysterious to me
That with a spool so tiny she Could fill so much of empty space
With rows and rows of pretty lace . . .

She felt my deep absorbing look
And placed her work in her pocketbook,
But the harm was done, she had me going
As these litle rhymes and lines are showing,
For that's the reason my brain is spinning
A yarn from such a small beginning . . .

Maixie.

CHICAGO STOCKS MOVE FORWARD WITH NEW VIGOR

Bendix Active and Gains Over 3 Points.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Activity slowed up moderately on the Chicago exchange yesterday, but stocks resumed their advance with a vigor which has been seen infrequently in recent months. There was a batch of rumors, some of which were inspired in official quarters, which helped along individual shares. The advance took in a wide variety of stocks and extended in some issues to 3 and 4 points.

The trading revolved around the motor accessory shares with Bendix the focal point of interest. This stock benefited from the report that the company is about to bring out three new products for the automotive trade. The most important of these, it was said, is a free wheeling device which will introduce novel changes in gear shifting.

Reaches New High.

On the strength of these reports and good market support the stock moved ahead to a new high price for the movement of 21¾, which represented a net improvement for the day of 3¼ points. The stock was the most actively traded in on the board with an approximate turnover of 37,000 shares.

The interest in Bendix overshadowed moderately active trading in Borg-Warner which resulted in the stock moving ahead to 21⅝. Houdaille Hershey issues reflected the group movement with fractional gains.

The announcement of R. C. Lanphier, president of the Sangamo Electric company, that recent orders booked by the firm insure full time operation of the plant until early winter was the signal for a mild bullish demonstration in the common stock. On sales of 800 shares the price was bid up 2 points to 20.

Insull Issues Firm.

Moderate price gains were fairly evenly distributed among classes of securities. The Insull stocks were firm with Insull Utility pointing the way. One or two stocks with Burnham sponsorship recorded creditable improvement, notably Noblitt Sparks, which pushed up over 3 points. Acme Steel spurted 3¼ to 30. National Tamily Stores was more active and closed higher at 4.

Sentiment in La Salle street yesterday showed no indication of swerving away from cheerful note prevailing since the first of the week. The more conciliatory attitude of France on the debt plan was regarded as a good omen and the group strength in the rail stocks in New York generated more cheerful ideas on the outlook for these securities.

Chicago Curb Exchange Stocks

Chicago curb stocks continued to encounter steady support yesterday, although the trading volume fell off to 13,000 shares. Standard of Indiana, American Superpower and Forest worked fractionally lower, and Indiana Pipe Line jumped a full point.

REVIEWS FIND HOOVER'S PLAN AIDS SENTIMENT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 26.—Pronounced improvement in business sentiment and the buoyant effect of confidence in leading markets as an outgrowth of President Hoover's moratorium plan, were principal topics today in the weekly trade reviews.

R. G. Dun & Co. said rehabilitation of world finance was indicated by the President's proposal, that confidence had been greatly strengthened and additional activity had appeared in some of the principal markets.

"In commodity prices, advances this week again slightly exceed decline, with improvement in nonferrous metals," Dun's report said, "indicative of broader activity at some industrial centers. Business in cotton goods was quickened in the primary markets by the rise in the raw material, and the improved tone in textile affairs. Buying of print cloths and some of the convertibles is in excess of current production. The wood goods industry is maintaining the recent good ratio of sales. The fall business having indicated substantial proportions."

Weather Favors Sales.

Warm weather had favored retail activities, the review added. Sales are particularly heavy in lightweight apparel, furniture and paints. Vacation weather has stimulated the demand of sporting goods, travelers' accessories, silk and rayon apparel, millinery, footwear and hosiery. Even medium priced merchandise shows prudent inquiry. Large department stores are holding even with sales to June last year and a few report gains in dollar volume.

Manufacturing showed uneven trends, little change being noted in the volume of output in the basic industries but increased activity was noted in some of the lesser manufacturing branches. Shoe factories are busy, especially in the west, and cotton textile mills are operating at a high rate.

Comment of Bradstreets.

Bradstreet also comments on the support given to confidence by news of the Hoover plan, but says retail trade would reveal no results of this influence for some time and indications pointed toward no upward swing in these lines the last week. Demand for seasonable merchandise continued to account for a fair amount of business and to enable retailers about to hold their own. Reorders, the report said, evidently still are refusing to replenish their stocks to immediate requirements and this hand-to-mouth buying was apparent in its effect on wholesalers and jobbers.

Encouragement, however, must be gained from the upward swing of raw commodity prices and the steadying of others, the Review said. Trade in the United States is bound fast to the high road and all that is needed now is a little financial "free-wheeling," the Business Week said.

MIDWEST RECESSION

Recessions were general last month in lines of wholesale trade in the middle west, according to the monthly review of the Chicago Federal Reserve bank. Declines ranged up to 13 per cent, compared with April, and ran as high as 30 per cent, compared with Jan. 1930. For the first five months of this year, declines ranged from 12 to 34 per cent, compared with the corresponding period in 1930. However, a large share of these declines were attributable to lower commodity prices. Department store sales last month were 9 per cent under April and 16 per cent below May, 1930.

Recessions also were recorded last month in both wholesale and retail sales of automobiles. Sales also were smaller than a year ago. Stocks of cars declined further and remained well below the 1930 level. Orders for furniture also fell off considerably from April and shipments also declined.

Babcock-Rushton & Co. to Move Offices Next Monday

Announcement is made by Babcock, Rushton & Co., members of the New York and Chicago Stock exchanges, and of several other exchanges, of removal from their 37 South La Salle street offices to 112 West Adams street, on Monday, June 29.

Their new offices will occupy the third floor where they will have about twelve thousand square feet of floor space. Babcock, Rushton & Co., was established in 1895 and the Chicago partners are O. E. Babcock, J. A. Rushton, G. A. Robinson, Martin J. Murray, Nelson Barnes, and Phillip Rushton.

J. D. Scheinman & Co., Chicago and New York stock exchange house, announces formal opening on Monday, June 29, of new and larger quarters in Suite 400, 120 South La Salle street and the addition of two new executives, Louis E. Corrington and Parnell Stone. Mr. Corrington was formerly with E. A. Pierce & Co., and Mr. Stone was associated with Logan & Bryan. In addition to holding membership on the Chicago and New York stock exchanges the firm is a member of the Chicago Board of Trade and the New York curb exchange.

Shippers Seek Ways to Escape Rate Increases

BY SCRUTATOR.

The railroads have definitely informed the interstate commerce commission that they want to apply the requested 15 per cent freight rate increase to all commodities, but that subsequent reductions will probably be made "to meet competition and other situations."

Elsewhere the suggestion has been made that a temporary advance in rates be authorized to tide the carriers over the present hump. Such an expedient has been indorsed by the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce.

History seems to indicate—in the 40 per cent case particularly—that once an advance is established it cannot be taken off because of the neutralizing efforts of shippers.

Knowing that a rate advance can be made on thirty days notice, or even less, shippers immediately commence to explore new methods of transportation, distribution or even manufacture as soon as an increase is threatened.

Neutralizes Effect.

Railroad history is full of cases in which the gray matter of shippers has worked to save money when rates are raised, thereby neutralizing the effect of the increased rate on railway revenues.

Back in 1912 when buggy and wagon manufacturing was quite an industry and before the days of wire wheels for automobiles, between 11,000 and 15,000 carloads of wood spokes were moved on the railroads each year.

Most of the spokes came from the states south of the Ohio and were shipped to eastern manufacturers as rough, unturned oak and hickory billets. Freight rates were raised, so spoke lumber producers installed machines and turned the billets before shipping them. This operation had previously been done at the wheel factories in the east.

The weight saved by trimming off the waste before shipping offset the higher freight rate. The railroads appealed to the interstate commerce commission for a still higher rate on the ground that the manufacture of club turned, or partly finished spokes, resulted in a loss of tonnage to the carriers.

"We fail to appreciate both the logic and the law of this line of reasoning," stated Commissioner Balthasar Meyer in writing the commission's decision upholding the wheel manufacturers' stand. "If it is valid to increase ratings and rates on club turned spokes because the whole tree is not shipped, should not grain bear a higher rate because the straw is left in the farmyard or field; wool, because the carcass is left behind; feathers, because the goose is not there, too, and marble, because the mountain is not brought along?"

Increased freight rates caused pulp wood producers to install rossers in the buh and trim bark off logs before shipping them, despite the additional fire hazard. Rate boosts likewise have forced decentralization of industries. They have encouraged the use of lighter containers.

Printer's ink was formerly all made in the east. Now there are ink factories throughout the country. The railroads get a higher rate for hauling ink, but they don't haul it far. This traffic lost by the railroads has not gone to competitive carriers. It has simply ceased to exist.

Retain New Methods.

Higher rates, or even the threat of an increase, also causes shippers to build or buy their own boats or fleets of trucks. Even if the rates are subsequently lowered the shippers who have rearranged their methods of distribution do not go back to the old system. They do not junk boats, trucks or other facilities.

There are many ways of beating any advance in modern distribution costs. Resorting to a competitive means of transportation is only one of them.

The railroads should find it to their own best interests to make known without delay just where they propose to make readjustments "to meet competition and other situations." Otherwise they may find later that they have locked the door of an empty barn.

Ten Years Ago in Finance

Germany's business is reported reviving and experts predict that Uncle Sam's war time enemy soon may become his best customer for exports of raw materials needed in the process of economic rehabilitation.

Half a dozen industries are reported working on a hand-to-mouth basis, the middleman and retailer buying only what they need for the indispensable and immediate needs of their customers. The trouble is held to be not so much inability to buy as unwillingness to make purchases so long as values remain uncertain.

General Motors corporation is awarding 6,332 shares of the 7 per cent debenture stock and 117,562 shares of common stock to 6,577 of its employés as a bonus for 1926. The common stock is selling around $10 a share on the New York exchange and the 7 per cent debenture stock around $71.

Business broadens in London markets and sentiment improves following the reduction in mid-week of the bank rate to 6 per cent.

Armour Reports Heat Wave Cuts Meat Demand

Armour & Co. in its review of general packing house trade conditions says:

"The hot weather prevailing over the greater part of the country has minimized the demand for beef, lamb and fresh pork in spite of the wholesale prices, which are the lowest they have been in years. Smoked meats, and the variety of meats that are ready to serve without heating, are in demand. Export business for the week was only fair. Collections were fairly good."

SOUTH AMERICAN ISSUES ADVANCE IN BOND MARKET

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 26.—Buoyancy of South American bonds predominated the heaviest day of trading today which the foreign issues list of the bond market of the New York Stock Exchange has enjoyed since Oct. 10 last year. Sales totaled $4,606,000, compared with $5,277,000 on the outstanding day of last October.

Practically all of the South American issues shared in the gains, which ranged from 1 to 7 points and were caused by the strength shown during the last week by the commodities and metals markets. Numerous of the South American countries are one product exporters and accordingly they have been hard hit by the depressed prices. The optimism in regard to them yesterday even extended to the issues of Peru and Bolivia on which there have been defaults in interest.

German bonds continued in heavy demand and prices went higher. The German Government Young plan bonds were up more than a point. The municipal issues of Germany, especially Berlin, were gainers on the day. The German industrials also shared in the advance. German General Electric 7s of 1945 ended the day with a net gain of four points.

ALABAMA POWER CO. EARNINGS DECLINE; NEW N. Y. RATES START

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 26.—The Alabama Power company, a subsidiary of the Commonwealth and Southern system, today reported a decline in net income after charges for the year ended May 31, 1931, the total of $3,129,489 for the twelve months comparing with $3,808,511 a year earlier. Gross earnings for the twelve month period declined to $17,922,264 from $18,042,247 in the preceding year.

For the five months ended May 31, 1931, gross earnings increased to $7,307,426 from $7,295,744 in the same period of 1930. For the month of May, 1931, gross earnings declined to $1,452,057 from $1,460,876 in May, 1930.

The new electric light rates recently ordered by the public service commission for the four largest companies of the Consolidated system in New York City went into effect today despite the opposition of several consumers' organizations. The new rates, which will bring about a reduction of $5,500,000 in combined revenues of the New York and Brooklyn Edison companies, the United Electric Light and Power company and the New York and Queens Electric Light and Power company, have the effect of increasing rates to small customers and decreasing them for larger customers.

The New York Railways corporation reports May net income of $33,166 after expenses and taxes, against a net loss of $8,003 in May, 1930, and for the five months ended May 31, 1931, net income of $55,361, compared with a net loss of $132,187 in the same 1930 period.

The Federal Light and Traction company of the Cities Service system reports net income for the year ended April 30 of $1,610,137 after charges and preferred dividends. On April 30 there were 44,374 shares of $6 preferred and 489,332 shares of common stock outstanding.

The daily output of electric power by eleven central stations operating in the Philadelphia federal reserve district was 3 per cent smaller in May than in April and 1½ per cent less than a year ago, it was reported today by the Philadelphia federal reserve bank.

Austria Stands Back of Credit Anstalt Liabilities

VIENNA, June 26.—The Austrian government, responding to pressure brought upon it by Dr. Bruins, adviser to the Austrian National bank; A. J. Van Hengel, representative of foreign creditors of the Credit Anstalt, and by all other foreign interests concerned, announced today it had extended its guarantee to foreign liabilities of Credit Anstalt to domestic liabilities as well. This step, which was urged on the government by foreign bankers when the crisis first arose, would, if taken promptly, have stopped the run on deposits of Credit Anstalt, which, by forcing that institution to discount a large number of bills at the Austrian National bank, eventually threatened Austria's currency.

Federal Reserve Banks Buying Gov't Securities

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 26.—Further action by Central banking authorities to maintain present easy money rates or to cheapen them further, stimulating the bond market anew and giving an impetus to trade recovery at the psychological moment, is indicated by the beginning of purchases of government securities by the federal reserve banks, which last week added about $20,000,000 to their portfolios. This is the first substantial increase in holdings since Aug. 13 of last year.

The latest action by the federal reserve banks is the more interesting in view of the probable reduction in the Bank of England discount rate within the next fortnight from 2½ to 2 per cent. Cables from London indicate that such action is probable, especially if the Hoover debt moratorium plan becomes ineffective. Cheaper money also would further benefit the German financial situation, laboring now under an exodus of foreign credits and a 7 per cent bank rate.

Now Using Third Method.

The purchases of more government issues by the reserve banks calls into service the third method by which central banks operate upon the money market. The first two, reduction in the discount rate and open market purchases of acceptances, have been utilized by the federal reserve to the limit of their effectiveness for the time being.

No secret is made of federal reserve intentions to build up its portfolio of government bonds, and no doubt much of the about-face of the government bond market this week has been due to this reserve bank buying. With the reserve banks for many weeks trying to buy bills without success and with the acceptance market approaching its lowest seasonal point, it is manifest that further reductions of bill buying rates, which were of almost daily occurence about six weeks ago, would serve no purpose.

While another cut in the discount rate might come about later, there is much doubt whether it could be made wholly effective at a time when bank members are only nominal borrowers.

Change in Tools, Not in Policy.

On the other hand, purchases of government securities, now that the Hoover proposal for a year's debt moratorium has resulted in a better psychological attitude throughout the world with immediate repercussions on commodities, are considered most opportune now in order that cheap money may be maintained during what remains of the period of its greatest usefulness.

The federal reserve authorities, in other words, believe that now is the psychological moment, not to change their policy, but to change the tools by which it is operative. As one banker expresses it, having completed the major phase of the operation, a needle has now been called into use to sew up the wound.

CRAWFORD STATE DEPOSITORS GET 20 PCT. DIVIDEND

William J. Rathje, receiver of the Crawford State Savings bank, has been authorized by Oscar Nelson, auditor of public accounts, to pay a twenty per cent dividend to the bank's 15,000 depositors. Dividend checks on approved claims will be mailed immediately. The bank was closed on Jan. 15, 1931, and the receiver took charge on Feb. 3. Progress is reported as being made on the liquidation of the remaining assets of the bank.

The depositors' and bondholders' protective committee of the Humboldt State bank and the Second Humboldt bank advises all depositors and bondholders in the two banks to file their claims with the committee as soon as possible. The office of the committee is at 2538 West North avenue and its office hours are from 2 to 10 p. m. week days and from 2 to 8 p. m. Saturdays. A communication to this effect is signed by Dr. Edward Applegate, Edwin Hanson, L. H. Lund and Harold Rivkin, members of the committee.

The Niles Center State bank reports that the directors have declared the regular 3 per cent semi-annual dividend, payable June 30. Willard Gallitz, assistant cashier, states that the bank's profits from Jan. 1 to June 1 of this year are greater than for the same period last year.

About 2,500 depositors of the two Northwestern State banks met last night at 1012 Noble street in Walsh's hall. According to Attorney D. A. Uretz, the depositors are opposed to a receivership and will await efforts of the directors to reorganize the banks. A report of their condition will be made to State Auditor Oscar Nelson soon.

NEW RATIO FOR STANDARD OIL, VACUUM DEAL

New York, June 26.—(AP)—A new basis for the merger of the Vacuum Oil company and the Standard Oil company of New York into a $1,000,000,000 unit has been reached by the boards of directors of those companies.

Stockholders of Vacuum are to receive two and one-half shares of stock in the merged company in exchange for each of their present shares and Standard Oil stockholders will exchange their holdings on a share for share basis with those of the new company, it was officially announced today. This confirmed recent unofficial reports.

Under the original agreement which was announced officially on Feb. 21, 1930, the Vacuum stockholders were offered three shares of stock of the General Petroleum corporation, which was to acquire all the Standard Oil-Vacuum assets and Standard Oil shares were to be exchanged on a share for share basis.

The announcement today disclosed also that the name of the merged company will be "Socony-Vacuum Corporation," instead of General Petroleum.

Electrical Output Here Down 2.7 % During Week

The electrical output of the Chicago district for the week ended June 20, 1931 was 96,033,000 kilowatt hours as compared with 98,746,000 kilowatt hours in the same week last year, a decrease of 2.7 per cent. This week was exceptionally clear in the Chicago district, and accounts in part for the decrease.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 26.—[Special.]—With railroads and steel stocks booming along in the lead, the rejuvenated stock market continued its sweep to higher levels today, despite the restraint of moderate profit taking. Final prices were the best of the day in a vast majority of issues. Virtually every group participated in a brisk, continuous upward movement during the final hour that put most active stocks some 3 to 8 points above yesterday's closing levels. Most stocks reached new peaks for the movement at one time or another.

The turnover in stocks, especially near the close, was large, but dull periods served to hold down the total for the day. Transactions amounted to about 3,200,000 shares.

Renewal of the sharp rise in stocks was accompanied by a plethora of good news and favorable reports and rumors such as Wall street has not enjoyed in the proverbial blue moon.

Washington and Paris reports indicated Secretary Andrew Mellon is pretty certain to find a way out on the debt and reparations moratorium question, and there was the new rumor that President Hoover is seeking to further his scheme for world-wide economic adjustment and stabilization by aiding South America financially.

Other Bullish Factors.

Other bullish factors today were:

The federal reserve's action to cheapen credit for all purposes; successful floating of the Japanese loan, first foreign loan here in more than a year, a $13,000,000 decrease in brokerage loans; prospects of quick action looking toward an increase in railroad rates.

Add to these brightening vistas a general optimistic mental outlook in the financial district, strong markets abroad, and brisk buying of domestic commodities, plus trade reports that indicate retail business on the upswing here and you have just some of the reasons for today's surging advance in stocks.

The rapid run up of railroads in the last hour of trading was the outstanding feature of the market. Atchison Topeka and Sante Fe was the leader of the group, soaring 8¾ points on moderate sales. Close behind, however, came Union Pacific up 7, Northern Pacific 7½, New York Central 5⅝, Erie 4⅝, Baltimore and Ohio 4, and Southern Pacific 3½.

Other Rails Gain.

The gains did not stop there by any means. Pennsylvania, Missouri Pacific, New Haven, and just about any other railroad that could be mentioned were up from 1 to 3 points.

United States Steel again acted as bellwether for the industrial group, closing at 102, its high point for the day, with a gain of 3¾ points. Bethlehem Steel and Youngstown Sheet and Tube benefited handsomely from the report that the Schwab and Otis interests had adjusted their quarrel, and the way was open to a consolidation of Youngstown and Bethlehem.

Youngstown gained 5½ and Bethlehem 2¾. Crucible Steel moved up moderately in a sympathetic action.

Utilities Pick Up.

Utilities followed rails and steels as the favorites today, with such old time plodders as American Foreign Power, Standard Gas, American Telephone, and Consolidated Gas showing the way. They couldn't quite match the dazzling performance of railroad shares, however, their gains falling well below 5 points for the most part.

Oil stocks were no better than steady, and motors couldn't be said to have hit on all six cylinders. Coppers, especially Anaconda and Kennecott, continued to add points, but were much more quiet than yesterday. Corn Products responded nicely to news of the extra dividend disbursement. It moved up 4¼ points.

MAY OPERATING NET OF PENNSY OFF $5,950,570

The net operating income of the Pennsylvania railroad in May amounted to $3,690,063, or $5,950,570 less than in the like period a year ago.

The gross revenues for May, 1931, totaled $39,310,633 against $51,895,442 a year ago. Operating expenses totaled $31,379,346, a decrease of $6,189,103 in the comparable period of 1930. Deducting expenses from revenues left a net revenue of $7,931,287 against $14,326,983 in May, 1930.

The company's statement shows gross revenues slumped from $246,203,572 for the first five months of 1930 to $195,113,926 in a like period this year. For the same periods net operating income dropped from $39,146,029 in 1930 to $18,238,168 this year.

Standard of Ind. Cuts Third Grade Gas Price

The service station price of third grade gasoline will be reduced by the Standard Oil Company of Indiana in the Chicago area, effective this morning, to 7 cents a gallon, plus tax. The reduction is being made to meet cut prices, which have been posted extensively by other marketers. The other grades of gasoline will not be affected.

Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing.

Please give me the present rating of Allis-Chalmers 5 per cent bonds, due 1937. Is it a good bond to buy and hold?—J. E. B.

About 50 per cent of the business of Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing company is in electrical equipment. The other 50 per cent is production of heavy machinery, including steam engines and farm implements.

Several important acquisitions have been made recently. In June, 1931, directors approved the purchase of the assets of American Brown Boveri Company, Inc. On June 1, 1931, control of Advance Rumely corporation was acquired. In 1929 the company acquired the assets of La Crosse Plow company and in 1928 the assets of Monarch Tractor company were purchased.

Operations in 1930 were regarded as satisfactory in view of general conditions. Sales, bookings, and net income were second largest in the last decade, being exceeded only by results in 1929.

Fixed charges were earned 5.39 times in 1930, against 6.29 times in 1929 and 4.60 times in 1928. On May 29, 1931, it was stated that the company was currently operating on a five day week basis.

On May 31, 1931, unfilled orders total $9,813,000. On Dec. 31, 1930, unfilled orders were $13,012,000, against $12,872,000 at the end of 1929.

Net profit, after all charges, for the first quarter of 1931, was $482,807, against $1,170,937 in the first quarter of 1930. Bookings were $6,450,788, against $14,661,418 for the first quarter of 1930.

On Dec. 31, 1930, current assets were $25,334,394 and current liabilities were $5,589,210.

The 5 per cent debentures, due May 1, 1937, are regarded as reasonably sound.

General Electric.

I would like to know what dividends have been declared on the common stock of General Electric corporation this year and the ex dividend dates.—C. I. T.

A dividend of 40 cents per common share is payable July 25 to stock of record June 26, 1931. One of 40 cents was paid April 25 to stock of record March 13, 1931, and another of like amount was paid Jan. 24, 1931, to stock of record Dec. 19, 1930.

Big Five Tunnel, Ore Reduction and Transportation.

Please tell me what happened to Big Five Tunnel, Ore Reduction and Transportation company.—L. F.

Big Five Tunnel, Ore Reduction and Transportation company [Colorado] was not successful in developing any profitable ores. Creditors finally forced it out of business in 1908. The stock has been carried at zero in transfer tax proceedings. We regard it as worthless.

McClintic-Marshall Gets the Contract.

BY AL CHASE.

What is claimed is the second largest contract for structural steel ever awarded in the Chicago area was signed yesterday by the Marshall Field estate with the McClintic-Marshall corporation for 25,000 tons to be used in the two units of the new Field office building, to occupy an entire block of frontage on Adams, between La Salle and Clark.

Eighteen thousand tons of carbon steel and 7,000 tons of silicon steel will be required. All columns below the 24th floor will be of silicon steel, while the floor members, beams, girders and belumns above the 24th story will be of carbon steel.

Work to Start Next Fall.

Work on the new forty-three story structure will start in the fall. The first unit will be ready for occupancy in the spring of 1933 and the second unit in the spring of 1934. The contract calls for delivery of steel to start in January of next year and to continue at regular intervals into 1933.

Contracts for razing the old Home Insurance building, at the northeast corner of La Salle and Adams, on which site the first unit will be constructed, recently were awarded to the W. J. Newman Wrecking Co. Work will start Oct. 1.

At Diversey and Clark.

Rental activity at the intersection of Clark and Diversey is evidenced by the negotiating of two leases yesterday in the building at the southeast corner, owned by Harry R. Kurran and Mandel Lowenstine. These were closed following the announcement that the owners would completely remodel the structure, installing new store fronts and modernizing the building throughout.

The National Tea company, which formerly occupied a small store, 17x48, on the Clark street side of the building, has leased 35x105, comprising two stores, for ten years at an undisclosed consideration.

Take Space in Rear.

The United Cigar Stores, Inc., have renewed their lease on the corner store, 14x30, for ten years. They also have leased considerable space in the rear which will be in an addition to be erected by the owners. Mr. Kurran and Mr. Lowenstine own a frontage of 166 feet on Diversey parkway and 100 feet on North Clark street. Kurt Rosenthal, of Rosenthal, Mayer & Lewis, negotiated both leases. The United Cigar store is at 2747 North Clark and the National Tea is at 2739-41 North Clark.

The Walgreen Co. has leased the southwest corner of Walden parkway and 103d street, in Beverly Hills, 40x100, from the National Tea Co., for ten years. The building is now being completed. Gus C. Manos represented the lessee.

OFFICIAL WEATHER REPORT.

Lower Michigan—Partly cloudy Saturday and Sunday, some likelihood of local thunderstorms, warmer Saturday in extreme east portion.

Upper Michigan—Mostly fair Saturday except possibly local thundershowers; partly cloudy to cloudy Sunday, thundershowers by afternoon or night; continued warm.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Wheat traders were more mixed in their sentiment at the close last night. Those who were down late and knew of the Hoover-Stone statement, which announced no change in the farm board's policy in disposing of its 200,000,000 bu or more of old wheat, considered it bearish and predicted lower prices, although a few are inclined to the belief that should cables be higher there might be a little bulge before the break. An evening up of trades for the week, with increased hedging pressure, was considered as likely to help in carrying prices lower.

Shorts in July corn are becoming nervous and bidding prices up, and at 61¾c, corn was 2½c above July wheat. While the farm board is shipping out wheat to make room for receipts of corn, cash interests are taking advantage of the situation and bringing in corn from the country and from other markets. Where country buyers are able to pay 50c at loading stations corn held at that price is being rapidly cleaned out, it is said.

High temperatures in the best oats sections of Illinois and possibly in Iowa have caught a large acreage in oats in a critical period and fears are entertained by farmers and oat speculators that the crop will be badly damaged and turn out to be light weight. Commission houses have good buying orders for oat futures, which advanced prices. Northwestern interests were said to be the leading sellers.

Broomhall's early cable said Russia is offering large quantities of wheat for August loading and reports total shipments for this season just under 91,000,000 bu.

SCORCHING HEAT AROUSES FEARS OF CROP DAMAGE

Corn Advances Over 2c; Oats Veer Upward.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

A very severe market has developed in corn and oats as the result of abnormally high temperatures for this time of the year, combined with a lack of seasonal moisture over part of the principal producing areas. This is the first time the country generally showed anxiety as to the outcome of the new crops, and there was a decided tendency in outside trade, with considerable comments backed by buying orders. While no actual damage of consequence were reported to corn, there were numerous messages expressing the belief that the oats crop had been damaged and the latter grain is now rapidly approaching the critical period of growth.

Corn was the market leader and, in general commission house and trade buying, prices advanced 2¼@ over the finish of Thursday to a new high on the movement and to the highest figures since May 13, with the trading 61¼c and the December which represents the new crop, the shorts in July covered freely and it gained fractionally on the September. In the last week December has advanced 7⅝c, taking the difference between the high and low.

Corn Closes Near Top.

The memory of last year's big bull trade in corn is still fresh in the minds of the grain trade, and some have expressed the belief that the latter conditions in parts of the belt are shaping themselves for a repetition of the disaster in the Ohio valley and other sections in 1930, which resulted in the smallest crop of any harvested since 1901. Prices in the December were readily advanced and the finish was within a fraction of the top at 52¾c, showing a net gain of 2¼c. The nearby deferred closed 1⅞c higher, with July and September 58⅛@ [illegible].

Others who have been holding back their cash corn for 50c or more and country leading stations took advantage of the bulge in the July to 60c to bu to arrive, and there was considerable selling of the future by commission houses on the part of it being regarded as [illegible]. Shipping demand, however, was the best in some time past, with sales of 185,000 bu.

Relief from the continued dry and hot weather was held out in the cool, and temperatures of 100 and above were again reported in the west.

Oats Show Activity.

The oats market showed more activity at times for some time and advanced 2@3c above Thursday's finish and closed ½@¾c higher, with the July 1c over September 2½c, and December 2½c. Reports indicating there was no damage to the new crop from numerous Illinois and Iowa points, while the crop in parts of the Northwest has also been hurt. However, it is expected to take some time before it is possible to determine whether the damage is material or not. At the top today prices showed 2½@3c above the low of last week.

The wheat market made only a fair response to the strength in coarse grains, and although Chairman Stone was reported to have been unexpectedly called to the White House for a conference with President Hoover, this was regarded as having to do with the farm board's wheat policy, and prices advanced only 1¼@1¾c from Thursday's finish.

According to Minneapolis messages, the Farmers' National Grain corporation was out of its holdings of June wheat there and had ceased selling. This was reflected in an advance of 2¾c in the July to 65c, and also in a firmer tone in the selling of futures in the Chicago market as a hedge against purchases of June at Minneapolis by [illegible].

Some Gains at Close.

Export trades at Chicago were at times reported as [illegible] of ¾@⅞c, selling against the [illegible] hedging pressure from the [illegible] being a factor in checking the advance. July finished at 58⅛c, September 58⅝@59¼c, and December 61¼@61⅝c. There were 941 cars of wheat received during the day at the leading markets, and the cash sales at Kansas City was quoted as [illegible] as compared with the [illegible] No. 1 hard winter at the gulf [illegible] as reported as offered at Chicago [illegible] price, with 1c under bid, [illegible] no business of consequence in the new or old crop grain developed during the day.

Exports of Russian offerings is being more pronounced in Europe, with Liverpool closed ½@⅝c in consequence, the July being 60¾c. Winnipeg gained ⅝@⅞c for the day, with July 65¼c. It was claimed that Russian wheat for deferred shipment could be bought c. i. f. Europe at [illegible] less than it could be laid down from American gulf ports.

BUTTER AND EGGS HIGHER

Firmness continued in butter and egg futures on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, the markets advancing fractionally, despite heavy pressure. November butter gained ¼c, June ¼c, and July ¾c. November eggs advanced ⅝@¾c and June ¾c. Idaho potatoes were off 2c, round whites 1c, and Green mountains up 2c. The gains in butter and eggs again resulted from good storage news. The four markets reported 277,000 lbs less butter in and 5,000 cases less eggs in, the latter despite the fact that the year ago movement was very light. Buying was aggressive, overbearing the active selling that enters on every advance. Sales: Butter, 153 cars; eggs, 86 cars; potatoes, 5 cars. Deliveries: Butter, 8 cars; eggs, 3 cars. Prices follow:

COTTON AT NEW HIGHS

Cotton markets were active yesterday and advanced to new high levels, with a close around the top. At the high point prices were up 2c a lb, equal to $10.00 a bale inside of three weeks. Net gains for the day were 40@48 points in Chicago, equal to more than $2.00 a bale. Gains in New Orleans were 40@47 points, and New York 42@45 points. Spots advanced 45 points. New York being 10.35c, New Orleans 10.20c, Galveston 10.35c, and Houston 10.25c. Liverpool closed 6@6 points net higher, with spot sales 4,000 bales.

Trading was active with offerings readily absorbed on every weak spot. Strengthening influences abroad were France's acceptance of Hoover's plans for loan agreement, also the advance in grains and stocks, particularly the latter. Buying orders were more numerous and of larger size than at any time of late and were said to be for Indian account.

Reports from Worth street were of quieter buying. Spinners' takings of American cotton for the week were 129,000 bales, against 146,000 bales last week and 143,000 bales last year. Into sight movement for week was 12,520 bales, against 19,044 bales the previous week and 37,000 bales last year. Visible supply decreased 115,000 bales, against 140,000 bales last year, total being 5,656,000 bales, against 5,532,000 bales last year. Preliminary estimates of acreage is 41,038,000 acres, a decrease of 10.4 per cent from the 45,815,000 acres planted last year, the lowest since 1923.
